A&P Opening New Super Market July 9

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Completely Air Conditioned, It Features Most Modern in Every Department

Tecumseh's new and modern A&P super market will open Wednesday, July 9, announces Ros Betz, vice-president of the company's Toledo unit.

Located at N. Evans and Herrick Park drive, the new store will provide almost twice the floor space as that contained in the former location at 117 S. Evans.

It will employ 30 full and part-time people as compared to 15 under the previous setup.

Opening of the new store will highlight nearly 40 years of A&P service in Tecumseh.

A group of company officials will be present for the opening ceremonies. A special program of awards and giveaways has been planned to celebrate the grand opening.

Vice-president Betz said the new air-conditioned store has been designed to conform to findings of a comprehensive survey of the Tecumseh area. "We hope," he said, "customers will be as proud and as pleased with what they see in this store as we are."

The new super market contains virtually all of the latest innovations in food retailing. Refrigeration plays a leading role in maintaining high quality perishable items at their best from the standpoint of both taste and nutrition.

One of the outstanding features of the new store is the self-service meat department, incorporating a new-type refrigerated production conveyor for the preparation of meat items. Under the new setup, meat items are weighed, packaged, labeled and priced in full view of the customer.

This modern super market has received special color treatment throughout to produce pleasant and enjoyable shopping for consumers. Walls behind the departments have been color-keyed to the department to enhance the effect.

With paved parking facilities for more than 100 cars, the spacious building has been engineered for quick, convenient shopping. A battery of four checkout stands and automatic doors are also included in the setup.

Alton L. Snyder, an A&P employee for nearly 18 years and manager of the present store, will continue as manager of the new store.

Other key employees are: Keith K. Kurtz, meat department head; Clement R. LaFerriere, in the grocery department; Roland E. Boyers, in the produce department, and Joan R. Bihlmeyer, head checker.

LAST-MINUTE CHECK — A&P manager Alton Snyder goes over a list of items that are being brought into the new super market which swings wide its doors next Wednesday. Completely air-conditioned and with space for 100 cars in its parking lot, the new layout should prove an attractive mecca for area housewives.

THE Long & Short OF IT

ABOUT 300 TINY—BUT FIRM—voices asked an assortment of 300 sets of parents the same question Saturday.

"Can we go see Sagebrush and Skinny?"

And in almost every case, the answer was a slow, but never-the-less affirmative reply.

The personalities so many little ones were literally dying to see were Sagebrush Shorty and Skinny Dugan of Sunday-morning TV fame.

Sagebrush and Skinny were guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their annual Homecoming and Carnival last week. For the small fry this was the highlight Saturday.

And they weren't a bit disappointed.

Outfitted in cowboy garb, just as he dresses on television, Sagebrush held a couple of balloon-blowing contests, then slipped Skinny from his suitcase.

Skinny is a dummy with which Sagebrush has rigged a variety of gimmicks — makes his ears, nose and hair wiggle, tongue stick out.

The stage from which the entertainer worked was completely engulfed with children and if they had been permitted to press forward another inch, Sagebrush would have been swallowed up by the crowd.

He capped his act by passing out autographed pictures of himself and Skinny, each youngster tramping over the impromptu stage to receive the gift from Shorty.

The rest of the Jaycee promotion was mainly carnival with kiddie rides, ferris wheel, merry-go-round, bug and assorted other rides invented to jar the human stomach until it couldn't be jarred anymore.

A long row of old-fashioned pitch-and-win games milked the quarters and half dollars from the swirling mobs. The term recession seemed to have no place in the scheme of things here.

Right in the middle of the midway was a penny-pitch conducted by the Jaycee auxiliary—sort of an oasis in the midst of the carney desert.

A friend of ours, when discussing the carnival, opined what a wonderful thing it might be if the organizations in town could be prevailed upon to join under the Jaycee banner and help stage strictly hometown carnivals.

This would take a tremendous job of organization, but if managed properly could bring a lot of satisfaction to many citizens.

Clubs and churches could each be responsible for a booth or ride. The homecoming aspect might be enlarged and made a real time for folks to come back and visit Tecumseh.

There could be special under-the-stars entertainment with concerts and variety shows. The possibilities are limitless when it comes to this.

Of course, meals as prepared by local church groups are always big hits.

Rodeo on Fourth

The B Bar J Ranch—west of Clinton on Pennington road — will hold its second Fourth of July rodeo Friday.

The Midwest's top cowboys will be competing for cash prizes in five major events. In case you've never seen such competition we're quite sure you'll find these exciting contests.

Similar to honest-to-goodness Western rodeos, cowboys will try their luck at calf roping, bare-back bronc riding and bull dogging and pit their wits against Brahama bulls in Brahama bull riding competition and saddle broncs in a riding contest.

☆

SPECIAL entertainment has been planned which the kiddies and their parents should both enjoy.

B Bar J Ranch will present the Wushte Nong Indian Dancers, The Bucking Ford and Hi Yo the clown and his football kicking mule, Ozark.

The rodeo can be found on July 4 at the B Bar J Ranch, four miles north of Tecumseh, then three miles east on Pennington road.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Spence, Jr., the ranch has a shaded picnic area and guests are invited to bring lunches.

No alcoholic beverages will be permitted on the grounds.

Tickets are $1.25 for adults, youths 10 to 14 for 75c, and youngsters under 10 free.

Mexican Supper Will Be July 13

A Mexican supper will be open to the public at St. Elizabeth's Sunday, July 13.

It is sponsored by the newly-organized Society of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, a group composed of Spanish-speaking members of the parish.

Ticket will be $1 for adults and 35c for children.

Although all dishes being served are native Mexican, "they won't all be red hot," states one of the dinner committee.

The new Society meets once a

Some 800 people are expected to attend the Sunday morning event. Breakfast is to be $1 for adults and 75c for children with area folks invited.

Personnel from Grosse Ile Naval Air Station are scheduled to be on hand for an air rescue demonstration complete with three helicopters.

Tecumseh CAP members will assist the Exchange Club with traffic and field problems.

Oldest in State

Tecumseh can claim the oldest living thing in the state of Michigan. Leon Rosacrans reports to The Herald that the title belongs to an elm tree which is on the creek behind the new Kroger store building. This property formerly belonged to Mrs. Doris Branigin.

With weather conditions favorable most of the time, the Jaycees had good crowds, netted almost $1,000 on the venture.

Coreen Marsh, Avery Pool Exchange Vows on Saturday

Rev. Charles Marsh returned to Tecumseh Saturday to officiate at the wedding ceremony of his niece, Coreen Marsh, and Avery L. Pool.

The ceremony took place at 7 p.m. in the Friends Church. He was assisted by Rev. Paul Brantingham, pastor of the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, John R. Marsh of 5561 Green highway, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pool of Kingsbury Road, Deerfield.

Baskets of garden flowers and palms enhanced the altar of the church and the family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. Joseph Church sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony, accompanied by Mrs. Amos Wilson.

MRS. AVERY POOL

The bride was lovely in a gown of white chantilly lace over satin featuring a rose motif jeweled sabrina neckline and traditional bridal sleeves ending in points over the wrists.

The floor length skirt fell from a basque waist and her finger-tip illusion veil was held in place by a matching lace crown.

SHE CARRIED a white lace covered Bible topped with a purple orchid, pink sweetheart roses and white ribbon streamers.

The bride was attended by Bonnie Westcott as maid of honor; Nancy Spivey and Sandra Staulter as bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of white velvet dotted nylon over colored taffeta in ballerina length with boat necklines, full skirts, and white sashes.

They wore figure eight lace caps studded with rhinestones and carried lace fans with white carnations and ribbon streamers to match their dresses.

Miss Wescott wore blue, Miss Spivey wore yellow and Miss Staulter wore pink.

Norbert Marsh, brother of the bride, was best man and guests were seated by Harvey Bowers and Charles King.

☆

MRS. DAVID WATSON, aunt of the bride, wore a turquoise print nylon dress with white accessories and Mrs. Pool chose a maroon crepe dress with white accessories. Both wore white carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony for the 200 guests with a four tiered wedding cake trimmed in pink centering the bride's table. It was encircled with flowers and flanked with candles.

For their one week wedding trip through Pennsylvania, the new Mrs. Pool chose a black linen sheath accented with white daisy lace and white accessories. She pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet to her shoulder.

Mrs. Naomi Sallows was hostess for the reception assisted by Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Lowell Wise, Mr. Gerald Miller, Sylvia Swanon, all cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Anna Ferguson, aunt of the groom.

Dessert was served preceding the opening of the many lovely gifts Miss Bashore received. An amusing report was read by Mrs. Woods of the remarks the bride-elect made as she opened the gifts.

The gift table was centered with an attractively dressed miniature doll in navy and pink.

Miss Bashore and James Krske will be married in the First Baptist Church July 12.

Another shower was given Saturday afternoon honoring Miss Bashore at the home of Mrs. Eddie Bock near Britton. She was assisted by Mrs. Allan Barrett and Sylvia Helzerman.

Dr. William Baker of the First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The soloist was Mrs. Kenneth Woodward of Decatur, Illinois who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Richard Wegner at the organ.

Tall white hampers filled with white delphiniums and lilies with natural green palms formed the background.

The tall gold altar vases were filled with white delphinium and were flanked on either side with lighted gold cathedral candelabra.

☆

THE WINDOWS in the sanctuary were lighted with white candles in arrangements of greens with flat white bows and the center aisle was marked with white satin bows backed with greens and lilies.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of pure silk taffeta underlined with tulle. A tiny lace cap held in place the short illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis interspersed with tiny strands of ivy and tufts of white tulle.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Flora, as maid of honor; Nancy, as junior bridesmaid and Donna and Mrs. Lawrence Geresy of Three Rivers, as bridesmaids.

They wore identical gowns of bud green chiffon over taffeta with sleeveless bodices, rounded necklines and full ballerina-length skirts featuring a harem drape at the side. ☆

MSU Experts Predict Better Times Coming

EAST LANSING—The current business recession appears to have reached the "bottoming-out" stage, but full recovery may be a long time in coming, according to business and economic analysts at Michigan State University.

Their view is that while the course of business continues downward, the rate of decline is slowing and the recession won't go much deeper. Recovery will be another problem.

"We are near the bottom of the slump," says Dr. Thomas Mayer, assistant professor of economics. He warned, however, that "we may bump along for quite a while with high unemployment before we reach the turning point. Even then we won't have full employment for many months."

Another business authority, Dr. John H. Hoagland, states, prices in general have continued to press upward, thus the dangers of inflation remain a serious threat to the future course of business."

Agricultural economists Dale E. Hathaway and William Cromarty think the recession probably will not reduce prices on items farmers use in production.

"Thus, net incomes of farmers from farming will probably average at or below 1957 levels," they point out. "About one third of farm family income in 1957 came from work done off the farm, a source likely to be sharply reduced this year."

You Told Us

BY DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Real summer weather has arrived at last to the great happiness of countless children who prefer to take their swimming lessons when the breezes aren't quite as cool as they were through the month of June.

√

The warm weather Monday made our new Linotype operator, Ernie, threaten to take a bath in the iced tea if we didn't stop giving him copy telling of showers and cool breezeways when he was sweltering over the temperamental old machine.

√

It's possible ice tea will take the place of coffee for the Vanishing Hours if the heat stays with us.

So far 360 hostesses have held the parties in their homes with about 1,400 people participating including areas in Palmyra, Blissfield, Hudson and Cambridge townships. The proceeds to date: $425.

Mrs. Charles Stevenson is doig a fine job, as the Hospital Auxiliary treasurer, in counting the funds as they are left at the United Savings Bank, but still the proceeds are not coming in compared to the parties held.

Those in charge of the project are anxious to keep it moving so that forms as well as proceeds will not be held at any one home while vacations are going on.

If hostesses will be prompt in turning in the money as well as distributing the forms they have to their guests the project can be completed soon.

√

Catherine Claire O'Brien is spending some time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Beland at Sand Lake. Mrs. Naomi O'Brien and family are expected there about the middle of the month.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas King of Oscoda, Michigan were in Tecumseh Sunday and Monday. They recently moved to Oscoda from Tecumseh.

√

Mrs. LaVern Seizert was called to St. Louis, Missouri last week by the serious illness of her brother, Oscar Ruhl, who is the editorial director of Sporting News, a baseball magazine issued weekly. He also writes a column called "The Ruhl Book" for the magazine.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shrevino and daughter were in Grand Rapids Saturday to attend the wedding of a cousin.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Leetka will be guests this weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lawson.

√

Mrs. Ella Aten is ill at the home of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McConnell. She suffered a stroke recently.

√

Mr. and Mrs. George Kielwasser of Whitemore Lake were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Gove.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Peck were called to Cleveland Wednesday for the funeral service of her aunt, Mrs. Roy Kindleberger.

√

The Pecks are expecting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reinacker, and niece, Bonnie Bleau, from Nitro, West Virginia to arrive here Thursday. Bonnie will remain for an indefinite stay and the Reinackers will spend several days.

√

Pvt. Edwin Covell of the U.S. Marine Corps left Willow Run Sunday evening for Camp Pendleton, Calif, after spending 20 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Covell of West Logan street.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hayford and sons were in Columbus, Ohio, last week to visit her parents.

√

2/Lt. John Brown and Mrs. Brown (nee Diane Dillon) are in Florida where he is stationed at Tyndall Air Force Base. Mrs. Brown spent some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dillon, here before joining her husband in Florida where they have rented an apartment on the Gulf at Mexico Beach about 10 miles south of Panama City.

It is expected that Lt. Brown will be sent to Germany for 2½ years soon.

√

Mrs. Fred Nobles of 410 East Pottawatamie street reports that a four year old Easter lily plant which she has growing in her garden has 14 buds on it with two just about to open. This is the most buds it has ever had.

Legion Wins County Crown

Tecumseh's Junior Legion baseball team won the Lenawee county championship by nipping Adrian, 5 to 4, Saturday.

Going into the tilt, the two crews were tied in county play.

Tecumseh now enters the district tournament at Monroe, July 22, 23 and 24. Winners from Washtenau, Monroe and Jackson counties also are taking part.

In winning its title, Tecumseh had to punch over four runs in the last inning to beat Adrian.

☆

THE RALLY started with a single by Bob Wilkens. Tom Judkins and Clifford Rogers walked to fill the bases.

Wayne McCarty came through with a double that brought Wilkins and Judkins over the plate. Rogers tried to make it, too, but was caught.

McCarty went to third on this play and scored on a bunt single by Dennis Harrison.

Harris stole second, scampered home with the winning run when Steve Kruger flied out.

Judkins was on the hill for Tecumseh, striking out six and allowing the same number of hits.

Vacationing at Home

So you're vacationing at home this year.

Well, you're not alone in your choice—lots of folks nowadays vacation right in their own back yards.

Look at the advantages — no traffic to contend with, no tired children in the back seat, no worry about accommodations.

But you will have to be just about as cautious at home as if you were vacationing hundreds of miles away, the National Safety Council says. "Your vacation at home," it says, "must be safe low a few rules." For example:

1. Water's water, whether it's a distant beach or a back yard pool. Small children never should use a home pool except when supervised by an adult. (It's a good idea, by the way, for everyone to take along a partner when he goes swimming.)

2. Don't let the man of the family overdo things. Mr. Fix-It probably will try to do all the repair jobs in two weeks that have accumulated the rest of the year. Keep your man alive. Urge him to take things easy and work moderately during his vacation.

3. Just because you're not driving to your vacation spot doesn't mean you're free of traffic danger. Most fatal crashes occur within 25 miles of the victim's home. And make sure a child isn't behind your car when you back up.

to be happy. It can be if you follow these simple rules.

Sunday school at Macon Methodist Church will begin at 9:45 a.m. instead of 10:00. The service will be held from 9:45 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. This will leave 15 minutes before church services for the choirs to assemble.

Macon board of education met Monday evening. At this time Robert Osborne was elected chairman; Hamilton F. Moore, secretary, and Mrs. Ray Williams, treasurer.

A vice chairman and superintendent will be named at a later date. Rally day is to be observed Sept. 28 with a fellowship dinner.

A picnic for the church and Sunday school is being planned for July. Robert Osborne is chairman and Frances Collins is in charge of entertainment.

Heading the table committee are Helen Williams and Mildred Moore and Lina Kuder is park chairman.

A new class is being organized for young married people. A nursery for small children is to be available.

Duo Completes Cruise Up and Down River

Robert H. Moore and his son-in-law, Richard Fielder, have completed a 2,200 mile motorboat run down the Mississippi River and return which took them nine days.

They completed the trip from the headwaters of the River Raisin near Bundy Hill, to Monroe, across Lake Erie to Toledo, up the Maumee River and by other water courses to the little Wabash River.

This route, completed earlier in trial spins, took them to Shawneetown, Ill., there they took a 16 foot boat and a 35 horse power outboard for the cruise down the Mississippi.

The duo made the first stage of their trip on weekends and would return to Tecumseh by car.

On the Mississippi run they averaged 150 miles a day. One day they made 257 miles. Each night they stopped at motels and ate only lunch on the boat.

After going aground near Greenville, Miss., they ruled out night cruising.

They were met by their wives at Channelview, Texas, after crossing Lake Pontchartrain in a storm.

Marine Private Takes Training

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. — Marine Pfc. Lee R. E. Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Marsh of 601 Herrick Park drive, finished four weeks of individual combat training June 27 at the Marine Corps Base here.

Trainees learn that all Marines are basically infantrymen, whether they serve as cooks, typists, truck drivers, or with aviation units.

Follow These 10 Safety Tips While Swimming

The following 10 safety precautions will prevent most drownings:

1. Learn to swim. To save your life, you can't think of a better sport.

2. Always swim with another person. Make sure someone is nearby to help if you get into trouble.

3. Swim in a safe place. The presence of lifeguards usually indicates the area is safe for swimming.

4. Know the area. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and that there are no hidden objects such as submerged rocks.

5. Respect the water and know your limitations. Water can be a good friend or a deadly enemy. Don't go beyond safe limits or your ability.

6. Use discretion. Don't swim right after eating or when overheated or overtired.

7. Try to remain calm in case of trouble. Assume a face up floating position, keep your hands under water and slowly move your hands and feet.

8. Keep safety equipment in your boat or canoe. Unless you're really an exprt swimmer, it is wise, when riding in a small craft, to wear a life vest.

9. Stay with your boat or canoe. Most small craft will float even when filled with water or overturned.

10. Don't overpower your boat. A motor too powerful for your boat makes it difficult to control and may cause upsets or other accidents.

State Police Expect Action on Fourth

Good as the Memorial holiday week end traffic record was, State Police are hoping for even a better record over the Fourth of July week end, and are going to do their part to help bring about that result.

While the remainder of the nation was reaching a new high in traffic deaths for the Memorial week end, Michigan's total was less than the year before with only 12, or one every six and one-half hours.

Last year's Fourth of July toll was one death every five and one-tenth hours, or 20 for the 102-hour period. Because of the shorter week end this year, the death toll will be computed over a 78-hour period beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday, July 3, and ending at midnight Sunday, July 6.

The worst Fourth of July in the last eight years was in 1953, with a death every one and nine-tenths hours, or 28 in the 52-hour period.

State Police will be geared to full operating strength for the holiday period, with intensified patrols from noon Thursday to midnight Sunday. They have been assigned 128 National Guardsmen and another 96 will assist sheriffs.

Pass days of all State Police officers have been canceled, with detectives taking post desk assignments to release officers for additional patrols. Shifts have been lengthened to 10 hours.

Plain and semi-marked cars will be used as well as the regular marked cars.

"The Fourth of July fatality record is usually higher than over Memorial day," said Commissioner Childs, "and with the possibility of a new high volume of traffic it means every driver must be thoroughly vigilant. If everyone co-operates and does as he should, the death toll can be brought down. Be safe by observing the rules of the road."

TECUMSEH HERALD PHOTO

Pool Lives Up to Dedication

"That the laughter of happy children at play may be a living memorial to Joyce Andrews."
Plaque at Tecumseh swimming pool.

My MARY SEAGER

Each day now, the Tecumseh pool sees these words become reality.

Built in 1954, the summer recreation center is a beehive of activity.

It was constructed in honor of nine-year-old Joyce Andrews, a fourth grader at Central school who was a drowning victim the summer before.

The activities for children at the pool are provided by the city.

There are well-attended swimming lessons in the mornings from 9 to noon and regular swimming the rest of the time. Swimmers are guarded continually by qualified life savers.

THE POOL is at the extreme north end of the athletic field near Evans Creek.

There is a wading pool in front for all children under six years of age, is filled with the same filtered, chlorinated and heated water as the larger tank.

The larger pool is 25 meters (a meter is 39.3 inches) long, 40 feet wide, and holds 185,000 gallons of water). The water at the deep end is nine feet, at the rope is four feet, and the shallow end is three feet.

A 78 degree temperature is constantly maintained.

The pool is equipped with a diatomaceous earth filter with chlorine added at the rate prescribed by the State Health Department. The water is a bright, clear blue all the time.

☆

LESSONS ARE given for beginners, junior intermediates, intermediates, swimmers and lifesaving each week-day morning.

The demand for lessons has been so great this year the pool is running two series of classes, one from June 16 to July 11, the other July 14 to August 8.

There are about 375 children signed up for lessons now.

Although some swimers complain about the safety rules posted around the pool, these are for their own protection. As for water safety, mostly good sound common sense is used.

Majority of patrons are between seven and 15-years-old.

Because good training in swimming is necessary to have a child that is safe in water, the swimming pool plays an essential role in the life of the community.

The pool provides the training and the place to use it for the town's children.

Everyone is welcome to make use of its excellent facilities.

Greenfield Village Expects Big Season

Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, the indoor and outdoor museum of America founded by automotive pioneer Henry Ford, is ready for what may be its biggest tourist season.

With the 1958 summer months ahead, attendance already is running more than 5,000 better than last year's record mark, museum officials said. In 1957, the museum and village attracted nearly 875,000 visitors for a new high.

A new attendance mark for a single month was set in August of last year when 198,815 persons saw the two attractions.

Located in Dearborn, 15 miles from downtown Detroit, the village covers 200 acres and the museum an additional 11. Both are dedicated to the preservation and display of historically significant technological, educational and artistic Americana.

Two Elected at Girls State

ANN ARBOR — Free elections and representatives chosen by the people are the basis of a democratic government.

Some 360 Michigan high school girls, selected for their "outstanding qualities," are learning about these democratic principles at the 18th annual Girl's State held on the University of Michigan campus.

Two of them are from Tecumseh—Joanne Wing and Johanna Young — both elected to the House of Representatives.

Sponsored by the Michigan Department, American Legion Auxiliary, the 10-day Girl's State session is designed to acquint the girls with first hand observation and participation in the workings of government. Recreation and community living are also pact of the integrated program.

During the past week 36 representatives and 18 senators were nominated and elected by those attending Girl's State.

The girls introduced bills, held committee meetings and took part in legislative debates as part of the program.

☆

ALL OF THE girls attending from Tecumseh seem to be of the opinion that it was a valuable experience.

Joanne said, "It was marvelous, we learned such a lot and yet had such a good time. The speakers were a lot of help, especially Virginia Baird, womens editor of the State Journal in Lansing. She spoke on the 'Status of Women' and helped us to understand the importance of a career and why we should plan to attend a college."

Johanna said, "I certainly learned a lot about government that I didn't know and I'm sure it will help me in my class work next year. We also learned what went on at conventions."

☆

MARY LOU McCONNELL said, "The girls there were outstanding and the staff, tops. It was fun to learn from them. I especially enjoyed the mock trial of a girl who was convicted of smuggling a boy into her room and feeding him chocolate cake, which she had stolen.

"After the appeals to the circuit and state supreme court failed, she was finally pardoned by the governor."

Marilyn said, "It was terrific, after the whole session was over you realized how much you had learned from the whole program about government, not only in our own town, but throughout the state and nation."

During Summer Goodwill Gets Fewer Donations

There is always a decline in the amount of repairable discards donated to Goodwill Industries during the summer months.

So states Mrs. Carl Burch, 201 W. Shawnee street, Tecumseh's Goodwill telephone representative.

Without these discards, the workers, who are on a day-to-day pay basis, will receive no checks.

The next visit of Goodwill Industries' pickup trucks to Tecumseh will be July 8. Goodwill workers collect household discards of clothing, shoes, hats, toys, most types of furniture and other household articles.

To arrange for a Goodwill Industries truck to call at your home, contact Mrs. Burch at 868.

On Summer Schedule

St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church is now on its summer schedule with Masse at 7:30 and 10 a.m.

July 4 being first Friday of the month, Mass will be at 8 p.m., announces Fr. Thomas Collins, with confession heard 55 minute before the service.

One quart of fresh strawberries gives about five one-half cup servings.

"Just what is compound interest?"

It is the special kind of "rent" that our bank pays our savings depositors for the use of their money. Savings balances here draw interest not only on deposits but also on interest previously earned. This return — yours without your assuming any of the risks of investment — helps build up the backlog of money-in-the-bank that you are setting aside for long-range goals, or for emergencies. Why not deposit your savings here at our bank, where service and helpfulness are the rule; where your money is safe and handy — and "works for you" by earning compound interest?

Through My Window

BRINGING YOU UP TO DATE

Many of you have been so kind in letting us know that you are sharing the adventures outside our window with us. We certainly appreciate your nice letters, phone calls and even personal visits.

It is impossible to answer all your thoughtful notes but since so many of you have expressed an interest, we thought perhaps you would enjoy being brought up to date, a continuation of some past articles as it were.

Gertie's duck is fine and still enjoying his status as "lone duck on the creek." He is getting bigger and whiter all the time.

Lately we have noticed that he has several new tricks; one is cute, the other quite daring. When hungry he still struggles up the creek bank and waddles across her back yard to the door.

But now, instead of merely standing and waiting, he rattles his corn dish. Taking the dish in his bill and clanking it against the concrete terrace is most effective in getting someone with a fresh supply of corn.

The daring and dashing trick also involves pladding up the creek bank. After reaching the top, the duck takes off with several awkward flops of his long wings.

He sails in a steep downward slanting flight and when about three feet above the water in the middle of the creek suddenly he collapses and falls in with a big splash.

Such fun—he will do this time after time.

THE TREE ROADS are invisible now. The curtains of green leaves have been pulled down tight. Only occasionally can we tell by a quick glimpse of a reddish brown fur or a sudden jerking of the leaves that the squirrels are still playing along their old highways.

The squirrels are around, however, and we have had fun watching four at once. They scurry around the ground and, of course, are still great freeloaders. Two of our squirrels are in good shape but the other two have bad tails.

One has a bare spot near the end and the other has a large hunk of fur out of the middle. We haven't quite decided what caused these bare spots—except for their ragged tails the fur of both squirrels seems to be in perfect condition and they are both possessed of boundless energy, so I hope we have rightfully ruled out the mange or poor health. It is fun watching the squirrels on the lawn and at the feeders, but we do miss seeing them as they sail through the tree tops.

☆

THE NEIGHBORHOOD Gossiping Association has, I am sad to report, been decreased by one. Fun loving, wild running Rivets was hit by a car and killed early in the spring.

The whole group sorely missed gypsy Rivets but, of course, Duke mourned him most and the longest. Now though, like the duck, he has resigned himself to the lonely life and finds that it does have its compensations.

For awhile he was treated with special deference by the Neighborhood Association and now, even though that has worn off, there is still the extra attention by his owners and those wonderful rides in the car that seem to be coming his way oftener these days.

Speaking of cars, Duke presents quite a sight when he goes riding. A big German shepherd he takes up the whole back seat.

When riding in the hard-top, they leave the back window down so Duke can stick his head out. My, he loves to ride with the wind whistling around his face.

The group has been considering a new member, I think. A big black Collie-type dog, who lives in the next block has been down quite frequently. It is fairly obvious that he is on probation now, but I am sure when the final vote comes, "Sport," for one, will say "Nay"!

One night we looked out and saw sad and mournful Sport looking the picture of utter dejection. There he was, standing all humped over and not three feet away was the big black dog eating Sport's dinner. Poor old Sport couldn't do a thing about it. He just stood and, as the food disappeared, looked more and more as if he had lost his last friend.

☆

THE WILDFLOWER bank has finished blooming, but we are still marveling at what a wonderful show it put on this spring.

The Jack-in-the-pulpits did even better than expected and the Lillies-of-the-valley and wild Columbine were lovely as always. Next year we have hopes of reporting on our own wild flowers sanctuary.

We received a wonderful May basket this year and what a thrill. It contained growing Trilliums, Jack-in-the-pulpits, wild Phlox, Violets. Our own wild flower garden is now started.

☆

AFTER GOING into so much discussion about the one and only visit per year paid us by the beautiful Rose-breasted Grosbeak we were made liars.

The very day the article about them went to press a handsome Rose-breasted made his second call. He spent about five minutes playing around our fence and how excited we all were.

Speaking of Grosbeaks, does anyone know how the Evening Grosbeak received his name?

The question came up several months ago and since then we have checked our reference books but found nothing pertaining to the reason for the name. Perhaps some of you will know.

Again may I thank you for the kind acceptance with which you have received this series. We hope in the weeks to come that the activities "Through My Window" will continue to be interesting and fun for you.

Boats at an Airplane Factory?

By GRETTA PORTER

An aircraft company that makes boats? This isn't as puzzling as it may sound.

For right here in Tecumseh, Meyers Aircraft Co.—Michigan's only plane builder—makes tops for Jeeps and sidecars for motor scooters, as well as aluminum boats.

With the summer lake season officially here, you might find yourself fishing or swimming from a Meyers aluminum boat. In one year, Meyers manufacture some 500 of the 12 and 14-foot variety.

The 12-foot aluminum model sells for $235, without motor of course, and the 14-foot boat, exclusive of motor, may be purchased for $545. They can be purchased locally at the Gamble store.

FIFTY MEN and women are employed at the plant north of town on M-52. Besides work on Meyers aircraft and the aluminum boats, some 5,000 Jeep tops are made each year. These sell for about $130 each.

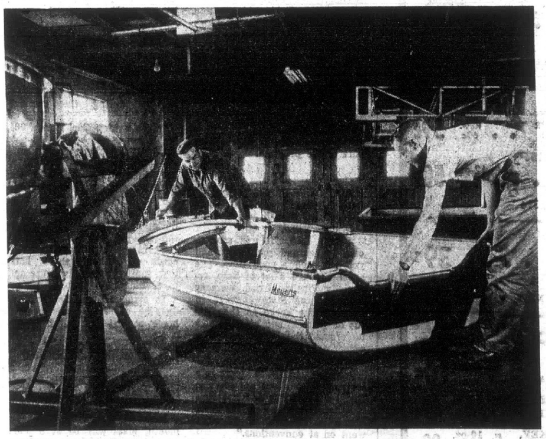
Nearly 2,000 motor scooter side-cars are manufactured each year to retail for $80 each.

As you may remember from a previous Herald story, Meyers Aircraft Co. is now building the four-passenger Model 200 executive plane.

PROTOTYPES of the 200 have been through every sort of test that CAA engineers require to insure maximum safety in the craft.

Allen H. Meyers is president and chief engineer of the firm which was formed in 1939, while Joseph F. LeFevre is sales manager.

Other officials of the company include Clarence Merillat, air frames engineer; Beaumont Diver, chief inspector and Raymond P. Betzodlt, test pilot and factory manager.



BOAT BUILDERS—Sleek aluminum boats roll off an assembly line at Meyers Aircraft at the rate of 500 a year. Here, Gerald Summers and Donald Sunderland ease a new model along its way.

Doctor's Spill Delays Vacation

Dr. Ralph F. Helzerman and family had expected to spend two weeks at their cabin near Deer lake in Upper Michigan, but they had not forseen the necessity of the doctor's recuperating from a fractured wrist.

It happened Thursday on the Lenawee Conservation League archery range where Dr. Helzerman with Harold Doan had taken Ralph Jr. for an archery lesson.

He was wearing street shoes and slipped on a moss covered board striking his chest and left arm, dislocating and fracturing the wrist.

The Helzerman family was able to leave Friday and will return about July 12 when the doctor expects to be able to continue his practice. Meantime his office will be open.

Prepare Bins Now for Summer's Grain

With harvest time approaching, John W. Comstock of the County Extension Service offers five steps for farmers in preparing their bins for grain.

First, clean out all the old grain and dirt.

Second, spray bins at least two weeks before putting in new grain. Mr. Comstock suggests using Methoxychlor 50% wettable powder at the rate of 1¼ pounds per 3 gallons of water. This is enough to cover about 1,500 square feet of bin, says Mr. Comstock.

Third, just before putting new grain in, sweep floors and walls again to clean out any loose Methoxychlor and dead insects.

Fourth, be sure all rat and mouse holes are covered with tin.

Finally, do not put grain in bins with more than 14% moisture. Don't guess, says Mr. Comstock, get a moisture test.

Keep Quality of Eggs High During Summer

It takes some "doin" to keep quality of eggs high during hot summer months.

Eggs not protected from warm weather lose their quality fast. High temperature damages the albumen and lowers quality.

D. D. Moyer, poultry specialist at Michigan State University, points out that there are several steps in maintaining quality of eggs.

Producing clean eggs is the starting point. Few eggs are dirty when laid. But estimated show that about 10 per cent of eggs handled need to be cleaned. Extra handling reduces quality.

☆

QUALITY DECLINES less on farms where eggs are gathered three times a day. The temperature of an egg when laid is about 100 degrees F. Eggs will stay near this temperature for several hours if left in the laying house.

For best quality control, Moyer recommends that eggs be kept at a temperature of about 55 degrees F. Also, relative humidity needs to be around 80 to 85 per cent.

Producers with large flocks find mechanical refrigeration equipment helps keep egg quality high during all seasons.

It's also a good idea for poultrymen to pre-cool and moisture-condition egg cases, flats and fillers before using. A dry egg case will absorb about a pint of water from eggs.

Moyer's last point is to market often. He reminds poultrymen that it is impossible to top quality decline during storage; all that can be done is slow down the rate of decline.

In most cases, loss of egg quality is greater on the farm than in any other part of the marketing process. And the best way to maintain egg quality is to get eggs to the consumer a soon as possible.

Care Is Necessary in Using Poisons

Here's a reminder from the Lenawee county Extension office to persons planning to use insecticides or fungicides.

All such materials are poisonous in varying degrees. Some are dangerous to use, points out agent Louis G. Hall.

Handle these chemicals cautiously so that they will not poison livestock, children or the user.

Read the label on the package or container carefully for instructions on how to use the chemical materials, Hall emphasizes.

MSU Food Specialists Suggest Cooking Items

Outdoor cookery calls for some special culinary accessories, say Anita Dean and Robert Rust, food and meat specialists at Michigan State University. They suggest some items that will come in mighty handy, when you're cooking over your outdoor grill this summer.

One of the first things you'll want to get is a pair of tongs; in fact you could get two pair, according to Mrs. Dean and Rust. Use one for handling burning charcoal and the other for turning foods on the grill.

You could also use asbestos mittens. You'll find them handier and safer than pot holders for managing hot foods and equipment.

You need long-handled skewers for cooking those outdoor food favorites—kabobs. You can buy some equipped with wooden handles or make your own out of a heavy piece of wire—loop the end to form a handle.

☆

FOR SAFETY'S sake, it's important to keep away from the fire when you're cooking. This is virtually impossible unless you have some long-handled cooking tools. The minimum three are a knife, fork and spatula.

Mrs. Dean and Rust suggest such things as a small shovel and fire rake, a hinged broiler and spit baskets for the "nice-to-have-but-not-necessary" department.

The broiler is a set of two grills hinged together. You place the food between them and simply flip them over to turn the food. They're especially nice for foods that are likely to break apart such as fish and hamburgers.

Spit baskets are designed to hold foods like spare ribs and pork sausages. Because they are attached to the spit, they eliminate hand turning.

Heat is one of the greatest enemies of egg quality. Keep eggs cool, say Michigan State University poultrymen.

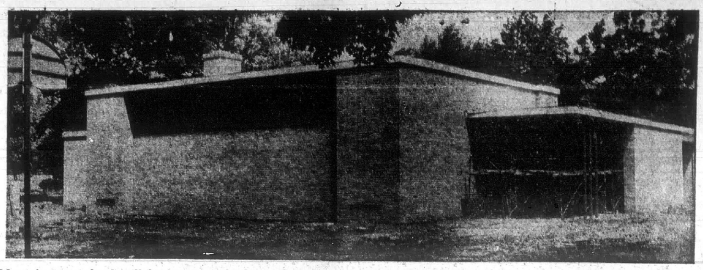
Now until July 15 is the important time to control tapeworms in sheep, remind livestock specialists at Michigan State University. Commercially prepared phenothiazine-lead arsenate drench materials are recommended.



Macon's new school will have two new classes, library and multi-purpose room, showers.

Strike Delaying School Building

When school open in the fall, many Tecumseh area children will find themselves entering newly renovated or brand new buildings.

At this point progress is being held up in several of the structures due to a strike of the carpenters of Lenawee County.

Tipton school, of all the area schools, is most near completion. The remaining work is installation of cabinets. Mrs. Juanita Becker will be principal of this school.

Roof of the Ridgeway school is on, but work is now halted because of the carpenters' strike. Ned MacPhail is to be principal at Ridgeway.

☆

EXTERIOR WORK on Tecumseh Acres school has been completed. Progress here is also halted due to the strike. Principal of this school will be Wayne Kaiser.

Mrs. Doris Tonneberger will be principal of Macon school when it opens in the fall. Two new classrooms, a library, multi-purpose room, shower and PTA kitchen are being built on this site.

Central school, which will house some 400 junior high school students, is receiving a complete face lifting this summer.

Tile is being in stalled on all hall floors, acoustic tile is being put on the main floor ceiling and more showers will be added to both locker rooms.

☆

THREE NEW science rooms will be installed and eight new kitchen units and 16 sewing sections will be added to the home economics rooms.

A completely new shop room is being added

The auditorium will be turned into a girls' gymnasium which may also be used as an auditorium. The stage has been left, with only the old decks being removed.

D. J. Dick is principal of Central school.

Progress on the high school is also being delayed because of the carpenters' strike.

PLAYING SHADOW — Tagging behind every bucking bronco at the Fourth of July B Bar J Ranch Rodeo was this friendly black dog, which somehow managed to keep from being kicked. The broncs were rugged and jarred many a cow poke, but these amazing fellows somehow managed to keep aboard.

1,000 Attend Rodeo

Despite showers and threatening weather nearly 1,000 people turned up Friday for the Fourth of July Rodeo at the B Bar J Ranch.

Although the muddy arena hampered many of the specialty acts, the bucking horses and bulls gave the cowboys a rough time as they tried to stay aboard until the 10-second whistle blew.

Contestants came from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan to compete for the $250 prize money and silver trophy buckles.

W. F. Schneider, an Adrian businessman, walked off with honors and the trophy buckle in the calf roping event with a time of 21 seconds.

Schneider has participated in rodeos as a calf-roper throughout the tri-state region for several years and was pleased at winning the buckle from some of the crack ropers he was competing against Friday.

Joe Dunn of Oak Lawn, Ill., placed first in the bareback Bronc riding and Brahama bull riding events. Donald Genest of West Chicago, Ill., won the steer wrestling contest with a time of 36 seconds.

Arnold Lane of Battle Creek took home the trophy for the saddle bronc riding contest.

YoYo, a B Bar J Ranch bull, lived up to his firely reputation and shook his rider—Tim Lee of Toledo—just outside the chutes, quite in advance of the 10 second whistle.

THE Long & Short OF IT

BILL WRIGHT, a 20-handicap golfer, was invited last week to tour the Warwick Hills course in Flint, scene of the recent $52,000 Buick Open.

The invitation came from Ambrose Hamacker, who was chairmaning the summer meeting of the Public Relations Society of America there.

The layout at Warwick is a monstrous affair, one of the longest in the country, so when Bill turned in a tidy 92 there were a number of raised eyebrows and friends of Ambrose accused him of bringing along a ringer.

Bill didn't mind a bit — who would after holing out three approach shots in one 18-hole round?

Topping the afternoon, Bill received his prize from Bill Casper, the pro who won the Buick Open.

☆

MIKE HITE HAS DONE A swell job in face-lifting the rear of his hardware store.

It's an interesting point, this business of the back entrances.

The parking survey people pointed up the need for attention to this as off-street parking becomes more and more a part of the shoppers' habits.

An inviting rear entrance is bound to help the merchant when people park their cars behind the business rows.

Don Murphy, our new Chamber secretary, said on the day he arrived he spent his first few hours going up and down the alleys behind stores.

From the glint in Murph's eyes, we judge he'll be coming up with some concrete ideas on improvements in this area.

☆

IT MAY BE HOT AND HUMID but Christmas is definitely in the air. Our bright and sparkling books of Christmas cards arrived last week. I must admit they do look a bit out of place on the counter.

☆

THE OTHER DAY I WAS placing a long distance phone call. When I gave my name the operator asked:

"Say, Mr. Riordan, did you get any replies to your classified." (We had advertised for two used bicycles.)

"Certainly did," was my comeback.

"Guess I'll have to try one." Sage thinking, I'd say.

And what about you? Something you want, or an item you have to sell, why not try a classified—just 60c for 15 words.

Meal Served to Nearly 500

Nearly 100 planes logged in Sunday at Meyers air field for the Exchange Club's annual Dawn Patrol.

In the breakfast department, Exchangemen served ham and eggs to nearly 500 with a goodly crowd of local folks joining the festivities.

The first plane, piloted by Lawrence Timm of New Hudson, arrived at 6:50 a.m.

Ships continued to touch down until 11 a.m.

Bob Bonner was general chairman. Russ Garno and Owen Partridge were on the reception committee.

☆

TWO HELICOPTERS were sent by the Naval Reserve from the Grosse Ile Air Station to stage an air-sea rescue. Among the personnel was Bill Powell of Tecumseh.

The navy inflated a raft and placed it along the runway. As a helicopter swung in from the south in a simulated air seach, red flares directed it to the raft.

The 'copter came in, hovered over the raft and lowered its rescue sling. Within seconds one of the men in the raft was raised into the ships.

Then, after a turn around the field, the plane returned and lowered the man back into the raft—similar to the manner a rescued pilot could be returned to his carrier.

The 'copter pilot put the ship through a series of maneuvers much to the delight of the crowd of about 400.

☆

AN ORCHID went to Mrs. Albert Pivonka of Palos Heights, Illinois, co-pilot for her husband of the plane which came from the greatest distance—nearly 200 miles.

Ollie Musch, president of the club, was one of the busiest members, handling the public address system during the entire program.

Another fellow with lots to do was Bill Davenport of the Civil Air Patrol. Bill handled flags on the runway, directing planes in and out.

In the kitchen, the cooks included Chairman Wally Whiting, Vic Lawson, Bob Bonner, Dr. Dick Dustin, Paul Clauda, Bob Robinson, Ken Hall, Dave Dick, George Derby, Elmer Bryan.

Food for the meal was donated by local merchants, as were a wide variety of prizes awarded to guests.

Horse in Highway Trots Motorists Into Circuit Court

Three lawsuits were settled during an afternoon recess in a jury trial which came before circuit court last week.

The three suits stemmed from a single traffic accident involving automobiles driven by Henry R. Shimmin of Tecumseh, and Durward Corey of Alvordton, Ohio and a horse owned by Aileen Swift and kept in a pasture owned by Chester and Herbert Roff of Raisin township.

The accident happened September 28, 1956 on Occidental Highway when the horse wandered through a break in the fence and out onto Occidental Highway.

It startled the motorists who applied brakes suddenly and the Shimmins car skidded in to that driven by Mr. Corey.

In one lawsuit, Mrs. Corey, represented by Baldwin & Walker, sued Mr. Shimmin and Arnold Swift of Tecumseh for damages to the Corey automobile.

☆

IN THE SECOND SUIT, Mr. Shimmin and the Detroit Automobile Inter-Insurance Exchange, represented by Robertson & Bartlow sued Mr. and Mrs. Swift and the Roffs for damages to the Shimmin car.

The third lawsuit was started by Mr. Corey and the Roffs and Aileen Swift. The Roffs and Swifts are represented by the firm of Baker, Hammond & Baker.

It was the plaintiffs' contention that the Swifts were negligent in allowing an untethered horse on the highway, and the Roffs negligent for failing to keep their pasture properly enclosed.

Both the Swifts and Roffs denied negligence and asserted that the horse got onto the highway through no fault of their own.

It was during a recess in the trial that the attorneys were able to reach an out-of-court settlement that pleased all parties concerned and most of all the jury who were excused early from their duty. Judge Rex Martin granted the request for dismissal of the case.

City Council Meets to Discuss Petitions, Permits

Council accepted a petition Monday night from Murray Dr. residents, living in the 800 through 1200 blocks, for water and sewer lines.

The petition had signatures of 36 of 47 property owners. A hearing was scheduled for August 18.

Hearings also were approved for changing the ordinance concerning building close to lot lines, a proposed expansion of the Tecumseh Woodworking Company on Occidental, and construction of a vestibule for the Gloria dei Lutheran church on Brown Street.

City Manager Ed Nelson, who returned to part-time work Monday, was asked to investigate construction of sidewalks along Adrian Street to the Tecumseh Acres school.

He also was instructed to report on the purchasing policy of the city after Councilman Donald Purkey, Socony distributor, questioned the legality of the city buying Socony products from him.

Bids from three companies for a new street sweeper were accepted but no action was taken.

Crowds Jam Newest Store

Related stories on the new A&P super market appear in the second section, pages 2 and 4.

Area residents thronged A & P's new super market at Wednesday's grand opening ceremonies marking the highlight of nearly 40 years of business in the community by the firm.

First customer, who led a long line of opening-hour patrons, was Mrs. Janis Walter, who lives in Allen's Trailer Court near Clinton. With her were sons Dale, 2; and Daryl, five months.

Participating in the grand opening were Mayor H. H. Hanna, City Manager Edward Nelson and a group of A & P officials headed by Vice-President Ross R. Betz of the Toledo Unit and unit Sales Manager C. C. Smith.

Vice-President Betz said the new air-conditioned store has eight complete food departments.

The new super market, with paved parking facilities for more than 100 cars, contains virtually all of the latest merchandising features of the metropolitan variety.

It has more than 8,000 square feet of floor space, automatic exit and entrance doors and a new system of grocery department product identification keyed to gondola lanterns atop each section of the department.

☆

A SPECIAL PROGRAM of contests, giveaways and demonstrations has been arranged by the nation's oldest food chain over a three-week period to mark the grand opening.

The contest program features local products as a means of stimulating Tecumseh business.

Top award in the contest program will be a combined grand prize consisting of a Meyers 12-foot aluminum boat seating three persons, a Meyers trailer with four-ply tires and a Clinton five-horsepower Apache outboard motor with remote gas tank.

Second prize will be a one-ton Fedder's Air Conditioner equipped with a Tecumseh Products compressor. As third prize, A&P will award one boys' Schwinn bicycle and one girls' Schwinn bicycle. The prizes will be awarded July 28.

☆

THE FOOD DEPARTMENT store has been engineered for quick, convenient shopping. A battery of speed-type check out stands will facilitate shopping even during peak periods on week ends.

One of the outstanding features of the new super market will be a self-service meat department which incorporates a new-type refrigerated production line for the packaging of meat items.

The new setup for meat packaging, which is located directly behind the retail meat cases in full view of the customers, eliminates the former need for special low-temperature processing rooms. It also enables meat department employees to work in normal temperatures without using protective clothing.

"Self-service meat departments like this one have been the biggest development in the recent history of food shopping", said Vice President Betz.

"Housewives find this system affords them the widest possible selection of the finest quality meats and enables them to buy the weight and amount of meat product that best suits their needs."

Another major feature is the frozen foods department which will carry a complete line of fresh-frozen fruits and vegetables, juices and ice cream.

Equally complete is the new health conter with nationally-known brands of cosmetics, toiletries, toothpastes, shaving preparations and sundries.

Derrs Open Store

A new store is being opened in Tecumseh July 15 by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Derr.

To be known as the Blind Products Order Store it will make available products made by blind persons in several institutions throughout the United States. Two of these are in Michigan, one in Grand Rapids and one in Saginaw.

The store will be located at 154 East Chicago Blvd. in the building previously occupied by the Hammond Insurance Company next to Reidy's Mobil Service station.

☆

MR. DERR was made a representative for the Blind Products Sales of Detroit last November and has been operating the business from his home with the assistance of his wife, Kathleen, who will continue to help in the store.

He came to Tecumseh from Hudson in 1942 and married Mrs. Derr after they became acquainted while both were working at the Ypsilanti State Hospital in 1943. They have one daughter, Beatrice, who is an eighth grade student in the Tecumseh schools.

☆

THE DERRS live at 701 South Evans where they have made their home 14 of the 15 years they have been married.

Mr. Derr was previously employed at the Tecumseh Products Company until the summer of 1953 when he became blind.

Many household articles are included in those made by the blind including brooms, ironing board covers, both dry and wet mops, rugs, door mats and many kinds of sponges.

Mr. and Mrs. Derr will be on hand next Tuesday morning to greet their customers and redeem the coupons printed in this issue of the Tecumseh Herald.

Charles Grinnell Dies in Accident

Charles Nolan Grinnell of 312 Jackson St., Clinton, Michigan was killed when three huge steel-carry tractor trailer trucks slammed together at the crest of a hill last Wednesday morning near Galien, Mich. about 14 miles west of Niles.

Mr. Grinnell had been in the trucking business for the past 12 years, owned his own truck and equipment and worked for the American Transit Lines.

He is survived by his wife, Jean, five sons and twin daughters besides his mother, his grandparents, three sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services were held at the Proctor Funeral Home in Clinton Saturday and burial was in the Lenawee Hills Memorial Park at Adrian.

Mrs. Hayden Gives Wheat Germ Bread

The late Perry Hayden was always a favorite with A&P officials and his Wheat Germ has long been sold by that chain's outlets.

In Toledo district stores — including Tecumseh—Hayden's Wheat Germ is marketed exclusively.

As a part of the grand opening festivities at the new super market, Mrs. Hayden gave away nut bread, which she had baked with Hayden's Wheat Germ.

Town Buzzes Over Two Escaped Convicts

Thursday morning in Tecumseh last week was a time to exchange rumors and stories, all purportedly true, of the escape of two Indiana reformatory inmates.

Every neighborhood in town was buzzing with the latest news that one of the two convicts was heading in their direction.

Actually, most of the action involving law enforcement officers and the two fugitives took place in the early hours of the morning when nearly all area citizens were still soundly asleep.

It began for area officers when the sheriff's department received a call at 2:40 a.m. Thursday from Edward Underwood, owner of the Underwood Market near Adrian on M-52.

He had seen two men, later identified as Walter R. Williams and Terry Thomas, both 25, breaking into his place of business.

The two were using a car stolen in Ohio and left the market headed north on M-52. Local police had been notified and had set up a roadblock at the edges of the city.

South of Billington's Corner, Williams and Thomas stole a second car belonging to Bancano Laro. They advanced north to M-50 in separate cars and turned east toward Tecumseh.

Tecumseh police were traveling west on M-50 when the two cars were spotted.

The escapees turned south at Cairns street, which they found to be a dead-end. They abandoned their cars and ran for the woods. Tecumseh policemen James T. Callahan and Bert Ward nabbed Thomas, but Williams eluded them.

Williams, however, lost one of his shoes. Officers used the shoe to get a scent for a bloodhound borrowed from Chief Roscoe Mercer of the Morenci police department.

The dog was put on the trial in the belief Williams was hiding out in or near the city.

The dog led officers to a point near the new Kroger store on M-50 before losing the trail. It was near that location that a car belonging to Oliver Davis of Fenton was stolen. Mr. Davis had been visiting friends in the city.

The Davis auto was found Friday in Montpelier, Ohio, unharmed according to officers there.

Thomas was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime and unlawfully driving away an automobile. Both Thomas and Williams had been serving three-to-five year terms at the reformatory near Indianapolis.

MEN IN THE KITCHEN — The efforts at Sunday's Dawn Patrol breakfast were favorable if you can judge from the 500 people who ate at the airport. Use of the stoves was donated for the morning by Protane Gas Service.

RING DANCE — Some expert Indian dancers performed at the B Bar J Ranch Rodeo on the Fourth of July. Here one of the entertainers does an intricate ring dance which drew resounding applause from the audience. For dressing rooms, the troupe used regular Indian tepees.

When A & P went into the super market business, the company expanded by contracting. Each new super market replaced several of the smaller, old-type A & P stores.

Flouride Treatments Set

The clinic for fluoride treatments in Tecumseh will be in the high school building rather than at Patterson as previously announced.

Treatments will be given to children signed up from kindergarten, second, fifth and eighth grades of Tecumseh Public schools from July 23 until August 25.

Mrs. Norman Bailey, local chairman, will have appointment cards in the mail on July 15. Anyone wishing to make a change in the appointment may call her phone 304-J.

The network of A & P stores has established an outstanding reputation as a food distributor. Consumers benefit by lower price because the company passes along the savings accumulated from its mass buying and selling operations.

Volunteer workers from the two Child Study Clubs will be assisting with the work for the 370 students registered. Anyone wishing to help with the project may call Mrs. Lee Prettyman phone 1187-M.

Room 2 of the high school building is accessible through the north and east doors and across from the office and is the location where treatments will be given.

Two interesting events — the B Bar J Ranch Rodeo and Exchange Club Dawn Patrol — took place over the Fourth weekend.

Folks who conducted these are to be complimented for their careful planning and all-out effort to provide wholesome entertainment for area people.

A representative of The Herald attended both and was much impressed with the manner in which each was run.

The Rodeo brought a bit of old west right into Lenawee county and almost 1,000 were on hand to view the bucking broncs, brahma bull wrestling, Indian dancers, clowns.

It was hot, but the show area was circled with trees and the ample shade was most welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spence deserve a vote of praise from the area for coming up with the rodeo idea.

Members of Exchange, Civil Air Patrol and others who pitched in at Sunday's Dawn Patrol also rate a hearty "well done."

There's something mighty fascinating about seeing airplanes coming in and going up — to the boy or girl, six or 60. The more than 500 who attended help prove this theory.

This year's addition of the navy helicopters gave real depth to the festivities.

We're lucky to have such things as the rodeo and Dawn Patrol taking place in our community.

HITS OF SHOW — The two navy helicopters from Grosse Ile were favorites of the guests at Sunday's Dawn Patrol. The navy staged an air-sea rescue demonstration, also put a ship through a series of intricate maneuvers.

Fat Fish and Flat Fish

Ned Ruesink of Tipton received an interesting letter from his aunt, Irene Wisner, who is a teacher in Japan.

She tells of the fishing docks at 4 a.m. when the boats are coming in and the auction that takes place shortly after. She writes,

"We saw squid, eels, tuna, octupus, flounders with one eye, blue eyed fish, fat fish and flat fish, big fish and little fish, buckets of fish about two inches long, long fish and short fish and red snappers.

"The activity was amazing. These men with a large fishhook and a flashlight running from place to place looking into the inside of a fish, then rushing to another section to do the same thing over again.

'Soon a little bell would ring, a man would climb up on a little box and the auctioning would start. The noise was tremendous, every voice echoed and re-echoed in that shell-like building.

"How they knew who had what—but they did—the bell would tinkle once and the men would rush for another section where the little bell was ringing like mad.

"We didn't seem to cause too much commotion, accasionally we would have to climb up on a stack of fish boxes so the workmen and their push carts could get through.

"About six the housewives began to come in large numbers apparently to buy their daily fish supply. We saw but a few women before that time which was odd because women do all kinds of work. The manual effort that has to be exerted makes no difference.

☆

"MAY DAY was a very quiet affair this year. No disturbances at any of the Army bases. Green Park did not have school because that area was in the line of march.

"Hamada San, a Japanese policeman we know, said he was very busy—'Too many Sake parties, bad boys and girls,' then he 'Tsk-tsk-tsk.' He is a very nice looking young man and has a very keen sense of humor. He talks in complete sentences. He is not happy at being a policeman for his hours are too long—26 hours at a stretch is his duty.

"Another holiday this weekend is the Emperor's birthday. While he is not looked up to as a god at the present time he is liked, loved and respected.

"Monday is Boys Day and the carp kites are flying from many yards. I have two beautiful ones that were given to me so I'll have to have a flag pole put up in my front yard.

"If you don't hear from me again you will know that I got lost to all, in the mob at the train station.

"Love
"Rene"

This is the time of year we reap the benefits of having fed the sparrows all last winter. On some of the dark dreary days it seemed that the nondescript sparrows were everywhere and from the way the food disappeared their appetites were almost unsatisfiable. Now, however, they are bringing the youngsters to the feeder and all is forgiven.

As parent sparrow introduces junior to the joys of the free-lunch counter what a sight they make! The young sparrow, often bigger than his parent, can present a picture of utter helplessness. Weak wobbly legs, wings aflutter with feebleness, and a mouth that can open unbelievably wide!

As the poor overworked adult frantically hops about the feeder, pecking up the tasty grain, junior is close at hand demanding attention. When a mouthful of food does not come his way as quickly as he thinks it should, the youngster's squeaky voice is raised in a shrill display of bad temper.

The humorous aspect to the feeding display is junior's quick reversal of form. The completely helpless baby can, in an instant, become a reliant self-sustained adolescent. He can, of course, fall back into a state of complete dependency just as fast.

The determining factor — the closeness of his parents! If Mama or Papa Sparrow is nearby the youngster couldn't think of doing anything for himself, he is completely helpless. If, however, the parents fly away and leave the baby alone for a minute, he starts eating by himself and appears quite capable of taking care of his own needs.

☆

SUCH BEGGARS! Apparently the baby sparrows believe in living the easy life as long as they can. Having no sympathy for their poor overworked parents, they play the spoiled brats as long as possible.

Although we laugh at the harassed adult feeding his or her big baby it is a tender sight, too. Parental love and tender concern for the youngsters is much in evidence. Mama and Papa Sparrow are faithful in looking to the well-being of their family.

Although we are often disgusted with the quarrelsome and fighting winter habits of these sometimes all too plentiful birds, we have only to remember the pleasure they and their young families afford us during the spring and summer months. As they push the food into the wide open mouths of their yammering youngsters, we are more than repaid for a winter's feeding.

The word sparrow usually conjures up the mental picture of a rusty brown and white, black bibbed English sparrow. There are, however, a number of other sparrows; it is a tremendously large family. Off and on during the past two months we have been privileged to play host to several of the English sparrow's cousins and it certainly has been a pleasure.

A pretty little song sparrow and a perky white-crowned sparrow are the newcomers. Although both are noted for their songs, the cold weather has forced us to keep the windows closed and we have not, as yet, had the enjoyment of hearing their melodious voices.

☆

THE SONG SPARROW was the first to arrive. About six and a quarter inches long, he has a round compact little body and wears an attractive striped suit. His breast is a soft light gray with very definite spotted stripes. A dark spot in the center of his breast is an easy identifying mark. Possessing the average sparrow appetite, he takes great pleasure in dining at the feeding station.

Shyer than his cousins, the white-crowned sparrow has so far not worked up enough courage to come to the feeder proper. He contents himself with the food which has fallen on the ground and since most birds lack polished table manners, there is always a good supply of grain thrown overboard.

Mr. white-crowned is a handsome fellow; he is also a bit startling. His white and black striped head is quite unusual. It looks almost out of place perched atop his typical sparrow body. Our first impression was the fanciful thought that the sparrow was wearing a bob-white's head. The markings are not the same, of course, but they are just as definite.

All in all, we have found the sparrows not to be bothersome nuisances. From day to day their constant bickering can be irksome but looking at them over a period of time, they can be quite entertaining. We look forward to their visits; the unexpected pleasure they give makes up for much of their usual commonness.

Methodist Church Scene of Saturday Evening Rites

The Tecumseh Methodist church was the scene of the wedding of Georgia Campbell and Eugene Guy Gallant Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. when they were married by the pastor, Rev. James D. Nixon.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Campbell of 605 West Cummins street and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Gallant, Sr. of 729 North Main street, Adrian.

Mrs. Thomas Gallant, Jr. sang "Always" and "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony and "The Lords Prayer" during the ceremony. Mrs. Kenton Hunt presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Gallant.

White delphiniums and carnations filled gold altar vases and tall white hampers of the same blossoms were placed on either side of the altar with green palms in front. The center aisle was marked with the traditional white satin bows and greens.

Two-hundred-thirty-five guests were present as the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Dale Campbell. She wore a wedding gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta in ballerina length featuring a V neck line in back, three quarter sleeves, scalloped edges and a scalloped and tiered bustle effect in back.

☆

HER NYLON net veil with scalloped edges fell from a crown of white imitation flowers on a white velvet head pieces. She wore a cultured pearl necklace and earrings, gifts of her sister and the groom. Her gown was made by Mrs. Thomas Gallant, Sr., Mrs. Henry Howard, sister of the groom and Sandra Howard, niece of the groom.

She carried a white lace covered Bible topped with a crescent arrangement of white butterfly roses and feathered carnations.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mary Dinse, in a ballerina length gown of pastel pink nylon net over taffeta featuring pink flowers at the front bodice with pink satin streamers.

The bridesmaids were Bonnie Currier, Sandra Howard and Sharon Gallant, all of Tecumseh, wearing ballerina length gowns in pastel colors.

Miss Dinse and the bridesmaids wore head bands of pastel flowers matching their gowns and carried cascade arrangements of delicate pink carnations interspersed with tufts of tulle which also matched their gowns. Miss Carrier wore mint green. Miss Howard wore orchid and Miss Gallant blue.

Thomas Gallant, Jr. was his brother's best man and the guests were seated by Donald Gallant, Henry Howard, Ronald Muckensturm, and Donald Rouget.

☆

FOR HER granddaughter's wedding Mrs. Campbell wore a gown of navy blue eyelet over pink printed taffeta with white accessories. Mrs. Betty Dinse, the bride's mother, wore pale pink silk with pink accessories and Mrs. Gallant, Sr. wore blue printed chiffon over blue taffeta with blue accessories. All wore carnations corsages.

The social rooms of the church were decorated with baskets of pink and white blossoms for the reception following the ceremony and a four tiered cake made by Mrs. Gallant, Sr. centered the bride's table.

The cake was encircled with white nylon net, pink flowers and greens and was flanked with crystal candelabra filled with pink tapers.

☆

FOR THEIR wedding trip to upper Michigan for one week the bride changed to a sleeveless white nylon dress with black velvet eyelet and pinned the corsage from her bridal bouquet to her shoulder.

When they return they will make their home at 729 North Main street in Adrian.

Mrs. Henry Howard was hostess for the reception assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Venard Gallant of Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Brenda Gallant had charge of the guest book, Mrs. Muckensturm and Mrs. Gallant, Jr. served the cake, Mrs. Donald Gallant served coffee, Joan Gallant had charge of the gifts and others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Buss White, Melody Campbell and Suzanne Muckenstrum.

OUR TOWN

ARTHUR J. COLLINGSWORTH

FOURTH OF JULY WAS relatively quiet in Tecumseh. I can remember, however, a few year's ago when Tecumseh, Ont., would send a large car caravan to Tecumseh, Mich.

Also they sent their fine Scotish band with its bagpipes, drums and plaid colored kilts.

There was a large dawn patrol, a carnival and a large display of fireworks with the cooperation and civic interest of the citizens of this community.

☆

I WAS DISCUSSING WITH friends what the highest building of Tecumseh was. We agreed it was the First Presbyterian Church steeple, so I went and asked Rev. Walworth what its height would be in comparison to a building. He said it would be equal to a 15 story building.

☆

ST. PETER'S EPISCOPAL Church, oldest Episcopal church west of the Allegany Mountains, is a tourist attraction in Tecumseh. In the guest register for this last month there was a long list of people who have stopped during vacation trips to visit the church. These people were from numerous states, churches, etc.

☆

THE TOURIST MAPS HAVE Tecumseh listed as 4,000 for its population, the same as the World Atlas. Maybe in 1960 when the government census is taken they will raise it a couple thousand. Tecumseh, Michigan, is the world's largest Tecumseh, other Tecumseh's are in Ontario, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Tecumseh Mountains in New Hampshire.

ALTON SNYDER . . . it takes experience to run a store.

26 Area People Work at City's New A&P Market

Twenty-six area people are employed at the new A & P store which opened July 9.

Alton Snyder is manager of the Tecumseh A & P store. Other full time employees are Clement R. LaFerriere, Joan R. Bilmeyer, Nora C. Jepson, Louise Palmer, Donald C. Oswald, Roland E. Boyers, Keith K. Kurtz, Larry G. Hart, Alfred A. Galembriske, David Caterina and Robert Martin.

Working parttime at the A & P store are Neil O'Hara, Joyce VanNorman, Ann Ruff, Fran Marshall, Helen Nisbett, Marilyn Reis, Kathy Mobly, Robert Schneider, Earl McKinney, Gary Abner, Gerald Kraus, Lloyd Watson, Leo Oswald, Bonnie Mead.

Expert Heads A&P

What does it take to manage a modern super market?

Talk to Alton L. Snyder, a veteran A & P employee who heads the new super market which opened July 19 at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive, and you will find it requires a lot of know-how in many fields of activity.

You will discover in talking to Manager Snyder that it takes quite a bit of doing including a few matters which seem, at first glance, to have little connection with his primary job of displaying and selling food to consumers.

Snyder has been pretty busy the past two weeks directing stock crews, compiling orders of perishable foods that must be received at the last minute to protect their freshness and performing countless other tasks for the grand opening.

An A & P employee for almost 18 years, Snyder possesses the qualities required to manage a big super market selling more than 4,000 different food items and directing the activities of some 30 employees.

From Snyder's own experience with the company, it would seem the super market manager must be a man of many trades and know something about several professions as well.

A super market manager basically must have authoritative knowledge and experience in the store's operation — meat, produce, grocery, coffee-dairy, bakery, frozen foods and candy.

And if he has a store as complete as the A & P at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive, he also must know how to merchandise health and beauty aids and non-food items.

Snyder feels he is well qualified on the subject of Tecumseh consumers. He has been manager of the Tecumseh store for nearly four years. He first started with A&P in 1940 as a clerk in the Monroe store. He was promoted to assistant manager of the Monroe store in 1947 and to manager of the Monroe Street store in Toledo in 1954.

Today's super market represents a world of change from the one-man store that typified the food business when Snyder started as a grocery clerk.

"The transformation has been terrific," he says. "One man cannot possibly do the job anymore. It takes a good organization and plenty of team work. You must have a first-string team all the way."

Snyder is a native of Monroe and is married to the former Virginia Balzumitti of Monroe. They have two children—Roger, 15, and Barbara, 16. They reside at 2111 Pleasant Drive.

Snyder is also a veteran of World War II with service in the European theater.

The A&P Policy

Always to:

Do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of each customer.

Extend friendly, satisfying service to everyone.

Give every customer the most good food for her money.

Assure accurate weight every time — 16 ounces to each pound.

Give accurate count and full measure.

Charge the correct price.

Cheerfully refund customer's money if for any reason any purchase is not satisfactory.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

Teamwork Held Vital For Fresh A&P Produce

Roland E. Boyers is in charge of the colorful produce department in the new A & P super market.

A native of Wauseon, Boyers first started here as a produce clerk in 1951 and was soon promoted to head stock and receiving clerk. He was transferred to the Tecumseh store in March 1952.

Boyers lives at 500 Orchard Lane with his wife, the former Patricia Ann Maye of Toledo, and four children.

Boyers' department stocks some 100 fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen produce and juices and also a full line of dried fruits and nut meats.

Back of the white refrigerated display racks, with their crisp and garden-fresh produce, is one of the most intricately-linked organizations of A & P's entire food procurement lineup.

The job of supplying top quality produce to A & P stores is handled by the National Produce Division. In a year A & P takes delivery on thousands of tons of farm and orchard produce.

In describing their operations, personnel tell of their central office in New York, which is linked with a series of terminal offices in the nation's major cities. It also is bound to scores of field offices which operate wherever a major crop is grown and harvested.

The produce purchasing setup is tied together by a modern teletype system which carries a never-ending stream of messages and reports on weather, crop conditions, production and other factors involved in meeting the demand and supply picture on produce.

Buyers are on the go all the time, starting with citrus and other items in Florida and California during the winter and turning out north and east to follow the seasons in the harvest areas of such produce as strawberries, asparagus, green goods, tomatoes, beans, corn, celery, peaches, apples and potatoes.

It would take columns of words to report in detail all the complex operations required to move this vast tonnage of produce to the right places at the right time in the right condition.

But, basically, the job is done by streamlining operations whenever possible. Commodities are bought in the field and shipped in carloads direct to A & P's strategically-spotted warehouses. Produce is moved direct from warehouse to nearby company stores.

By eliminating the handling costs of wholesalers, jobbers and other middlemen, A & P is able to pass along the resulting savings to both producers and consumers. This direct-line distribution of produce also means fresher produce of better quality for the consumer.

Self—Service Meats

Self-service meat seems to be the development in modern food retailing that consumers approve most enthusiastically.

To meet this consumer demand, a complete self-service meat department with a refrigerated production line has been installed in A & P's new store at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive.

The new packaging setup is located directly behind the meat display cases and will operate in full view of customers. Customers can observe the care with which meat is processed and packaged under A & P Super Right specifications. The refrigerated production line also eliminates the former need for low-temperature processing rooms where employees had to wear protective clothing.

Keith K. Kurtz, an experienced meat specialist, heads this department.

TECUMSEH HERALD PHOTOS

KEITH K. KURTZ . . . heads meat department

☆

KURTZ STARTED with the food chain as a night stocker in Adrian in 1953. After gaining initial experience as a clerk, butcher and meat cutter, he was promoted to meat department head in the Tecumseh store on July 1957.

A native of Blissfield, he is married to the former Gladys Knierim of Blissfield. He is also a veteran of World War II with service in the European Theater of Operations.

Kurtz is firmly convinced that one of the basic reasons for the success of the A & P meat operations is the company policy which requires all of its meat, fish and poultry to be "the best obtainable."

Kurtz' responsibility is to protect that top quality by seeing to it that cuts and trim are uniformly standardized. He also must order and display wisely so that meat reaches the customer fresh and attractive.

By the way, if you ever want a steak or other choice cut prepared to specifications for a special dinner occasion, see this same Keith Kurtz who can fix it for you.

HEAD CHECKER—Mrs. Joan Bihlmeyer is checker, in charge of the store office of A & P's new Tecumseh super market. Mrs. Bihlmeyer first started with the nation's oldest food chain as a part time clerk in 1956 in the Tecumseh store, and has spent her entire career with A & P here. She is a native of Tecumseh and is married to Duane A. Bihlmeyer of Clinton. They have two children—Teresa Lynn, 5, and Luana Rae, 3 They live at 706 Ternes Road.

Chain Maintains Strict Freshness Policy on Foods

Even the best food, generally speaking, loses flavor and quality with age.

To safeguard the freshness of food, A & P takes five steps. First, the company buys only the freshest foods from farm or factory. It facilitates quick turnover by buying only in quantities for current needs.

Foods are shipped quickly to warehouses and stores. And they are kept under proper condtions of temperature and humidity. Finally, they are priced to move quickly from store to consumer.

A & P guarantees all its foods are fresh and flavorful.

For Kids, It's Candy Section

To the small fry and their sweet-toothed parents, the most alluring department in an A & P super market undoubtedly is the candy department.

Here's how an A & P official describes it: "Good candy is good food. As such, it belongs in the modern, one-stop food store.

"We believe our achievement with candy lies in both the fields of taste and economy," he said. "We produce candies of high quality and merchandise them attractively at modest prices."

The A & P candy to which he refers is sold under the Warwick and Worthmore labels. Manufactured by the subsidiary Quaker Maid Company, candies of the two brands are the results of years of research and experimentation.

CLEMENT LaFERRIERE . . . charge of groceries

Names LaFerriere Head Stock Clerk

Clement R. LaFerriere is the head stock and receiving clerk in charge of groceries in the new A & P store at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive in Tecumseh.

LaFerriere first started with the food chain in 1941 in Whoosaki, Vermont, his home town. He moved to Adrian in 1946 and was associated with the A & P there until he came to Tecumseh in August 1956.

LaFerriere has had wide experience in the retail grocery business, having served in practically every department of the store, including butcher, produce department head and dairy-coffee head.

He is married to the former Jeanette Peters of Adrian. They have two children — Thomas, 5, and Marc, 2.

A veteran of World War II, LaFerrier served in the U. S. Air Force in England, France and the Phillipines. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Elect Mrs. Tuckey

Mrs. Tillie Tuckey has been named president of Past Oracle of Royal Neighbors of America. Others elected for the year were Mrs. Lilla Beevers, vice president and Mrs. Opal Brady, secretary and treasurer.

A & P candy makers are continually guided in their choice of recipes by consumer preferences.

Tea Led to Founding of A&P Chain

Tea, romantic brew of the ages, led directly to the founding of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, the nation's oldest and best known food store chain.

Nearly 100 years ago, a man named George Huntington Hartford conceived an idea for the sale of tea which formed the basis for what is now considered the world's most efficient method of food distribution.

In the pre-civil war days of 1859, tea came to America in the famed China Clipper ships. After the long voyage, tea still had to do a lot of traveling before it reached the housewife's pot.

Bought and sold many times by middlemen, tea passed through the hands of brokers, wholesalers and jobbers. Each tacked on his costs of business and added a profit. The price went up and UP. Few persons could afford to buy tea in retail stores.

☆

GEORGE HUNTINGTON HARTFORD, founder of the A & P, had the idea that if he could bypass some of the intermediary agents and simplify the complicated marketing procedure of those days and eliminate delays, he could sell quality tea at a lower price to more people.

Arrangements were made for the shipment of a clipper load of prime tea direct from China. As soon as the cargo arrived at the New York wharf it was unloaded and moved straight to a little, gas-lit, red fronted store on Vesey Street in New York. The tea was put on sale at about one-third the usual price.

Soon horses' iron shoes and the rims of wagon wheels struck sparks from the cobblestones.

Town people and country people, surprised at being able to purchase this luxury at a price they could afford, crowded the store.

☆

ONE OF THE world's great companies was born that day. The little Vesey Street store was the first of the great chain of food stores to be developed by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company.

The basic idea was and remains sound. By shortening the route of food between producer and consumer, by eliminating delays and by bypassing the costs and profits of needless handling and rehandling, a quality product could be retailed at a lower price to a greatly increased number of people. This idea is today the fundamental philosophy back of A & P's method of food distribution.

Now, as when the Vesey Street store was company headquarters, the company's tea trade still centers in New York. But now the ships unload their cargoes direcly into the A & P's bonded waterfront warehouses where the leaf is blended, sampled and tested by a board of experts and packaged.

Food Experts Travel To Purchase the Best

Buyers travel hundreds of thousands of miles to purchase A & P foods at the source. Not only do these food-selecting experts travel the length and breadth of America, but they venture into foreign lands as well — inspecting, selecting and purchasing the cream of the crop for A & P.

Know the Weeds Before Killing

It pays to know your weeds, especially if you want to control them with chemicals.

Scientists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station point out that there are many chemicals that will kill weeds. But their use is specific.

Certain chemicals have been developed to kill one or only a few species of weeds. Some are very selective; they will kill a certain weed growing in with other plants while not damaging the desired plants.

You can get help in identifying weeds from your county agricultural agent. Check with the agent first. If the weed can't be identified locally, send it to the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology, Michigan State University, East Lansing, for identification.

School Election Will Be Monday

Annual election of Tecumseh schools will be Monday.

The agricultural laboratory in the high school building on North Maumee street is to be used for the election.

For the convenience of registered voters, cars may be driven in the curved drive at the high school and voters may enter the polling room through the large double door.

Dr. Ralph Helzerman, incumbent, and Jack Osburn are seeking a seat on the board of education for the 1958-1961 term.

Drugs of Which Nature Never Dreamed . . .
Time there was when most drugs were products of plant life. If it didn't grow we didn't have it. Before standardization (about 1900), all drugs were of irregular or uncertain potency.
Today, most drugs are products of man's ingenuity — stable and dependable in both quality and effectiveness. We all benefit from this progress.

Vets Have Until 1960 for GI Loans

Veterans of World War II may know that they have two more years — until July 25, 1960 — to apply for GI loans under the Veterans Administration guaranty program.

Veterans may not know the July 25, 1960 deadline for guaranteed loans means that VA must receive the lender's loan guarantee application by that date.

The 1960 deadline does not apply to VA-guaranteed loans to Korean conflict veterans, who have until January 31, 1965, to use that benefit, Mr. Jameson pointed out.

War Orphans Take Action for College

Now is the ideal time for young men and women to start taking action if they intend to enroll in school or college in the fall under the War Orphans Education program (Public Law 634), the Veterans' Administration urges.

The program provides educational assistance for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or diseases resulting from their military service in World War I, World War II, or the Korean conflict. Generally, war orphan students must be between 18 and 23 years of age.

Education may be taken in colleges and universities, as well as below-college-level schools. Regular high school training is not included in the law, and below-college-level courses must equip students for definite vocational objectives. On-the-job training and correspondence courses are not allowed.

Polio Outbreak Possible

Millions of People Face Danger

Recently, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney of the Public Health Service warned that this summer could develop into a great Polio hazard if our unvaccinated population do not protect themselves with vaccine.

More than one person out of four in the dangerous, under twenty year old group, have never been vaccinated. Also, there are about 48.5 million persons in the susceptible, under forty years old group, without this protection.

The now available Salk vaccine has been an important factor in the 85% reduction of paralytic Polio cases during the last two years.

IS YOUR FAMILY PROTECTED AGAINST POLIO? If not, see your physician quickly. Delay is both dangerous and unwise. We have the important Salk Polio vaccine in stock.

Sincerely,

Ralph E. Hodge

ALTON SNYDER . . . it takes experience to run a store.

26 Area People Work at City's New A&P Market

Twenty-six area people are employed at the new A & P store which opened July 9.

Alton Snyder is manager of the Tecumseh A & P store. Other full time employees are Clement R. LaFerriere, Joan R. Bilmeyer, Nora C. Jepson, Louise Palmer, Donald C. Oswald, Roland E. Boyers, Keith K. Kurtz, Larry G. Hart, Alfred A. Galembriske, David Caterina and Robert Martin.

Working parttime at the A & P store are Neil O'Hara, Joyce Vanorman, Ann Ruff, Fran Marshall, Helen Nisbett, Marilyn Reis, Kathy Mobly, Robert Schneider, Earl McKinney, Gary Abner, Gerald Kraus, Lloyd Watson, Leo Oswald, Bonnie Mead.

Expert Heads A&P

What does it take to manage a modern super market?

Talk to Alton L. Snyder, a veteran A & P employee who heads the new super market which opened July 19 at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive, and you will find it requires a lot of know-how in many fields of activity.

You will discover in talking to Manager Snyder that it takes quite a bit of doing including a few matters which seem, at first glance, to have little connection with his primary job of displaying and selling food to consumers.

Snyder has been pretty busy the past two weeks directing stock crews, compiling orders of perishable foods that must be received at the last minute to protect their freshness and performing countless other tasks for the grand opening.

An A & P employee for almost 18 years, Snyder possesses the qualities required to manage a big super market selling more than 4,000 different food items and directing the activities of some 30 employees.

From Snyder's own experience with the company, it would seem the super market manager must be a man of many trades and know something about several professions as well.

A super market manager basically must have authoritative knowledge and experience in the store's operation — meat, produce, grocery, coffee-dairy, bakery, frozen foods and candy.

And if he has a store as complete as the A & P at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive, he also must know how to merchandise health and beauty aids and non-food items.

Snyder feels he is well qualified on the subject of Tecumseh consumers. He has been manager of the Tecumseh store for nearly four years. He first started with A&P in 1940 as a clerk in the Monroe store. He was promoted to assistant manager of the Monroe store in 1947 and to manager of the Monroe Street store in Toledo in 1954.

Today's super market represents a world of change from the one-man store that typified the food business when Snyder started as a grocery clerk.

"The transformation has been terrific," he says. "One man cannot possibly do the job anymore. It takes a good organization and plenty of team work. You must have a first-string team all the way."

Snyder is a native of Monroe and is married to the former Virginia Balnumitti of Monroe. They have two children—Roger, 15, and Barbara, 16. They reside at 3111 Pleasant Drive.

Snyder is also a veteran of World War II with service in the European theater.

The A&P Policy

Always to:

Do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of each customer.

Extend friendly, satisfying service to everyone.

Give every customer the most good food for her money.

Assure accurate weight every time — 16 ounces to each pound.

Give accurate count and full measure.

Charge the correct price.

Cheerfully refund customer's money if for any reason any purchase is not satisfactory.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

Teamwork Held Vital For Fresh A&P Produce

Roland E. Boyers is in charge of the colorful produce department in the new A & P super market.

A native of Wauseon, Boyers first started here as a produce clerk in 1951 and was soon promoted to head stock and receiving clerk. He was transferred to the Tecumseh store in March 1952.

Boyers lives at 500 Orchard Lane with his wife, the former Patricia Ann Maye of Toledo, and four children.

Boyers' department stocks some 100 fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen produce and juices and also a full line of dried fruits and nut meats.

Back of the white refrigerated display racks, with their crisp and garden-fresh produce, is one of the most intricately-linked organizations of A & P's entire food procurement lineup.

The job of supplying top quality produce to A & P stores is handled by the National Produce Division. In a year A & P takes delivery on thousands of tons of farm and orchard produce.

In describing their operations, personnel tell of their central office in New York, which is linked with a series of terminal offices in the nation's major cities. It also is bound to scores of field offices which operate wherever a major crop is grown and harvested.

The produce purchasing setup is tied together by a modern teletype system which carries a never-ending stream of messages and reports on weather, crop conditions, production and other factors involved in meeting the demand and supply picture on produce.

Buyers are on the go all the time, starting with citrus and other items in Florida and California during the winter and fanning out north and east to follow the seasons in the harvest areas of such produce as strawberries, asparagus, green goods, tomatoes, beans, corn, celery, peaches, apples and potatoes.

It would take columns of words to report in detail all the complex operations required to move this vast tonnage of produce to the right places at the right time in the right condition.

But, basically, the job is done by streamlining operations whenever possible. Commodities are bought in the field and shipped in carloads direct to A & P's strategically-spotted warehouses. Produce is moved direct from warehouse to nearby company stores.

By eliminating the handling costs of wholesalers, jobbers and other middlemen, A & P is able to pass along the resulting savings to both producers and consumers. This direct-line distribution of produce also means fresher produce of better quality for the consumer.

Self—Service Meats

Self-service meat seems to be the development in modern food retailing that consumers approve most enthusiastically.

To meet this consumer demand, a complete self-service meat department with a refrigerated production line has been installed in A & P's new store at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive.

The new packaging setup is located directly behind the meat display cases and will operate in full view of customers. Customers can observe the care with which meat is processed and packaged under A & P Super Right specifications. The refrigerated production line also eliminates the former need for low-temperature processing rooms where employees had to wear protective clothing.

Keith K. Kurtz, an experienced meat specialist, heads this department.

☆

KURTZ STARTED with the food chain as a night stocker in Adrian in 1953. After gaining initial experience as a clerk, butcher and meat cutter, he was promoted to meat department head in the Tecumseh store on July 1957.

A native of Blissfield, he is married to the former Gladys Knierim of Blissfield. He is also a veteran of World War II with service in the European Theater of Operations.

Kurtz is firmly convinced that one of the basic reasons for the success of the A & P meat operations is the company policy which requires all of its meat, fish and poultry to be "the best obtainable."

Kurtz' responsibility is to protect that top quality by seeing to it that cuts and trim are uniformly standardized. He also must order and display wisely so that meat reaches the customer fresh and attractive.

By the way, if you ever want a steak or other choice cut prepared to specifications for a special dinner occasion, see this same Keith Kurtz who can fix it for you.

HEAD CHECKER—Mrs. Joan Bihlmeyer is checker, in charge of the store office of A & P's new Tecumseh super market. Mrs. Bihlmeyer first started with the nation's oldest food chain as a part time clerk in 1956 in the Tecumseh store, and has spent her entire career with A & P here. She is a native of Tecumseh and is married to Duane A. Bihlmeyer of Clinton. They have two children—Teresa Lynn, 5, and Luana Rae, 3 They live at 706 Ternes Road.

Chain Maintains Strict Freshness Policy on Foods

Even the best food, generally speaking, loses flavor and quality with age.

To safeguard the freshness of food, A & P takes five steps. First, the company buys only the freshest foods from farm or factory. It facilitates quick turnover by buying only in quantities for current needs.

Foods are shipped quickly to warehouses and stores. And they are kept under proper condtions of temperature and humidity. Finally, they are priced to move quickly from store to consumer.

A & P guarantees all its foods are fresh and flavorful.

For Kids, It's Candy Section

To the small fry and their sweet-toothed parents, the most alluring department in an A & P super market undoubtedly is the candy department.

Here's how an A & P official describes it: "Good candy is good food. As such, it belongs in the modern, one-stop food store.

"We believe our achievement with candy lies in both the fields of taste and economy," he said. "We produce candies of high quality and merchandise them attractively at modest prices."

The A & P candy to which he refers is sold under the Warwick and Worthmore labels. Manufactured by the subsidiary Quaker Maid Company, candies of the two brands are the results of years of research and experimentation.

Names LaFerriere Head Stock Clerk

Clement R. LaFerriere is the head stock and receiving clerk in charge of groceries in the new A & P store at N. Evans and Herrick Park Drive in Tecumseh.

LaFerriere first started with the food chain in 1941 in Winooski, Vermont, his home town. He moved to Adrian in 1946 and was associated with the A & P there until he came to Tecumseh in August 1956.

LaFerriere has had wide experience in the retail grocery business, having served in practically every department of the store, including butcher, produce department head and dairy-coffee head.

He is married to the former Jeanette Peters of Adrian. They have two children — Thomas, 5, and Marc, 2.

A veteran of World War II, LaFerrier served in the U. S. Air Force in England, France and the Phillipines. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Elect Mrs. Tuckey

Mrs. Tillie Tuckey has been named president of Past Oracle of Royal Neighbors of America. Others elected for the year were Mrs. Lilla Beevers, vice president and Mrs. Opal Brady, secretary and treasurer.

A & P candy makers are continually guided in their choice of recipes by consumer preferences.

Food Experts Travel To Purchase the Best

Buyers travel hundreds of thousands of miles to purchase A & P foods at the source. Not only do these food-selecting experts travel the length and breadth of America, but they venture into foreign lands as well — inspecting, selecting and purchasing the cream of the crop for A & P.

Tea Led to Founding of A&P Chain

Tea, romantic brew of the ages, led directly to the founding of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, the nation's oldest and best known food store chain.

Nearly 100 years ago, a man named George Huntington Hartford conceived an idea for the sale of tea which formed the basis for what is now considered the world's most efficient method of food distribution.

In the pre-civil war days of 1859, tea came to America in the famed China Clipper ships. After the long voyage, tea still had to do a lot of traveling before it reached the housewife's pot.

Bought and sold many times by middlemen, tea passed through the hands of brokers, wholesalers and jobbers. Each tacked on his costs of business and added a profit. The price went up and UP. Few persons could afford to buy tea in retail stores.

☆

GEORGE HUNTINGTON HARTFORD, founder of the A & P, had the idea that if he could bypass some of the intermediary agents and simplify the complicated marketing procedure of those days and eliminate delays, he could sell quality tea at a lower price to more people.

Arrangements were made for the shipment of a clipper load of prime tea direct from China. As soon as the cargo arrived at the New York wharf it was unloaded and moved straight to a little, gas-lit, red fronted store on Vesey Street in New York. The tea was put on sale at about one-third the usual price.

Soon horses' iron shoes and the rims of wagon wheels struck sparks from the cobblestones.

Town people and country people, surprised at being able to purchase this luxury at a price they could afford, crowded the store.

☆

ONE OF THE world's great companies was born that day. The little Vesey Street store was the first of the great chain of food stores to be developed by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company.

The basic idea was and remains sound. By shortening the route of food between producer and consumer, by eliminating delays and by bypassing the costs and profits of needless handling and rehandling, a quality product could be retailed at a lower price to a greatly increased number of people. This idea is today the fundamental philosophy back of A & P's method of food distribution.

Now, as when the Vesey Street store was company headquarters, the company's tea trade still centers in New York. But now the ships unload their cargoes directly into the A & P's bonded waterfront warehouses where the leaf is blended, sampled and tested by a board of experts and packaged.

Know the Weeds Before Killing

It pays to know your weeds, especially if you want to control them with chemicals.

Scientists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station point out that there are many chemicals that will kill weeds. But their use is specific.

Certain chemicals have been developed to kill one or only a few species of weeds. Some are very selective; they will kill a certain weed growing in with other plants while not damaging the desired plants.

You can get help in identifying weeds from your county agricultural agent. Check with the agent first. If the weed can't be identified locally, send it to the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology, Michigan State University, East Lansing, for identification.

School Election Will Be Monday

Annual election of Tecumseh schools will be Monday.

The agricultural laboratory in the high school building on North Maumee street is to be used for the election.

For the convenience of registered voters, cars may be driven in the curved drive at the high school and voters may enter the polling room through the large double door.

Dr. Ralph Helzerman, incumbent, and Jack Osburn are seeking a seat on the board of education for the 1958-1961 term.

Vets Have Until 1960 for GI Loans

Veterans of World War II may know that they have two more years — until July 25, 1960 — to apply for GI loans under the Veterans Administration guaranty program.

Veterans may not know the July 25, 1960 deadline for guaranteed loans means that VA must receive the lender's loan guarantee application by that date.

The 1960 deadline does not apply to VA-guaranteed loans to Korean conflict veterans, who have until January 31, 1965, to use that benefit, Mr. Jameson pointed out.

War Orphans Take Action for College

Now is the ideal time for young men and women to start taking action if they intend to enroll in school or college in the fall under the War Orphans Education program (Public Law 634), the Veterans' Administration urges.

The program provides educational assistance for the sons and daughters of war veterans who died of injuries or diseases resulting from their military service in World War I, World War II, or the Korean conflict. Generally, war orphan students must be between 18 and 23 years of age.

Education may be taken in colleges and universities, as well as below-college-level schools. Regular high school training is not included in the law, and below-college-level courses must equip students for definite vocational objectives. On-the-job training and correspondence courses are not allowed.

Polio Outbreak Possible

Millions of People Face Danger

Recently, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney of the Public Health Service warned that this summer could develop into a great Polio hazard if our unvaccinated population do not protect themselves with vaccine.

More than one person out of four in the dangerous, under twenty year old group, have never been vaccinated. Also, there are about 48.5 million persons in the susceptible, under forty years old group, without this protection.

The now available Salk vaccine has been an important factor in the 85% reduction of paralytic Polio cases during the last two years.

IS YOUR FAMILY PROTECTED AGAINST POLIO? If not, see your physician quickly. Delay is both dangerous and unwise. We have the important Salk Polio vaccine in stock.

Sincerely,

Ralph E. Hodge

OUT COMES ANOTHER LOAF OF MRS. HAYDEN'S TASTY NUT BREAD

Free Nut Bread

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Thanks to Mrs. Perry Hayden

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Mrs. Perry Hayden has been busy all week baking wheat germ nut bread which will be given away this weekend at the new A&P Super Market.

With an assist from her freezer, Mrs. Hayden has been able to turn out dozens and dozens of loaves, all of which will be "oven fresh" come Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Lela Thurlby will give the bread away, along with copies of the recipe—which, of course, features Hayden's Wheat Germ.

☆

SINCE THE death of her husband, Mrs. Hayden has continued the sale of Wheat Germ, which is a product of the Dynamic Kernels Foundation. She is kept busy as president of the Foundation and active president of the Hayden Milling Company.

Buying the raw wheat germ and managing the production and sale of it is no small task, but with the help of the youngest of her six children, John, in the sixth grade, she manages very capably.

At present she also has the assistance of son, Joe, who is home for the summer after graduating from Hampden Dubois Academy in Florida. He will enter Taylor University in Upland, Indiana, in the fall.

The four older children are married and have families of their own. They are Bill who is living in Utica, New York; Mary Jane (Mrs. Roland Wells) who is at present visiting her mother from Louisville, Kentucky; Martha (Mrs. Kenneth Woodward) of Decatur, Illinois, and Betty (Mrs. Kenyon Sprunger) of Berne, Indiana.

☆

ONE OF THE many tasks connected with the Foundation is the rental of the film, "God Is My Landlord," used by many churches throughout the United States in the promotion of tithing and stewardship.

Besides her business activities, Mrs. Hayden has always led a busy active life in the Tecumseh Friends Church where her husband was inspired to start the world famous project of the tithing of a cubic inch of wheat which covered the period of years from 1940 to 1947.

Besides traveling about the country to visit the family, Mrs. Hayden has always enjoyed music, attending many of the concerts in Ann Arbor and singing in the church choir and the music club chorus.

In 1945 she was chosen State Mother of the Year. She is a past president of both the Tecumseh Monday Club and the WCTU.

☆

MRS. HAYDEN tells us an interesting little incident that happened recently. Someone from Britton called the Hayden residence to find out more about the showing of the film mentioned above that was to be held at the Baptist Church, having just read about it in The Herald.

Surprised because she had no knowledge of such an event, Mrs. Hayden read her issue carefully and found the item in the column "Heralds from Bygone Years," under 1948.

THE Long & Short OF IT

SOME DAYS AGO THE REAR license plate on our family car came off and we tossed it in the back end.

As we drove along M-112 Sunday, a pair of alert State troopers watched us go by, were in the road like a shot and soon we found ourselves explaining about the missing tag.

The incident brought to mind a story a barber — not one in Tecumseh — once unwove to me as he trimmed my hair.

In his younger days he dreamed of owning a fleet of trucks and one day he had it — two rather tired old dump models. This was during the early Thirties.

Then it came license-plate time and he discovered a set for each of his vehicles would cost in the neighborhood of $75. And this was a neighborhood he hadn't seen much of since going into business for himself.

So he took one truck in for tags, but placed only one of the set on it. The other plate went on his second truck.

He said it — and I'm inclined to believe the wind up on this bizzard tale — he operated for a year this way. Although stopped several times, the drivers always appeared surprised when told a plate was missing.

Once, a law-enforcing officer told the driver to fashion a plate of cardboard until he could get a replacement.

Now, don't go out and try it. You'd probably get nailed the first day.

☆

WHEN SOMETHING NICE like our recent award winning happens, we glow all over.

In reality, it's a tribute to a lot of folks and I'd like to tell you about a few.

At age 13, when I proudly announced to my father that I intended to be a sports writer, he gave me a sound piece of advise: "Read 'The Umpire' every day."

This was the column written by H. G. Salsinger, long-time sports editor of the Detroit News.

Now retired, Mr. Salsinger used to bang out expert pieces day after day for nearly 50 years. He was not a one-sport man. His work covered baseball, football, basketball, tennis, golf, horse racing — the works.

And each column was presented in a straight-forward, informative manner, always devoid of frilly, throat-catching phrases which characterize so many modern-day writers.

Following my dad's suggestion was no chore and I soon became an "Umpire" fan, enjoying every minute of it.

My first full-time newspaper job was with a small daily and a fellow staffer was Harry Salsinger, Jr. We got to be good friends and I often talked with him about his famous father.

The thing that amazed me most of all the stories Harry told me was that the News sports editor had never been an enthusiast of the "friendly fields of strife."

He was an up-and-coming newspaperman on the News staff when they needed a capable hand to take over the sports department. The job went to Mr. Salsinger and he dug in on every assignment, treating each as a challenging news story.

He soon became a leading columnist and one of the most capable story-tellers in the profession.

His short, but dramatic sentences and easy-to-read paragraphs made a real impression on my thinking.

My dad had started me on the right track and I thank him.

Dr. Helzerman defeated his opponent, John G. Osburn, 481 to 121, and was sworn into office that night at the school board meeting.

He also was re-elected secretary of the board. Mr. Osburn was seeking his first public office.

The electorate overwhelmingly approved the sale of the school buildings, now vacated by the local schools.

Skid Row Movie Is Showing Twice

"If God cared about people there wouldn't be any skid row!" This is the indictment voiced by a bitter young alcoholic, in the film, "The Street", which will be presented by the Devils Lake Drive-In Church, this coming Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 9:15 p.m.

"The Street" is a Skid Row document in sound and color, based upon an actual case history, and filmed in authentic skid row locations.

Appraisal Requests For Proposed GI Homes Up 22 Percent in June

Appraisal requests in Michigan for proposed GI homes went up 22 percent to a total of 2,570 during June, compared with the 2,103 in May, the regional office in Detroit reports.

It was noted also that appraisal requests for existing homes were up 38 percent to 371 during the month, compared with May's 268.

GI housing starts during June were up 223 percent to 184, compared with 57 in May.

VA Detroit Regional Office received 653 home loan applications during the month, an increase of 54 percent over May's 423.

However, the sharp rise in appraisal requests will be reflected during the coming months in a greatly increased number of both GI starts and home loan applications.

Douglas Dunn Joins Green Funeral Home

Douglas Dunn of Onsted will be associated with the Green Funeral Home, announces George Green, Jr.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Dunn, Douglas has lived in Lenawee county his entire life.

He attended Culver Military Academy between 1951 and 1954, and in 1955 graduated from Onsted high school.

He attended Western Michigan University for two years and then the Wayne State University School of Mortuary Science where he graduated this June.

Owen Dunn, Onsted funeral director has bought in with the Green Funeral Home. George E. Green, Jr., will continue to manage the firm, and he and his family will continue residence at the funeral home.

3 Weeks in North

Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Gilbert and two daughters returned recently from a three-week vacation spent at Mackinac Island, in the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin. Mrs. Gilbert and the girls spent a few days with her father near Ludington where Mr. Gilbert joined them again for the Fourth of July weekend.

School Officials Meet with Council about Sidewalks

The Tecumseh school board voted to have Supt. James McDowell and Dr. Ralph Helzerman attend next Monday's council meeting to discuss construction of sidewalks along Adrian street to the new Tecumseh Acres school.

The board and city officials have attempted for several months to arrange for sidewalks to the school. No definite action has been taken and at the last council meeting, city manager Ed Nelson was asked to investigate construction possibilities.

City attorney James Beardsley, via letter to the board, reported a city ordinance authorized construction of sidewalks without property owners consent if there was a necessity.

The board, at the June meeting, told several residents of the Sunset Meadows area that their children would be bussed if sidewalks were not available.

Supt. McDowell estimated the cost of bussing children to the new school at $3,000.

☆

MRS. LESLIE BENNETT was given permission to use the Pink building for a nursery school, starting next September, at $10 a month rent.

Mrs. Bennett, wife of the school's vocal music director, is a qualified instructor and plans to operate the school at the same time the Tecumseh schools are in session.

In other board action, the FFA was authorized to buy a 1957 Chevrolet pickup to borrow $50,000, until state funds are received; and not to request deferments for teachers from the Selective Service board.

All officers of the board were re-elected for the coming year: Jens Touberg, president; Aden Mead, vice president; Dr. Ralph Helzerman, secretary; and Dike Hodge, treasurer.

LUSTY SWING — Jim Baker is the Little League batter beginning to swing at an offering from Greg Allen. Jim missed and so did his team, the Jaycees, which lost Tuesday evening to Greg's Products Union crew. The boys play hard, get a real bang out of the games.

VOICE of THE HERALD

The Kids Enjoy It

It's July and it's hot.

Many are coming and going as the vacation pace quickens. The stay-at-home youngsters are able to flit from one activity to another . . . there's the pool and the Pit and the athletic fields, to name a few centers of summer time action.

The oldsters are pretty well content to just sit around and relax, although there are a few who insist on toiling under the torrid sun in gardens and on lawns. These latter make many of we lazier ones feel a mite guilty.

It may seem difficult for the people doomed to the city for the summer, but make a quick trip to Detroit one of these red-hot days and find out how rugged it can really be.

All that concrete and asphalt, oozing layer after layer of heat into the mid-day air. Wow! We did it last weekend and nearly suffocated. Man, it was good to be back in Tecumseh.

A few paragraphs above we spoke of the boys and girls and the fun they can find in the long, lazy days of June, July and August.

Maybe you've noticed the recreation column we run with the numerous reports of softball, baseball and swimming activities.

Our youngsters have a full program available to them and we think that's just grand.

Credit for this goes to Vic Lawson, our high school athletic director who operates the community's summer rec. program. Vic and his staff have done a swell job in organizaing all the various leagues and events.

If we wore a hat in July, we'd tip it to Vic.

Marcia Bashore Exchanges Vows with James Kroske

Tall white wedding hampers filled with white gladi and palms banked the altar and the vases were filled with the same white blossoms at the First Baptist Church for the wedding of Marcia Ann Bashore and James C. Kroske which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. B. O. Bashore of 108 S. Union st. and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kroske of 325 E. Main st., Manchester.

The double ring ceremony was performed by her father, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Raymond Taylor of the First Baptist Church of Adrian.

☆

BETTY DAY sang three solos preceding and during the ceremony accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Dillon at the organ. They were, "How Do I Love Thee?", "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The traditional white aisle runner was laid as the bride entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father.

She wore a floor length gown of white Schiffli embroidered nylon tulle featuring a medallion edge on the sabrina neckline, short sleeves and down the front of the redingote over the ruffled tulle underskirt.

A matching lace jewel trimmed cap held her silk illusion finger tip veil in place and she carried a white Bible, the gift of her father, which was topped with a white orchid, white rosebuds and lovers' knots.

☆

HER ONLY JEWELRY was a heart shaped necklace, the gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Edward Bock of Britton, Sylvia Heizerman and Mrs. Allen Barrett both of Tecumseh, all high school friends of the bride. They were identically gowned in coral crystalette street length dresses featuring full gathered skirts with sashes and large bows at the back. The sleeveless fitted bodice of each featured a high square neckline. The attendants carried fan shaped floral arrangements and wore small picture hats of crystalette made by the bride to match their gowns.

Little Jamie Danforth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Danforth, was the flower girl dressed in replica of the bridesmaids gowns and also wearing a picture hat made by the bride.

Mark Froelich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Froelich was the ring bearer.

Edward Bock attended Mr. Kroske as best man and the guests were seated by James Bashore, brother of the bride and David Hough of Jackson, cousin of the bride.

☆

FOR HER DAUGHTER'S wedding Mrs. Bashore wore a gown of light blue lace with white accessories and Mrs. Kroske wore beige lace with matching accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

A reception for about 300 guests was held immediately following the ceremony in the Youth House with Mr. and Mrs. Mills Swick and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Baily as hosts.

The bride's table featured silver candelabra entwined with ivy on a white linen cloth. The ivy also encircled the wedding cake.

Miniature floral arrangements adorned the window of the Youth House and attractive doll cakes made by Mrs. Allen Froelich in the colors of the bridal party were placed on the piano.

Mrs. Earl Woods had charge of the guest book at the wedding and Mrs. Jack Hill at the reception.

Mrs. Harold Rhora and Mrs. Douglas Aylesworth cut and served the bride's cake and Mrs. Alroy Vanderpool served the groom's. Margaret Washer, cousin of the bride, from Chicago, and Mrs. Mills Swick assisted at the tea service and school friends o fthe bride also assisted in the serving. They were Jill Bennington and Wanda Michalik. Mrs. Russell Hyatt and Lorna Dyke had charge of gifts.

Others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. John Surratt, Mrs. Arlie Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Grigg and Camilla.

☆

THE REHEARSAL DINNER was held Thursday evening in the Youth House with Mrs. Allen Froelick and Mrs. Frank Gieger of Clinton as hostesses.

For their wedding trip into northern Michigan the bride changed to a grey sheath and coat with white accessories and pinned the white orchid from her bridal bouquet to her shoulder.

They will make their home at 305 Perrin street in Ypsilanti where the bride will be a junior, majoring in home economics at Eastern Michigan College and the groom is employed by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Guests attended the wedding from Manchester, Monroe, Lansing, Clinton, Chicago, Illinois,; Des Moines, Iowa; Detroit, Dearborn, Jackson, Holloway, Britton and Ridgeway.

Margie Papp and Dale Monagin Married Saturday Evening

The Rev. Vaughn Whited performed the double ring ceremony in the West Side Methodist Church of Ann Arbor when Margie Papp became the bride of Dale Monagin Saturday evening.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Papp of 31664 Ridge road and he is the son of Mrs. Claude Penn of Vandercook Lake and the late Lowell Monagin.

"Loving You" and "Because Your Mine" were sung by Harry Smith of Dundee preceding the ceremony.

White and purple bows marked the family pews. A long low arrangement of white gladioli and carnations accented the altar during the candlelight ceremony.

☆

THE BRIDE approached the altar on the arm of her father in a ballerina length gown of embroidered illusion made by her mother. The princess styled gown featured long sleeves ending in points over her hands and a V neckline. She was given in marriage by her parents.

Her fingertip veil edged with embroidered flowers was held in place by a pearl tiara and she wore tiny pearl earrings, the gift of the groom. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of yellow rosettes.

Janet Papp preceded her sister down the aisle as maid of honor wearing a gown of orchid crystalette over violet taffets in the same style as the bride's. She wore a head band of violet taffeta with a short veil, white gloves and carried an arrangement of purple and white daisies.

The bridesmaids, Beverly Rohrback, Mrs. Richard Prill and Margie Heiber, all friends of the bride, were gowned in orchid crystalette over orchid taffeta fashioned in the same style as the bride's. Each wore orchid headbands with short veils and carried orchid colored daisies.

☆

LITTLE SUSAN AMSTUTZ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amstutz, was the flower girl dressed in orchid organdy. She strew petals from her basket of flowers as she and the ring bearer, Ricky Patterson, preceded the bride down the aisle. Ricky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patterson and he wore a white suit and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Douglas Monagin was his brother's best man and Larry Kanous, Jim Wood, Jim Nichols, Dick Prill and Jack Patterson seated the 350 guests.

Mrs. Papp chose a pink embroidered crystallete sheath for her daughter's wedding with pink and white accessories. Mrs. Penn wore a blue linen sheath with blue and white accessories. Both mothers wore pink rosette corsages pinned to their shoulders.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kanous of Britton were hosts at the church and also at the reception held at the Grange Hall following the ceremony.

☆

FLOWERS OF PURPLE and yellow topped the five-tiered cake which centered the bride's table at the reception and lighted candelabra were used on the white linen cloth draped with purple net.

Mrs. Herbert Morden was serving hostess, Mrs. Elizabeth Hank, Mrs. Henry Brown and Mrs. Howard McAlister poured while Mrs. Ralph Meyers served the cake. Joan Downing and Mrs. James Nichols served punch. Mrs. James Squires had charge of the guest book.

For their trip to northern Michigan for one week the new Mrs. Monagin changed to a black and white chemise with matching accessories.

When they return they will make their home at 2943 Russell road.

The bride is a graduate of Britton-Macon high school and received a state limited certificate from Eastern Michigan College. She will continue her education at Adrian College and teach at Raisin Center in the fall. While at Eastern she was affiliated with the Pi Kappa Sigma sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amstutz were hosts for the rehearsal dinner.

'Charley's Aunt' Plays in Toledo

TOLEDO, O. — "Charley's Aunt," perhaps the most hilarious of the five comedies being presented in Toledo's Summer Theatre Festival, will open July 21 in the Toledo Zoo Indoor Theatre.

The play is a well-established comedy, revolving about a man who poses as a woman.

All performances will be at 8:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday. The only exception is Thursday when the show will start at 9 p.m. Earlier the same evening — at 5:30 — a Family Night performance of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness" will be presented.

Board of Ed Partially Reduces School Bond Debt

Tecumseh Board of Education retired $160,000 of the 1952 Tecumseh school bonds during the year, according to James McDowell, superintendent of schools.

The board also placed in escrow $50,000 to complete payment of the balance of the 1952 bond debt.

Three thousand dollars was retired of the Ridgeway district 1953 bonds in addition to the regular yearly payment of $2,500. The board also paid $30,000 interest on the 1957 bond debt. This leaves $78,000 towards the bond payments for 1958-59.

How You Help

EDITOR'S NOTE: As a pub-In the time it takes to eat din-the following article to familiarize the public with the year-round work of agencies obtaining funds from the Lenawee County United Fund.

CEREBRAL PALSY

nI the time it takes to eat dinner, cerebral palsy will strike.

Somewhere in America, it strikes every 53 minutes, every day in the year.

It cripples cruelly. But that is merely the beginning.

Cerebral palsy's damage ranges far beyond the child. It may cripple the family's finances, their normal relaxation. And, where there are other children, it can absorb their share of deeply needed affection.

☆

NOTHING KNOWN to man approaches its power to cripple infants in so many ways . . . in such a dismaying variety of ways.

Their arms, legs, vertebrae, neck muscles, speech, their breathing apparatus, their balance, their hands.

Those are some of the reasons cerebral palsy has been called our cruellest crippler.

Tragically, it strikes babies, for the most part. It results from a tiny injury to the brain, before, during, or soon after birth. But it can strike anyone. At any time.

One of its most baffling aspects is that rugged health in parents doesn't count at all. Cerebral palsy can strike in the healthfest family.

☆

WHAT IS BEING done about it?

United Cerebral Palsy carries a year-round, two-pronged attack. One corps battles here, using the weapons of therapy, education, vocational training.

The supporting attack, nationwide, fights unremittingly with research to forge the key to prevention.

This wide-ranging, stubborn crippler is our problem. It is our problem because any crushing hardship cries out with an undeniable appeal.

It is estimated by United Cerebral Palsy Association that 219 people in Lenawee County have Cerebral Palsy.

☆

THE SOUTH EAST Michigan affiliate, which services Lenawee and Monroe counties through a center in Palmyra, provides speech therapy and development for 14 cerebral palsied children.

Thanks to your generosity more cerebral palsied children will receive speech and physical therapy through the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Michigan and its 19 local affiliates.

The State Association, one of 33 state and national agencies of the Michigan United Fund, have been and will be supported by you and your neighbors through the Lenawee County United Fund this fall.

For further information, call or visit your County Fund office, 121 East Maumee Street, Adrian — CO 3-1598.

Hi-Steppers Club Visit Evans Lake and Plan Projects

The Country Hi-Steppers 4-H Club met last Tuesday evening at Frank and Tommy Cregers' cottage on Evans Lake.

Plans were made for a project tour which was held Saturday, July 12.

Swimming and boating were enjoyed preceding the meeting and the dinner by 10 members and their parents.

Members met at the home of Carolyn and David Woods Saturday morning to go on the project tour with John Comstock who was a guest. After touring the homes and viewing the projects all enjoyed a potluck dinner and hot dog roast at the home of Sharon and Diane Mitzner.

Plans were made for practice for the soft ball game held Wednesday at the Colvin School with the Raisin Cookies 4-H Club.

The next meeting of the Club will be held July 19 at 7 p.m. at the Mitzner home.

CHAMBER of COMMERCE
Murph Reports

By DON MURPHY
Executive Secretary

TECUMSEH'S CHAMBER OF Commerce will be sponsoring the Lenawee County Band festival, an annual event of the past ten years.

The festival, which has as a theme "God Bless America", will be held at Recreation Field October 7.

Several members of the Lenawee County Band Masters Association met recently with Clare Camburn, director of the festival, to determine the theme of and make general plans for the event.

The Chamber is planning to make this, the eleventh showing, one of the most spectacular events in southern Michigan.

☆

FIRST BOARD OF DIRECTORS meeting was held in the Chamber office July 8.

The suggested program of action was studied and adopted by the board. Plans are being formed for a general membership meeting in the near future.

Board members Dr. Richard Cook, Skip Rex, Jack Osburn, Chuck Butler, Gale Fisher, Harold Easton and Tom Corkery were present for the meeting.

Dick Eggleston and Dr. Bob Murray were not present.

Visitors were Bill Wright and Tom Riordan.

This was one of the best board meetings I have ever attended. The enthusiasm was something that every Chamber executive dreams of and seldom sees.

With continued enthusiasm and work, I feel the Tecumseh Chamber will accomplish many things in years to come.

2,500 Sheep Sheared

Otto Miller, another adult ag student taking part in the corn-growing contest, lives on an 80-acre farm near Macon with his wife, Irene, and their three children, Connie, Michael and Floyd.

Mr. Miller and his father, James, work 200 acres of land together.

Otto, who was graduated from a short course at Michigan State University, is engaged in general farming with emphasis on sheep.

Last spring he custom sheared 2,500 sheep. Among crops planted are 60 acres of corn, 42 wheat, 30 hay and 15 of soybeans and oats.

Livestock enterprises on the farm consist of 27 breeding beef cows and calves, 9 dairy cows, 28 breeding hogs, 200 laying hens and 75 Dorset ewes.

☆

ON OTTO'S one-acre contest plot he plowed down 600 pounds of 12-12-12 fertilizer, 500 pounds of 6-24-12 fertilizer and 15 loads of manure.

He used Pioneer seed corn in 40-inch rows and set the planter to 8-inch spacing in the row. Otto plans to add an additional 50 pounds of nitrogen.

Paul Burns, agriculture instructor, said that much interest has been shown in this contest.

According to Mr. Burns there is a lot of good corn entered and the winning acre should produce well over 100 bushels.

The Future Farmers of the high school have an unofficial entry in the contest.

Methodists Dedicate Set of Paraments

Sunday Tecumseh Methodists will hear a sermon by their pastor, Rev. James D. Nixon, on the theme "3-D Experience."

In this talk, Mr. Nixon will discuss what the doctrine of the Trinity ought and ought not to mean to Christians.

In that service a new set of paraments for altar, pulpit and lecturn will be dedicated. Created in green brocade bearing a Trinitarian symbol in the design of the fabric, they also have appropriate symbols appliqued in gold.

Mrs. Edna Codling has served the church in creating these paraments for the present season of Trinity in the church year.

She also made the white paraments which were dedicated on June 1st when the remodeled sanctuary was rededicated.

Mrs. Codling has consented to complete the set and will be preparing purple paraments to be ready for Advent, beginning November 30th.

Farmers Advised To Store Wheat for Six Months

It'll probably pay some Michigan wheat growers to plan to store their grain for about six months, believes a Michigan State University farm economist.

Economist John Ferris reports that the state's wheat crop will be about 10 to 12 per cent larger than last year. Twelve per cent more acres were planted to wheat in the state.

Nationally the soft wheat crop is expected to be 30 to 40 per cent larger than a year ago.

This expected larger supply has already influenced contract prices. Contracting prices for July and August wheat are about 15 to 20 cents below supports now. Support prices are averaging about $1.82 per bushel in the southern part of the state.

☆

FERRIS SAYS that if wheat prices drop more than 15 cents below support rates at harvest, storing should be profitable on many farms.

On the average, it'll cost about 12 cents per bushel to store wheat for six months. This charge includes extra handling, interest, damage and insurance.

Costs for providing bin space would be additional. However, if bins are already available and would not be used, bin costs can be disregarded.

Wheat prices will probably advance to, but not much above, support levels later this year, Ferris thinks. One reason is that many farmers who have loans pay them off when market prices move up to about 10 cents above support levels.

Government loans and purchase agreements will again be available from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1959. Loans will mature on March 31, 1959.

Support prices on the 1959 crop will be about $1.81 per bushel.

*Quotation by Hippocrates (460-377 B.C.)

Girl Tells of Camp

Sharlene Hoffmeister of Tecumseh was chosen to represent Lenawee County 4-H Clubs at Camp Shaw in the Upper Peninsula.

Here in Sharlene's own words are her impressions of the trip.

"I started my trip on June 23. I had to catch my bus in Jackson at 5 a.m. It took us 11½ hours to reach the camp and when we got there and registered, we were divided into tribes or different groups.

"That night we were introduced to the camp counselors, shown slides on all of the natural resources and were given an outline of all the activities for the week to come.

"On Tuesday we went to the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station. We tested soil and were shown slides on the uses of Michigamme. The world.

"On Wednesday we went to the Cliffs-Dow Chemical plant. This plant showed us how charcoal is made. We also went to the Upper Peninsula Experimental Forest.

"On Thursday we went to Lake Michigamme. Here we saw the different kinds of fish. We had a picnic lunch at the lake. After lunch we went to the Republic Mine. This mine produces iron ore.

"On Friday, which in my mind was one of the most interesting days, we went to the Cusino-Wildlife Experiment Station. We went on a 2½ mile deer drive and saw four does and one unidentified fawn. This day was the most exciting day of all, and in everyone's eyes and to everyone's feet, the most tiring. We all slept well that night.

"On Saturday we had our breakfast at 5 a.m. and at 5:30 a.m. we left for home."

Summer Shows Up Weak Links in Milk Program

If there's a weak link in your milk handling program, expect it to show up this summer, says John W. Comstock, county agricultural agent.

Warm weather gives bacteria the boost they need to multiply rapidly.

Cooling milk promptly during the warm weather is the best way to keep bacteria growth down. Check equipment to make sure it is cooling milk below 50 degrees F. in 1½ hours or less.

The agricultural agent also reminds dairymen to check equipment for cleanliness. Too often it is assumed that because automatic cleaning equipment has been installed, no further attention need be given to the milking system.

Surfaces of all equipment coming in contact with milk need to be bright, shiny and free from milkstone. Also, check milker inflations to see that they are in good working condition as well as clean. Many Michigan dairymen are storing inflations in a cold lye solution weekly to keep them in good condition.

Summer Religious Activities Claim Local Residents

Attending camps this summer were Dick Hadsell, Tom Nixon, Pam Nixon, Phil Miller, Kirk Lucas, Kent Lucas, Susan Harris and Doris Harris. Margaret Harris went on the MYF bus caravan to visit Methodist institutions in the mid-west.

Stoop to Conquer Weeds Properly Avoids Backaches

Some gardeners can expect to be troubled with a new "disease" this season. It's called the gardener's backache.

It's most likely to show up after stooping, pulling and tugging on long rooted stubborn weeds to get them out of the garden.

Generally, it's best to use a hoe or other grubbing tool on the "toughies." But if you must pull, here are a couple of suggestions from Louis G. Hall, Lenawee county agricultural agent.

Pulling a weed is much like lifting a weight. Use the same posture that is recommended for lifting. Hall says.

Bend the knees and crouch down, feet apart, with back straight and shoulders over hips. Grasp the unwanted plant near its base with both hands and then pull with short, steady jerks, making use of the strong leg muscles.

If this technique won't bring the weed out easily, get a tool to help, the agent suggests. Don't be sorry you stooped to conquer a weed!

Safety Works for You

"When you work for safety-safety works for you" is the theme of the 15th National Farm Safety Week which is July 20 through 26.

According to the National Safety Council, farm work accidents claim 3,300 to 4,000 lives each year, more than any other major industry.

It is also pointed out by the council that 12,000 to 15,000 farm residents lose their lives each year in all types of accidents.

A million or more farm people suffer accidental injuries and the accompanying disabilities, miseries and financial troubles each year.

Ask yourself, who loses after an accident? Actually, everyone in the nation is affected, directly or indirectly, by the annual farm accident toll. Business in general loses economically and socially after a farm accident. The victims and their families, however, suffer the greatest loss.

☆

HUMAN FAILURE, not motor vehicles, farm machinery and equipment and animals, is the basic cause of accidents.

In nearly every case, human failure to recognize and correct a hazard is the real cause of accidental death and injury.

Human failures include hurry, lack of common sense, improper equipment, improper care and use of equipment, procrastination, false confidence and lack of knowledge.

OBVIOUSLY MOST, if not all, farm accidents can be prevented. It is a fact that in states where good safety committees with well planned active programs are in existence, accident rates have been reduced.

By making regular safety inspections of their homes, buildings, fields, machinery and equipment and by making careful attitudes and work habits a part of everyday life, farm people can help.

Rohrbach, Bush Are Re-Elected to Board Posts

BRITTON — A record turnout of 348 voters cast ballots in Monday's school board election here.

Both incumbents, Harold Rohrbach and Leland Bush, were returned to positions on the board.

Mr. Rohrbach was given 305 votes and Mrs. Bush 243.

Running against them were Henry Mastie (73 votes) and Andrew Crutchfield (69).

Following the poll closing, the annual school meeting was held with a complete financial report given.

It was pointed out that the Britton-Macon system used $198,607 for operations during the past year, leaving a balance of approximately $9,000.

"Are there any special precautions to take when writing a check?"

Yes — and they are these: Use pen, never pencil; write the amount in words at the far left, and fill in the unused space with a heavy line; write the amount in figures close to the dollar sign; be sure that these two amounts agree; don't erase or make alterations; sign the check only when completed. The "check way" is the safe way to pay. Open your checking account soon, with us; make full use of it — and observe the precautions suggested above to transfer your hard-earned funds with a maximum of safety.

Let Child Try

Now is the time to start preparing your child for school. Your child needs more than a new pair of shoes and a well scrubbed face when he begins his school adventure.

So says Lennah K. Backus, extension child development specialist at Michigan State University.

He needs experiences during his pre-school years to help him take starting school "in his stride." You can help him have these experiences.

For example, a child needs some feeling of independence when he starts school. This cannot be instilled in him overnight; it comes as you gradually let him do things for himself.

☆

THE WORDS, "I can do it — let me" may have a familiar ring. Your child has perhaps reached the stage where he wants to dress himself, brush his own teeth, tie his shoes, help with small tasks around the house—let him.

He'll try hard to do a good job when he's interested in learning. He may not do everything perfectly, but he becomes more skilled as you give him a chance to practice.

It will no doubt take a great deal of patience on your part—you can tie Johnnie's shoes faster than you can show him how. And the cake would be in the oven quicker if Mary didn't help you.

☆

HOWEVER, perhaps you can have them help with part of a job, with smaller jobs and at certain times. Maybe Mary can grease the cake pan while you do the mixing.

Little Johnnie needs praise when he has done a job well—and remember to judge his work by a child's standard, not your own. Through the encouragement and praise you give him he will gain a great sense of independence and responsibility.

Such practices will likely help him be equal to the things he is called on to do at school.

Goodwill Industries Pick-up Truck to be in Tecumseh July 22

"Children outgrow clothes rapidly at pre-school and school age, and often mothers, without realizing it, save these clothes until school begins before replacing them.

"Goodwill Industries needs clothing now, and if those who are spending their summer at home would contribute this clothing immediately, it would help keep nearly 450 physically handicapped persons at work through the summer months," according to Mrs. Carl Burch, Goodwill Industries' telephone representative in Tecumseh.

The next pick-up by the Goodwill truck in Tecumseh and Tipton will be Tuesday, July 22. If you want the truck to stop at your home for your discards, call Mrs. Burch at 868.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Strong and Mr. and Mrs. Don Jaque of Holloway spent the week end at Hocking State Park Hocking County, Ohio.

This park includes six scenic areas, which are Old Mans Cave, Cedar Falls, Ash Cave, Rock House, Cantwell Clifts and Canbles Hollow.

Micheal Aten was a guest for a week of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Kahle.

WHAT'S COOKING IN TECUMSEH

Hermit Cookies

Mrs. Clayton Bigelow of near Macon brings the cooking column back to life with her delicious hermit cookies. The recipe printed below makes use of sour milk, which is quite often available in the summer especially after one of the many picnics.

Mrs. Bigelow was a former resident of Tecumseh until her marriage to Mr. Bigelow in March of 1956. She has one daughter, Mrs. Gibbs Barber, with three children: Philip 10, Rochelle 7 and Jon 3, and one son, Lowell, with three children; Stanley 10, Gregg 7 and Lesley Kay 4.

Music is a major interest in her life, she studied three years of piano at the Normal College in Ypsilanti and began teaching students at the age of 17. She has taught about 35 years.

When a young girl she began as church organist for the St. James Evangelical church located on US 112 between Saline and Clinton and played there for seven years.

During this time there were two Sunday mornings when the roads were so icy the faithful organist decided to walk the four miles each way rather than drive a horse.

She says that services were a bit late those mornings because her hands were so cold they had to be warmed up before they would perform properly on the keyboard.

☆

MRS. BIGELOW RECALLS another interesting thing that occurred while she was serving at the Evangelical Church. On a summer Sunday morning a playful breeze removed the music she was playing from the rack, turned it over a couple of times and deposited it at the minister's feet.

As she improvised, the minister returned the music to the rack and the service went on uninterrupted to the astonishment of the congregation which included her anxious father.

Since that time Mrs. Bigelow has been substitute organist in many of the local churches and now has a Hammond organ in her home.

Gardening is another hobby of hers. She says, "flowers talk to you." She is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Tecumseh Garden Club, the Monday Club, Eastern Star, Macon Choir and Women's Club, Tecumseh Grange and the Pomona Grange Chorus.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow enjoy traveling about the state, make frequent trips into Ohio and also to Florida.

☆

HERE IS THE recipe for her delicious hermit cookies:

Cream 2 cups brown sugar
1 cup butter or crisco,
Beat in 2 eggs
⅔ cup sour milk

Add and beat well one teaspoon each of salt, soda, cinnamon, nutmeg, vanilla, and a cup of raisins or coconut.

Add about three cups of flour to make a soft dough. Drop from teaspoon to cookie sheet which has been rubbed with shortening to keep cookies from sticking. Bake at 350 degrees about 10 minutes.

George B. Squires Dies Sunday Night

Funeral services were held at the Niblack Funeral Home in Britton Wednesday for George B. Squires who passed away Sunday evening at the Herrick Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Squires was 76 years old. He was born October 26, 1881 near Ridgeway and lived all his life in this area.

He married Anna Auten Feb. 11, 1903. Mr. Squires was an active member of the Tecumseh Grange when his health permitted.

Besides his widow he is survived by two great nephews who made their homes with him, Junior and Mervin Pilbeam. A number of other nephews and nieces also survive.

It was suggested that friends might contribute to the cancer fund. Burial was in the Ridgeway cemetery.

Boots Is Cocker Spaniel with Unique Play Yard

Ever hear of a dog that for a yard uses a roof outside his master's second-story apartment?

Well, meet Boots, the seven and one-half year old cocker spaniel belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Vanderpool at 115½ N. Union St.

Boots acquired his "yard" in a funny way, one that nearly gave the Vanderpools heart failure.

It was in 1955, just after they had moved to the second floor of the Elmer Harper home.

The Vanderpools were eating in the kitchen, where a window was open. Boots walked up to it, put his paws on the sill. As the couple watched thunderstruck, Boots disappeared out the window.

They didn't know that a porch roof ran just outside the opening and at first had visions of finding their pet sprawled on the ground with multiple fractures.

☆

BOOTS MANAGED to stroll over the roof, despite its rather sharp angle. From that time on, Boots had a "yard."

Mrs. Harper says that dozens of people stop at her door each month with the excited news that "your dog is out on the roof. Better get it back before there is an accident."

But there hasn't been one yet and Boots has never succumbed to the temptation offered by youngsters passing by who forever are coaxing Boots to jump down and play with them.

Boots has gotten into trouble—he twice somehow climbed to the top of the house while chasing squirrels. Both times Mr. Vanderpool has had to bring him down. Once it was 1 a.m.

But for the most part Boots is pretty content with his unique yard.

Three hundred seventy students have registered for the treatments which will be given each day from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 4. They will continue through August 25.

Volunteer workers from the Child Study Clubs, Girl Scouts and the Future nurses are assisting with the program.

Sidewalk Carnival Planned

Chamber Retail Group Starts Mapping All Arrangements

A Back-to-School Sidewalk Carnival August 22 will be the first in a regular series of Tecumseh promotions, announces the Chamber of Commerce retail division board.

In a meeting Tuesday evening, the nine-man retail group mapped plans for its first town-wide sales effort.

A raft of ideas was discussed and many will be worked into the Sidewalk Carnival.

During the big one-day bonanza, merchants will move their wares onto the sidewalk in front of their stores.

Selling will be geared with emphasis on back-to-school merchandise.

A COMMITTEE from among the board will prepare plans for regular monthly promotions and already a "Silver Dollar" idea is being discussed for September.

This revolves about a gimmick whereby customers receive a silver dollar for each $10 they spend.

But at present, all emphasis is on the Sidewalk Carnival.

Making up the retail division board, all elected last week by fellow retailers, are:

Chairman, George Green.

Vice-chairman, Claud Helms.

Secretary-treasurer, Cal Damon.

Others are Earl Baldwin, Bill Wright, Dick Hicks, Wes Proctor, Carl Lamb and Don Martin.

Dial Telephones Coming

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

They're Promised in 1960 by Officials

General Telephone Company of Michigan has secured on option to purchase land for a new telephone building in Tecumseh, according to O. W. Beagle, local district manager.

The building site is at the corner of East Chicago and South Oneida streets. The new building, which will house automatic dial switching equipment, long distance switchboard and the local business office should be under construction late this year or early in 1959, according to Mr. Beagle.

Construction and basic installation is expected to take about nine months. Engineering plans call for 1700 lines and 3,400 terminals of automatic equipment which was ordered from the manufacturer after preliminary engineering was completed.

Following the installation of the complex switching gear, a period of testing will be necessary to insure trouble-free operation.

Outside plant extension and associated work connected with the conversion to dial operation is underway. Replacement of present telephones with new dial instruments will be accomplished as the project moves forward.

Mr. Beagle indicated that General Telephone has a 12-million dollar program of improvement and expansion under way during 1958.

"Furnishing automatic dial service to Tecumseh reflects our faith in the growth potential of this area as well as the orderly accomplishment of an objective to have 100% dial operated exchanges. Only if our earnings are sufficient to attract the new capital required for new plant, can we continue to expand our service and meet our customer's requirements.

"Unless there are delays in the manufacturer's schedule and assuming that installation and testing move ahead as planned, we will meet our objective of converting Tecumseh to dial operation by mid-1960", the district manager said.

William Powell, of McCoy-Powell Real Estate, handled the property transaction.

Huge Sidewalk Program Given Approval by Council Members

A huge sidewalk project was approved at Council meeting Monday night when city officials authorized the city manager to order in sidewalks along Adrian Street, Russell Road and in Tecumseh Acres.

Reason for the walks is the Tecumseh Acres School which will open this fall.

Dr. Ralph Helzerman and Virgil Tucker, school board members, appealed to councilmen for the sidewalks, citing heavy traffic on Adrian Street and the fact many young children will be attending the school and walking the streets.

Sidewalks along both sides of Adrian Street are expected to be in by the first of September, and in Tecumseh Acres as soon as water and sewer installations are completed.

The city will provide the grade for the walks, but the property owners are expected to have the walks constructed. Councilmen inferred that property owners failing to comply will have walks put in and the costs put on their tax statements.

☆

IN PROBABLY what was an unprecedented move here, city attorney James Beardsley asked council to have assistant county prosecutor William McManus handle a case against Robert D. Moore.

The police charged Moore on June 2 with reckless operation, citing him for purposely hitting barrel barricades just south of the new bridge on North Evans Street.

Mr. Beardsley told councilmen that he thought Moore would beat the reckless operation charge, but believed that he might plead guilty to a charge of damaging traffic controls.

Police Chief George Kilbourn said that the reckless charge was proper and the police would not change it.

☆

ATTORNEY Beardsley reported that the extension of South Maumee Street to Russell Road was now feasible and suggested Council schedule a hearing for Aug. 18.

THE Long & Short OF IT

VISITED FOR THE FIRST time last week the lake with the built-in roar — Wamplers. Have you ever seen so many motor boats in one place in all your life?

☆

THIS IS TELEVISION AT ITS best," a lot of folks were saying to themselves as they watched the dramatic showing of Thursday night's United Nation security council session.

Viewing of this sort makes TV a truly great medium. Here we were, seated in our living rooms in Tecumseh, seeing history unfold right at the time it was being made.

We heard the comments of Jordan, Iraq and U. S. representatives along with their fellow security councilmen.

More programming like this—of course, we don't mean more world crisis—would have millions of eyes glued to their 21-inch screens.

☆

BUT ALL OUR THINKING about TV isn't bright and cheery —and this has to do with the commercial end of the game.

The TV boys did quite a selling job to advertising agencies some years ago, persuading them to go heavy with client dollars in the automotive field.

Up until then, new car ads had been placed in publications with in range of various auto agencies.

Dealers, who chipped in a certain amount of each sale for advertising, could help direct placement of ads—and they almost always chose their hometown paper. After all, they were interested in getting hometown buyers as customers.

Then along came TV pitchmen and off went the new car ad money. As time wore on and less and less car advertisements appeared in hometown papers, car sales dropped.

Was it just a coincidence?

As partner Jim Lincoln and I chatted about the "good old days" when it was standard procedure to run four or five auto ads in an issue, he mused:

"And that was when they were selling cars."

Doesn't it stand to reason, for example, that if Chevrolet wants Louie Schneider to sell cars in Tecumseh area the manufacturer would want advertising directed at Louie's potential customers right here?

Ditto for Pontiac and Gale Fisher, DeSoto and Harvey Wilson, Oldsmobile and Keith Bailey, Edsel and Al Merz, Ford and Chuck Butler.

But don't ask us, we're prejudiced.

Sniffen Brothers Fair is Success

"Come One, Come All" was the shout of barker, Gerry Sniffen, last Saturday as he encouraged young and old to attend the Fair (they couldn't spell carnival) he and his brother, Donnie, were holding at their residence on W. Cummins St.

Several attractions including "Pitch till You Win" — "Ring Toss" — "Spin Till You Win" — "Ride the Wagon Round the Block" and the sale of comic books, grab boxes and small cars and trucks held the attention of the neighborhood children.

The afternoon was filled with fun, prizes, free candy and kool aid and cookies were available on the grounds.

Assisting the Sniffen brothers with their venture were Jim Graham and David Phillips. A total of $2.68 was realized.

The boys made their own posters and ingeniously placed them directing traffic to their location.

There is none of this 'once-a-week-Saturday-night' bath routine for one of our bluejays. Almost every afternoon, sometime between one and three o'clock, a big jay, resplendent in his brilliant suit of blue, white and black, sails down to the bird bath.

As he first lands on the outside rim and then, with a grand flourish, hops into the water he immediately starts splashing and we know the fun has started.

If ever a bird enjoyed the water and his daily bath it is this particular blue jay. Such splashing and thrashing about! He repeatedly ducks his head under and squats down so that he is completely submerged; then with a great beating of wings he straightens up and shakes himself several times.

How the water flies. He bobs down again and oh, we can almost hear him sigh with contentment. This goes on for several minutes.

☆

WHEN HE IS thoroughly wet our now not so slick looking jay hops to the rim of the bird bath and, with some slight difficulty, flies to a low branch in a nearby tree. What a bedraggled looking fellow he is.

His feathers are so completely water-soaked that he actually appears to have a little trouble flying—he doesn't seem to go at his usual breakneck speed at least. After settling down on his favorite limb, the next step of this bath ritual involves much shaking and preening.

We are continually amazed at the agility of birds. As he twists and turns, using his bill to clean those beautiful feathers, he is quite a contortionist.

A final shake and a quick check to make sure that all the tail feathers are in place and it is time for another dip in the bird bath. Again there is much bobbing up and down, feather shaking and flopping of wings. It often appears that he has a contest with himself to see just how far the water can be thrown.

☆

BY NOW OUR blue friend is completely soaked. The light grey and white on his head and breast has turned dark and the wet feathers stick together giving him a shaggy ragged appearance.

His wing feathers are so waterlogged that the outer primaries separate from the shorter secondaries. Even his tail droops.

His spirit doesn't, however, in fact, with every bob up and down he becomes more excited. After this second dip he once more flies into the tree and this time the preening, being more thorough, takes longer. Finally everything is arranged to his liking and he comes down for a final fling in the bath.

This last dip must be for fun. Sometimes it is quite lengthy, sometimes quite hurried. With one last splash, I suppose he is having a final try at breaking his water throwing record, he hops to the rim of the shell, gives several good shakes and is off.

The bath is complete and he has other bird business to look after.

☆

WHEN WE FIRST put the bird bath out, early last spring, many people laughed. They said that with the creek being so close and convenient the birds would never make use of our bathing shell. We had heard this before, it was an old theory often expressed but we had never been convinced.

The thought that it would at least be fun to try one kept nagging and when a bird bath came our way as a Christmas present we were overjoyed. For quite a while after the ground thawed and the bird bath was put out it looked as though the doubters were right — the birds weren't paying any attention to the new gadget put out for their convenience.

We were beginning to be quite disappointed and worried when one day we looked out and success! The bird bath had been discovered!

☆

THE SPARROWS found it first (another good deed for these often unappreciated birds). They were using it for a drinking fountain, however, not a bathing facility. The word was quickly spread and soon all kinds of birds were flying in for a quick drink. Although we have one loyal bather most of them are still using it only as a watering spot.

In addition to the always present sparrows, an unwelcome pair of cow birds are faithful patrons and, happy to say, the lovely slate colored cat birds find it much to their liking.

The blue jays were, in fact they still are, the heaviest drinkers. But even though one of their clan has discovered the joys of bird bath swimming, the rest have not, as yet, taken their first plunge.

We hope the good word gets around soon and we hope it reaches all the birds because as much fun as it is to watch a bird carefully perch on the rim and then slowly tip down for a dainty drink, it is ever so much more fun to watch him jump in and splash about.

Vacation time is here and many Tecumseh families are making arrangements for that coveted week's vacation. It does take some managing to find a time when all the family can get away together.

Billy Graham Movie

Evangelist Billy Graham's latest motion picture "The Heart Is a Rebel," will be premiered at the Devils Lake Drive-In Church Saturday, July 26, 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, July 27, 9:15 p.m.

The new feature-length color production stars Ethel Waters, Georgia Lee and John Milford.

The story is based on a conflict in the life of a modern young couple when the husband, an advertising executive, can't find a place in his scheme-of-things for his wife's sudden acceptance of the Christian faith.

In a completely "down-to-earth" setting, the situation provides a dimension of reality seldom afforded a religious motion picture.

The dynamic preaching of the evangelist is augmented by the singing of George Beverly Shea and the music of a 1,500-voice crusade choir under the direction of Cliff Barrow.

Services are Saturdays 8:30 p.m. and Sundays 9:15 p.m. at the Devils Lake Drive-In Church near Manitou Beach on the south end of the lake. The public is cordially invited and there is no admission charge.

The meal was served from a table centered with an attractive arrangement of summer flowers.

Reading Problem Can Be Solved at University

People with reading handicaps can receive help in their problem at the diagnostic reading center by Wayne State University's department of reading and study skills.

The department hopes to gain a better understanding of the causes and nature of reading disabilities and determine effective methods to prevent and correct them.

Studies indicate that many school children, adults and even college students have reading difficulties serious enough to handicap them at school or at their jobs.

In a diagnosis, the center will:

1—conduct psychological tests to determine the level at which the individual should be reading.

2—diagnose the nature disability and also find the present level of reading.

3—find the cause of the reading problem.

4—determine the procedures for correcting the disability.

Board to Meet

Board of review for Boy Scouts of Troop 73 will be held at the cabin Tuesday, July 29, at 7 p.m.

Diane Writes Prize Winner

Eleven-year-old Diane Handy, 4391 Comfort road, recently wrote an essay which won second award in the American Federation of Mineralogical Society Contest, "Why I Should Become a Member of a Gem or Mineral Society."

It appears in the July issue of "Gems & Minerals" magazine and brought Diane a $25 Savings Bond.

Diane's essay is as follows:

I should belong to a mineral and gem society, because our whole way of life revolves around minerals. Tomorrow's scientists may be the rockhounds of today.

There are many useful minerals yet to be found, and used. The food we eat, the clothes we wear, our way of transportation, and the comfort of our homes all depend on the proper use of rocks and minerals.

I don't think that man has ever left the "Stone Age" of life but he has just added more stones to his way of living. A rock and mineral club is interesting because of the variety of gems and minerals. It can be as simple or as complicated as he wants to make it.

I know of people who buy minerals from far away places. There are other people who use the rocks and minerals nearest to their homes. It can be a hobby of odd shaped stones and various colors, or it can be a hobby of rare minerals. A rock and gem club would give a student a chance to study crystals under a magnifying glass.

There are many other ways of studying minerals, such as with a Geiger counter or a black light. I believe most people appreciate rocks and minerals although they may not realize it or admit it. If people weren't curious about rocks and minerals, we would have no coal or new oil beds.

The national defense department depends on our scientists to find new uses for them before other countries. We should all watch for fossils, rocks, minerals, gems and odd stones as it is impossible to say when a new one will be added to the list of the hundreds we already have.

I became interested in rocks and minerals because my mother pointed out their importance to me even before I went to school.

My science teacher repeats the importance of rocks and minerals. I think belonging to a rock and mineral club is just another way of saying we belong to an organized civilization. I think every girl or boy who belongs to a rock and mineral club should see to it that she tells at least ten younger boys or girls everything she has learned.

A lot of lifelong friendships and pen pals have been started with rock and mineral clubs. That is why I started one myself. There are people today who owe all their wealth to rocks and minerals.

Nursery Pre-School for Children Planned

The Tecumseh Nursery School will open its doors to pre-school children and their parents Sept. 15 at the former Pink School, located 4 miles west of town on M-50.

There are a number of different types of nursery schools and day care centers, but this particular one will be a parent-cooperative, which means that parents will assist in the teaching of their children as well as helping in the organizational and business end.

A parent council, along with the director, will be the governing body.

The school will serve the needs of 3 and 4-year-olds by offering them experiences adapted to their age levels. By a pooling of resources, children will be able to get more of what they need for good growth and development.

☆

THE SCHOOL will run on the same yearly schedule as the public schools, September-June, with the same vacations.

The 3-year-old group will meet on Monday and Thursday from 9-11:30, the 4-year-olds will meet Tuesday and Friday from 9-11:30. A child must be 3 by Dec. 1st to be eligible, although this is subject to change.

A physical examination will be required within a month prior to entrance. Groups at this age must be small so applications ought to be made immediately to insure a place.

The director, Mrs. Leslie Bennett, is a qualified person, having received her B.A. as a music major from Ohio Wesleyan University, her M.A. in education from University of Michigan. A year of graduate study was at the Merill-Palmer School in Detroit where she specialized in Nursery Education.

She taught in a parent-cooperative at Michigan State University for two years and taught 3 years of kindergarten in the public schools. She has two daughters and one of the main reasons for starting this is to provide nursery school experience for the oldest child.

Mrs. Bennett will hold an orientation meeting for parents the first week in September at which time the program will be discussed and questions answered. Mothers will help teach approximately 4 times during a semester. No previous experience is necessary.

☆

SCHEDULING MAY be arranged at the mother's convenience. Car pools will probably be arranged as well as cooperative baby-sitting for younger children on teaching days.

The tuition for an 18-week semester is $32, or $64 for the year, plus a $10 registration fee for the year which covers mainly cost of materials, such as fingerpaint paper. The $10 registration fee should be paid with the return of the application.

Final admission must wait until the physical examinations are returned and if, for some reason, the child is not accepted, there will be a refund.

Both the application and physical blanks may be picked up at either 709 N. Union in town or 1251 E. Monroe Rd. (west of town) beginning August first, but should be returned to the latter address.

Anyone interested in donating pre-school age furniture, toys, or equipment which are still in good condition should contact Mrs. Bennett at 7052 R.

Freeing Lawn of Quackgrass Is Tough Job

If you've got quackgrass intermixed with turf grasses in your lawn, it'll take some pretty stiff medicine to get rid of it.

There's only one way to do the job and that's to kill all grasses and start over again, states Buford Grigsby, weed control scientist at Michigan State University.

Weed-killing chemicals are available that can rid lawns of quackgrass. But they are not selective and will kill desired grasses, too.

Grigsby says 15 teaspoons of dalapon, a chemical weed-killer, mixed with water will treat 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Spray the area infested with quackgrass, wait five weeks and then reseed.

After weeds have been killed, and bare areas reseeded, proper management practices are needed to keep turf free from weeds, Grigsby points out. Proper mowing, adequate water and regular fertilization will help produce a good weed-free turf.

It's Wheat Combine Time

Area farmers have been swinging combines through fields of golden grain the past few weeks—although some took off a trifle early in their eagerness to get their wheat in. This combining was done by Walter Denney of rural Clinton and Eddie Kirkland of rural Tecumseh on 14 acres of land owned by Bill Powell. The two little fellows, Bernie Riordan and Rickey Hicks, who live a stone's throw from the field, get a bang out of seeing the grain flow into a truck from the combine.

Michigan Has Many Places with Indian Names

ANN ARBOR — Tourists and travelers in Michigan this summer won't need an Indian interpreter if they read on.

"Scattered widely over the state are many townships, villages, cities, streams, lakes, and islands with Indian names," says Ivan H. Walton, University of Michigan Indian place-name authority and professor of English.

For instance, says Walton, near Ann Arbor is the city of Tecumseh which was named for the famous Shawnee war chief who, according to legend, often frequented the vicinity, the U-M professor notes.

One of the most famous places named after Indians is the industrial city of Pontiac northwest of Detroit. It's named for "the great Ottawa war chieftain who in 1763 organized the almost successful attempt to capture the white invaders' military posts in the Great Lakes region, a campaign since known as "Pontiac's Conspiracy," says Walton.

For instance, says Walton, in the southwesternmost part of Michigan, the traveler might see a sign "Entering Chickaming Township." This doesn't mean the township is a poultry center. Chickaming comes from the Pottowatomie and means "a large body of water."

Weesaw Township doesn't mean there's a tiny sawmill in the area; it was the name of a Pottowatomie sub-chief, Walton says, "and nearby Dowagiac river and city, indicating in the same tongue 'a fishing place.'"

Near the state capitol at Lansing is the city of Okemos which was named by the legislature in 1859 for an Ottawa leader whose tribe once lived on the site.

Saling Named Civil Defense County Head

John Saling has been appointed director of Lenawee County Civil Defense.

He replaces Rev. B. O. Bashore, who resigned the position nearly three months ago.

Mr. Saling explains that his first duty will be to organize a disaster plan for the county.

This could be used in event of a tornado or other natural disaster, as well as a military bombing.

He intends to have each township organized with a team made up of representatives from nearly every group in the county.

Mr. Saling points out that Lenawee county has been designated as a "reception" area, meaning that in event of a bombing about 3,000 to 4,000 persons would be brought here from "evacuation" areas.

A potluck dinner and penny party was enjoyed Thursday by the Royal Neighbors at the home of Mrs. Rose Service with about 15 in attendance.

The next party will be held July 31.

Pest Control Guide Available in Adrian

Home fruit gardeners in Lenawee county can now get a pest control guide in the form of a newly published folder from the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

The Lenawee county extension office located at Adrian has copies of the folder, F-117, "Pest Control Program for Home Grown Fruit." A copy is free for the asking.

Information on sprays, equipment and time of spraying is included. The authors have also included some tips on handling special insect disease problems.

Most Lenawee county home gardeners can get an abundance of unblemished fruit if they follow recommended insect and disease control measures, believes Louis G. Hall, Lenawee county extension director.

LITTLE LEAGUE DIAMOND — Tecumseh boasts an excellent diamond for its young ball players. Scaled down to fit junior performers, the field has 60 feet between bases and the mound is 47 feet from home plate. Six teams, made up of 90 boys, composes the major loop, while four teams with about 80 boys makes up the minors. Games are played Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights at 4:15 and 6. Dick Felton and Tom Walters umpire major games. The field was constructed by Vic Lawson, Mik Rotunno, Paul Burns, Bill Lamkin and several school custodians.

Holds Dues Campaign

The Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary is currently conducting a drive to collect dues.

Members who have not paid yet are urged to do so that they may receive the personal newsletter from the president, Mrs. Richard Coak, telling pertinent details of Auxiliary activities.

Meetings were held with the teachers from each building, so we would know the kind of material they would like in their libraries. Plans have been made to have these books ready by fall.

The library board met once a month to discuss plans and problems. Expanding our facilities was the big job this year. Ideas are being discussed as to ways to give more and better service.

It has again been a pleasure working with the Library Board, Board of Education and staff of the library. Mrs. Doris Day will be attending workshop this summer to fulfill her requirements for the state.

We are looking forward to the coming year, to encouraging people to read for pleasure and fact, and to make use of all the services available through their Public Library.

Progress Report Made for Building at Three Locals

Progress can be noted on construction of three local buildings.

The new Standard Oil station, which is being erected at the corner of Herrick Park Drive and N. Evans street is expected to be completed around the First of September.

Two rooms, which are being constructed at St. Elizabeth Catholic school, were started two weeks ago. The rooms, one of which will house a library, measure 29 feet by 29 feet.

Libarian Reports Changes, Increases

BY JULE FOSBENDER
(LIBRARIAN, PUBLIC LIBRARY, ANNUAL REPORT TO TECUMSEH SCHOOL BOARD)

On June 18, the boys and girls of Tecumseh showed their pleasure when they saw and used for the first time their new children's room in the basement of the library.

Considerable changes have been made upstairs: a new circulation desk, additional shelving, and rearrangement of books, giving us more shelving and floor space. This year also saw the floors tiled, thus giving us a very nice looking library.

The library system of the Tecumseh school district has again shown an increase. 72,999 items were circulated for 1957-58, with a total increase of 15,071 over 1956-57. Of this increase, the school libraries showed 7,085, the Public Library 7,996.

With people sometimes standing, the Public Library had 4,501 on-the-spot readers. 2170 people were assisted in locating and answering questions.

The privilege of borrowing framed pictures and phonograph records was well received by the people of Tecumseh. Pictures were loaned a total of 85 times, and 256 records were taken.

The Public Library added 509 new borrowers during the year to make a total of 2,324 registered borrowers. The library took in $417.00 in fees, fines and book sales.

The Herrick Park Elementary Library was ready when the school opened with a collection of 504 books. The library system now has a total collection of 18,187 books.

Story hour and book club were held during the summer months and a weekly visit to the hospital was made. Teachers made good use of the library by bringing in classes and taking book collections.

The library was given good publicity through the local newspapers and over the radio. The Public Library is also serving the community clearing house. Fine Free day was held, with 160 books returned. Many books were borrowed from the Michigan State Library to help with reference work.

The public and school librarians have worked closely in planning library service for next year.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Slim's "Pickins"

Slim Thomas who owns a used-car lot on the highway proved more than once he can think fast. Last week, for example, a young roofing salesman came in to say he couldn't keep up the payments on a car he'd bought.

Someone else would have begun to talk about refinancing—or repossession of the car. But Slim looked the fellow up and down and asked him how'd he'd like a part-time job.

Now Slim's got a new salesman. The new fellow's holding down both jobs and keeps his car too. Everybody's happy.

From where I sit, our town is lucky in having a fellow like Slim around. He's not only a good judge of a used car, but of character, too. Maybe it's because he understands others—and respects their viewpoints. Slim's one fellow who'd never try to "sell" you out of choosing a glass of beer with your meal, just because he prefers coffee!

"Why aren't your public banking hours longer?"

A part of our working day must be set aside to record the transactions of the other part, and to perform similar "behind-the-scenes" tasks necessary for the proper servicing of our depositors' accounts. We sincerely wish that our public banking hours could be longer. In a way, they do extend beyond the time our doors close: Even then we accept deposits — from folks who have mailed them. This indication comes from Dr. Elizabeth M. Drews, researcher and psychologist at Michigan State University.

Although there are no adequate intelligence tests for the very young, Dr. Drews reports there are several qualities which may indicate aspects of giftedness:

"The child who likes to talk or sing, speaks in sentences at the age of two (although a few very bright children may not speak until three or four); is adept at physical and motor activities at an early age — such as sitting up at five months or walking at nine months; is intensely curious, wants to really know how things work, and can follow directions and be given a series of things to do and remember them.

"Any or all of these may indicate superior ability," she said.

Dr. Drews points out that a child who is intellectually superior can be measured quite accurately by the time he reaches the eighth grade. She emphasizes that selection should not be based on only one IQ test but on as many various measures and observations as possible.

There is evidence, reports Dr. Drews, that adults can not only maintain a high level of intelligence but can actually make gains. This is contrary to previous thinking that intelligence levelled off at about the age of 16 and began to decline in the 20's.

City Police Capture Second Prison Fugitive

For the second time in two weeks, Tecumseh police collared a fugitive from Southeastern Michigan Prison.

Nabbed here early Saturday evening in front of the Kenneth Herrick home on West Chicago Blvd., was Owen Abner, 29, escapee from the prison farm.

Abner, a passenger with two men from Toledo, had escaped several days previously and was enroute to Toledo.

Police officers Eugene Skinner and J. T. Callahan noticed the men traveling east near the A&W drive-in about 20 minutes after receiving an alert from the county sheriff's department.

Abner, sentenced in Adrian last Sept. 17 to from two to 20 years for rape, first denied his identity.

He was taken to the county jail that evening. The two men from Toledo were released here Sunday afternoon after an investigation showed they were unaware that Abner was a convict.

The escapee had been visiting his girl friend in Cement City where he met the two from Ohio.

STATE POLICEMAN RAY VALLEY EYES TORN BARK ON TREE THIS CAR CLIPPED IN WILD SKID TUESDAY, NOTES DAMAGE.

Car Wrecked in Crackup During Rain

"Look what I did to dad's car!"

This exclamation by driver Don Jennings, 19, Toledo, as he stepped from the demolished car was remarkable in that he and two Onsted youths were still alive, let alone not seriously injured.

Jennings lost control of the 1952 Buick on M-52, about three miles south of Billington Corners during Tuesday's early evening rain storm.

According to the Onsted youths Galen McMunn, 17, and Harold Toland, 19, and one witness, Fred Snead, who saw the accident from his garage, Jennings lost control and swerved off the highway.

The vehicle spun around, flattened Snead's mailbox, sideswiped (nearly broadside) a tree, spun off the tree, and nearly hit another before stopping in a field, about 300 feet from Snead's mailbox.

The driver's door was clipped off by the tree, and the car's hood and a few other parts were tossed completely across the highway.

Jennings was headed south toward Adrian. He had met the Onsted boys at Wamplers Lake the night before.

All three were taken in Green's ambulance to Herrick Memorial Hospital where Jennings was treated for lacerated fingers of the left hand and held for possible internal and head injuries. The Onsted boys were released.

THE Long & Short OF IT

WHENEVER THERE'S TALK about home-talent shows, you're bound to hear someone mention the Lowell Showboat.

Few home-grown productions can rival it.

Here is the Showboat story.

First of all, Lowell is a Kent County village of about 3,000, due east of Grand Rapids about 20 miles.

The Showboat idea came to light during the dark days of the Depression in 1932.

As Lowell historians look back at its beginning they have not been able to tap the real founders. Lots of people claim credit for its beginning, but the real truth apparently will forever be a mystery.

But as best as can be determined, a group of merchants gathered in a Lowell store that year and began kicking around methods to do something for business in their town.

Someone said, "Why not a home talent production? Certainly there are lots of capable folks here. Let's put on a minstrel show."

This wasn't to be an ordinary effort.

Through Lowell runs a river and as it eases along toward Main Street, the stream is broad and meandering — much like the Mississippi.

"We'll build a side-wheeler," mused one of the group, "float it down the river all lit up and water. Make it just like a showboat."

Make it just like a showboat.

And so was born the Lowell Showboat.

The orginal group began a talent search and soon there was a full roster of acts.

The superintendent of schools was chosen as Mr. Interlocutor and he filled the role in 1932 and ever since — right down to 1958 when he retired — 114 straight performances. (The Showboat runs six days each July.)

Starved for entertainment during those Depression years, the folks of Lowell and its surrounding country-side took to the Showboat like a hungry schoolboy to a peanut-butter sandwich.

Year after year the Lowell Showboat grew bigger and bigger.

Crowds, which assembled along the bank of the river to view the show, were seated on temporary bleachers. The boat glided up to a huge stage in front of the seats.

Eventually, permanent stands were erected — then enlarged. At present, there is room for 6,000. Every place is occupied for every performance, too.

Some years back, Showboat graduated from a strictly local talent show to one rivaling old-fashioned, theatre vaudville with the introduction of professional entertainers.

There are still a few amatuer acts — selected from yearly competition just prior to Showboat — but the bulk of the talent is proven pro material.

This year, the Modernnaires vocal group, which sings on TV with Bob Crosby and formerly with Glenn Miller, was a star attraction along with other acts, including acrobats from Germany, trained dogs from France, a New York comedian.

Some of the nation's leading entertainers have at one time or another played the Lowell Showboat — and picked up pretty handsome checks while doing it.

The 1958 budget for talent ran between $8,000 and $10,000!

Even so, Showboat, Inc., the organization formed years ago to handle this production, realizes a tidy profit each summer. Gross business (adult tickets run $2.20) probably tops $25,000 — and that doesn't include concessions, which are a mighty big item in any type of entertainment.

The question which ran through my mind as I watched Showboat a week ago was this:

Could Tecumseh possibly come up with some sort of an annual show?

With excellent permanent seating facilities at Recreation Field, we have a place. A giant stage could be built in front of it, much as Lowell has erected one along its river.

Tecumseh could book in professional acts, intersperse them with local talent.

Now what we need is an angel.

Warm?

If you feel the need of cooling off—and who doesn't these days?—take a peek at the first page of the second section. We have a little surprise there for you.

Telephone 250 in Case of Fire

Assistant Fire Chief, Ralph Sager, informs Tecumseh residents that the correct number to call in an emergency is 250 rather than 674 as listed in the Tecumseh phone directory.

The latter number is the office phone rather than the emergency number and could go unheard while the number 250 will release the siren thereby assuring the quickest possible action from the volunteer firemen.

Mr. Sager is concerned that residents may be confused and suggests that the number 250 be placed on telephone book covers in this area.

BREAKS RIGHT WRIST

Mrs. H. H. Hanna slipped on the creek bank behind the residence of Harry Duncan Saturday and broke her right wrist. It will be in a cast for three weeks.

Judgement Won in Court Battle

A non-union contractor, Weston W. Haeussler of 503 Seminole Drive, was victorious in a Circuit Court battle Friday.

Judge Rex Martin issued a temporary order restraining building trade unions from picketing the jobs of this non-union contractor.

Represented by James C. Beardsley, Mr. Haeussler alleged, in his bill of complaint, that he was suffering "irreparable damage" by the picketing.

The plantiff also asked a judgment for damages.

Martin found that unions representing teamsters, laborers and bricklayers had two objectives in picketing — one lawful the other not.

Unlawful objective and reason for ordering the injunction, according to Judge Martin, was an attempt to force Mr. Haeussler to become a union contractor or to hire union employees.

The other objective in reference to Mr. Haeussler was to protect their contracts with union employers. This being a legitimate objective.

Union officials and Tecumseh contractor, Max Elliott, said that union contractors find it difficult, if not impossible, to compete for jobs with non-union contractors because of sub-standard wage scales, making it possible for them to under-bid those employing union workers.

Restrained by the temporary order were Bricklayers Local 3, Leo Seegert of Teamsters union, Frederick H. Butler of the Laborers union, Hugh L. Van Arsdalen of the bricklayers, Athol Crossman and "Jack Doe", picket. Defendents were represented by Robert Baker.

Reveal Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sprague of Tecumseh announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Robert Allison Mitchinson, son of Rev. and Mrs. Francis Mitchinson from Irvington, California.

The Mitchinsons were former Hudson residents.

The wedding will be an event of Saturday, August 23, at the Ridgeway Methodist Church.

Off-Street Parking Problem

Retail Group Takes Over The Reins

Off-street parking for downtown Tecumseh is being tackled by the new retail division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The problem first was delved into months before the Chamber wes re-activated here. A special committee, with Bill Wright as chairman, was authorized by the city council.

The off-street parking survey was conducted by the group and turned over to Chamber when it became active.

Now the newly-elected retail board has been assigned the project, which pertains more directly to this segment of the Chamber than any other portion.

Members of the retail division will appear at Monday's council meeting to discuss off-street parking with city fathers.

It is probable that an arrangement will be sought to divert parking-meter revenue from the general fund to be used instead for capital improvements on the present off-street locations.

Remember Postal Rates Change Friday

A last-minute warning that new postage rates will go into effect Friday was issued by Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf.

Mr. Metcalf cautioned that regular first-class letters will require 4 cents postage an ounce; air mail letters 7 cents an ounce; air mail postol cards 5 cents each, and regular postal cards 3 cents each.

Where mail users still have on hand supplies of 3 cent stamps, 2 cent postal cards, 4 cent air mail postal cards and 6 cent air mail stamps, they may be used by the addition of an ordinary 1 cent stamp.

Plenty of these are on hand at the local post office, plus large supplies of new 4 cent stamps, 7 cent air mail stamps, 5 cent air mail postal cards and 3 cent regular postal cards.

Stamped envelopes are also in good supply in the needed denominations of 4 cent for regular first-class letters and 7 cent air mail letters.

Products Closes for Two Weeks

Tecumseh Products shuts down for the next two weeks in a combination vacation and lay-off.

Those employees who qualify will receive vacation pay for the period.

Portions of the plant will remain open for a partial shift, namely, the tool room, shipping, maintance and service departments. Engineering devclopment will also continue.

Orginally, the plan called for three weeks, but this was altered several days ago.

Jaycees Auxiliary Will Stage Picnic

Movies of the State Convention at Milwaukee and the womanless wedding were shown at the meeting of the Jaycee Auxiliary held July 23 at the home of Mrs. William Davenport.

Ten members were present when the report of the Jaycee Homecoming was given and hats were sold for the Holloween party to be held in October.

Members were asked to bring an old dress to the next meeting.

A picnic was planned for August 25 at the State Park at noon. Members are to bring a dish to pass and sandwiches. Beverage will be furnished.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Roland Redman. A cake decorated to honor the second anniversary of the Jaycee Auxiliary made by Mrs. Redman was featured.

Layton Named to 'Who's Who'

Joseph E. Layton for the first time has been named to the current "Who's Who In America" in the section on industrial executives.

The name of Ray W. Herrick will again appear in the volume under communications executives.

The printed index, which will be ready in about a month, lists 50,645 names, or about three out of every 10,000 Americans.

UNSIGHTLY CONDITION — It can be seen along NYC road bed near the business district and prompted Russ Garno to "plan!" blossems on this bull thistle bush near the corner of Chicago Blvd. and Evans St. The "flowers" on the bush were made by Mrs. Helen Hendershot of Beatrice Ring's Gift shop. It is hoped that this display will prompt the railway company to action.

Freight Train Collides with Car of Adrian Men

Two Adrian men were hospitalized as a result of injuries sustained at 11:30 p.m. Friday when their car collided with a freight train at the DT & I RR crossing on Occidental Highway south of the city.

Valentin Guterrez, 26, was treated at Herrick Memorial Hospital for lacerations of the ear, arm and cheek and is still marked as possibly having a concussion.

Driver of the car, Jose Gauna, 23, suffered internal injuries and lacerations.

Engineer D. Duncan of Trenton told Sheriff's Dept. officers that he saw two cars going south on Occidental Highway as the train was approaching the crossing.

The first car cleared the tracks but the Gauna car went into the front of the engine. Mr. Dunsan caid that the whistle and bell were being sounded at the time of the accident.

Tecumseh Police officers assisted the Sheriff's Dept. A summons was issued to Gauna for reckless driving by the later.

CANCEL PICNIC

The Raisin Green Bees have cancelled the picnic that was to be held August 3.

The next meeting will be held in September at the home of Mrs. Wynne Matteson.

CHAMBER of COMMERCE

Murph Reports

By DON MURPHY
Executive Secretary

The newly formed retail division of the Tecumseh Chamber of Commerce is going all out to make its first over-all promotion — a Sidewalk Carnival — a success for the Chamber and the shoppers.

Our merchants realize that their first duty is to offer the buying public the best in every line, both quality and price-wise.

Friday, August 22 has been set aside for this first promotion for Tecumseh merchants and promises to be one of the best of promotions for the next year.

The merchants are going all-out to make this as attractive as poccible to the buyer. Plans are not quite complete yet, but will be published as soon as they are.

All I can say is that it will be a promotion staged by every merchant in the Chamber and the enthusiasm shown by these merchants can only mean "Bargains for the Buyer".

Come on in and give us a chance to show you what you may expect in the future from our Techumseh merchants.

As I have already said, the merchants, one desire is to make Tecumseh the favorite shopping center for the people of Lenawee County — and they will go all-out to do so.

☆

THE LENAWEE COUNTY Band Festival, an annual Tecumseh event, is considered one of the outstanding in Michigan and promises to be even better this year.

Being sponsored by Tecumseh C of C, the festival will be held Oct. 7 at Recreation Field.

The thing that makes this event so well-received is the fact that there is no promotional gimmik connected.

Monies realized from the festival are divided between participating bands and go for betterment of Lenawee County bands.

Contrary to rumors we've heard, the people behind this this festival are concerned only with te cultivation of better musical entertainment.

Playing Host to 10 Clubs

Rotarians are known for tight meetings — their own members and two or three visitors .

August 19, the Tecumseh Rotary Club changes the format and swings the door wide for ten other clubs in a day-long outdoor extravaganza at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Adrian, Blissfield, Carleton, Clinton, Erie, Monroe, Northville, Plymouth, Rockwood and Wayne are the Rotary Clubs which have received personal greetings of a Tecumseh member with their invitation.

Advance indications are that there will be about 150 Rotarians attend from outside Tecumseh.

Included on the program are tours of the Tecumseh area, an evening program including District Governor Gene Olsen from Adrian, and the awarding of golf and attendance prizes.

Maynard Lucas and Hugh Walters are co-chairmen.

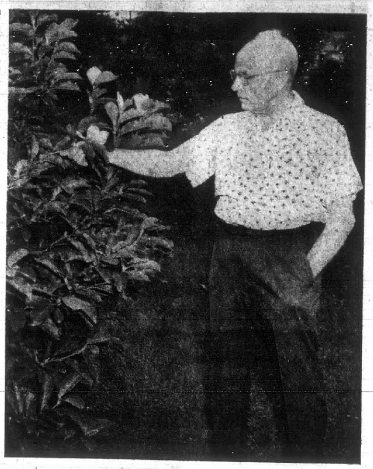
Dr. R. G. B. Marsh is pleased with his magnolia bush which is blooming for the second time this season. It now has 15 blooms.

In reading the column "Today in Michigan" in the Detroit Free Press, Dr. Marsh was interested to learn of this novelty and reported to The Herald office that he didn't think it really so much of a novelty since both he and his neighbor, Mrs. Karl Schneider, Sr., have bushes in bloom.

There are several magnolia bushes in Herrick Park also producing blossoms for a second time.



"In the good old summertime, in the good old summertime."

Folks visiting, having company, picnicing and vacationing fill the busy days for the city residents. Many are just returning and some are still looking forward to the annual trip.

Where Money Goes

There's a young mother in Lenawee County — 32-years-of-age, married eight years to an ambitious young accountant, and the mother of three young children.

She'd like to be as other young mothers on her block.

She'd like to hang out the wash on Monday, talk over the back fence with her neighbors, attend the PTA meetings regularly, and romp with the youngsters.

But she can't.

She's in a wheelchair.

Here's one of more than 130 victims of multiple sclerosis in Lenawee County—an estimate made by the Michigan Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Most are young people like her, college students, beginners in the business world, parents of very young children—for multiple sclerosis strikes mainly young adults, 20, to 45-years-of-age.

☆

IT'S A progressive disease; it starts with the unsteadiness in the arms or legs and frequently advances till the victim is nearly helpless—unable to feed himself, to walk, to write.

It's hard to see any element of good luck in this young mother's situation. Yet she is lucky, in one way.

She lives in Michigan, which is one of only three or four states in the nation that have a treatment center for this mysterious disease.

The Multiple Sclerosis Center in Detroit and the branch center in Battle Creek are both equipped to diagnose her case, to give medical treatment and to provide a course of physical therapy.

Last year, during a six-months' period, these two centers served 250 patients.

In many cases, patients who who arrived in wheelchairs were released in 90 days walking — walking with canes, often, but walking under their own power.

Who supports these multiple sclerosis centers? Who provides medication and treatment for a disease that until recently was barely recognized?

How does it happen that Michigan has facilities for multiple sclerosis victims, when many hospitals throughout the nation don't even accept them?

ACTUALLY, you support the centers.

The Michigan Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is a member of the Michigan United Fund. As such, it gets a fair share of the Lenawee County United Fund allocation.

The 250 victims who made approximately 2,095 visits to the treatment centers in Michigan have YOU to thank.

Support of the Lenawee County United Fund this fall keeps these treatments centers operating.

For further information, call or visit your County United Fund office, 121 E. Maumee St., Adrian, or Co 3-1598.

Field Day at MSU

Extensive experiments with black plastic and aluminum foil mulches are two of the many horticultural research plots being readied for the Horticultural Field Day slated for August 13 at Michigan State University. Starting time is 10 a.m.

All types of horticultural research will be open for inspection by visitors to the field day, according to John Carew, extension horticulture specialist.

Growing of fruits, vegetables and ornamental horticulture plants will find interesting research to see, Carew says.

Fruit growers can look at dwarf fruit trees two to 12 years old, see peach thinning experiments, inspect a controlled atmosphere storage and hear about tree fruit fertilization and weed control tests.

Refrigerated plastic houses for the study of apple finish as affected to attract much attention. ted to atiract much attention.

For vegetable growers, the Michigan State horticultural staff will describe chemical weed control tests, explain plant breeding projects with hybrid carrots, onions and disease resistant melons and cucumbers. Variety trials, gibberellin (growth stimulator) test plots are other features in addition to the mulch material tests.

Ornamental horticulture research will include weed control on container grown plants, fertilizer studies and experiments dealing with photoperiods and gibberellin applications to ornamental plants.

Field day visitors may also tour the plant science greenhouses. There, they can look at large petunia trials and ask questions about the four methods of air conditioning in use there. Plastic greenhouses being used in research studies are nearby and can also be inspected.

Visitors will find signs to direct them to the horticulture farm located on the south campus off Farm Lane.

Staff members of the department of horticulture will be on hand at the plots to explain the studies and answer questions. Visitors may either bring their lunch or obtain it at many nearby restaurants.

Report Tax Estimates

Lenders and builders in the GI home loan program should make sure that reasonably accurate tax estimates are given to veteran-buyers and reported to the Veterans' Administration.

In some areas, lenders and and builders have erroneously estimated real estate taxes and special assessments when negotiating with veteran-buyers, and when submitting loan applications to VA.

By this practice the veteran is faced with meeting a substantially higher monthly payment shortly after closing the loan than he originally was informed he would have to pay.

In some cases, the increased payment is so much higher that, if it were known prior to approving the loan VA would have rejected the application because of the veteran's insufficient income.

The loan also may be placed in jeopardy due to the borrower's inability to meet the increased payment.

Even though exact amounts of real estate taxes and assessments may not be available, accurate estimates may be obtained by checking with local taxing authorities or by comparing nearby properties.

If "underestimates" are intentional to qualify the borrower for credit or to induce the sale, administrative sanctions against the lender or builder could result.

2 Dahlias Bloom on Single Stem

Opal Jennings of 301 E. Pottawatamie St. brought an oddity to the Tecumseh Herald office last week—two dahlia blossoms on one stem.

She found the flower growing with many other normal blooms encircling the drive to her truck garden located on Rogers Highway.

She says the root is five-years-old and was planted with a bushel of the old style small dahlia roots which she put out in the spring.

Madison Church Setting for Saturday Wedding

Gayle Annette Clugston and Gilbert Dale McKinney, Jr. were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the Madison Congregational Church in Adrian Gardens.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clugston of Treat Highway and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert D. McKinney, Sr. of Tecumseh.

Dr. Lewis H. Brumbaugh, dean of Adrian College, performed the double ring ceremony assisted by Frances Gorny in a candle lite settiny with arrangements of yellow and white gladioli, and natural palms. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Nadene Winters of Cass City accompanied by Guy Van Hoosear of Inkster sank "Always", "You'll Never Walk Along" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the alter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of Chantilly lace and net over silk taffeta. Her fingertip veil of illucion fell from a halo trimmed with pearls and sequins.

She carried a white Bible, the gift of her father, which was topped with an arrangement of dark red roses and white chrysanthemums.

☆

THE MATRON OF HONOR, Mrs. Darwin J. Morgan, wore a ballerina length dress of nylon net over taffeta as did the bridesmaids, Carolyn Siefke of Temperance and Jassana McKinney of Tecumseh.

They wore caps of nylon net and velvet matching their dresses. All carried wicker baskets filled with daisy and pompon arrangements.

Russell Lee Van Hoosear was the ring bearer and carried the rings on a heart shaped white satin pillow trimmed with lace and ribbon streamers.

Kathleen McKinney was the flower girl in a dress of yellow net over taffeta with a matching cap and carrying a miniature wicker basket filled with daisies.

Clyde Putnam of Adrian was best man and Dick Siefke of Temperance and Charles Hendershot were the ushers.

Mrs. Clugston wore a gown of soft blue crepe and lace with white accessories for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. McKinney wore dark blue taffeta with white accessories. Both wore gardenia corsages.

☆

A RECEPTION WAS held in the church basement following the ceremony for 150 guests.

The table was centered with a pedestaled wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple and decorated with blue and white roses, white bells and butterflys. The bridesmaids baskets were used in carrying out the blue and yellow theme.

Mr. Van Hoosear played a program of organ music during the reception. Those assisting with the serving were Mrs. Van Hoosear, Mrs. Putnam, Beverly Garrison, Louise Gephart, Donna Vogel, Mrs. Gustav Pahl, Mrs. Gladys Siefke and Mrs. William McLeay.

For their wedding trip the new Mrs. McKinney was wearing a sheath of white embroidered in pale blue and silver with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. Upon their return they will make their home on Treat Highway.

The bride is a 1957 graduate of Adrian High School and is employed as a dental assistant in the office of Dr. E. W. Royer in Adrian.

The groom spent three years in the U. S. Marine Corps and is presently employed in construction work in Tecumseh.

Lois Younglove's engagement to RCT Glenn Williams of Fort Knox, Ky., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Younglove of Britton. Mr. Williams is the son, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams of 111 S. Maumee St. An August wedding is planned.

Garden Club Meets with Mrs. Rundell

The Tecumseh Garden Club held an outdoor picnic at the country home of Mrs. Theodore Rundell Friday with Mrs. Al Helzerman assisting the hostess.

A social time was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held September 19 at the home of Ann Carson when a flower show will be presented by the members.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. F. C. Dickinson, Mrs. Clarence Beach and Lillian Cannon.

Don Nixon Named

Donald T. Nixon has been named vice chairman and Tecumseh industrial chairman for the Lenawee County United Fund Campaign this fall.

Mr. Nixon, who is plant manager of the Quaker Oats Company in Tecumseh, will obtain two sectional chairmen to assist in the organization, for campaign purposes, the approximately 17 industrial firms in Tecumseh.

This solicitation will actually take place sometime in October and will include corporate, executive, salaried and hourly employees.

Elected to serve with Mr. Nixon as one of three labor representatives is Robert Montgomery, Independent, vice president and coordinator of the United Products Workers Union of Tecumseh. He is a member of the executive board and vice chairman of Le-na-pe district, Wolverine Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Also a labor representative is Oren MacQueen, AFL. He is presently on the county fund campaign publicity committee, a member of Masonic Lodge 19 and a leader in its DeMolay Youth Organization.

The third member is David A. Hendrickson, elected by the Lenawee CIO union council. He is a past president of the CIO union council, chairman of the Labor Day parade committee and a member of the Knights of Columbus of Hudson.

These three men will decide on who shall serve as labor-co-chairman to the industrial vice chairmen in Tecumseh, Adrian, Deerfield, Hudson, Addison and out-county industrial divisions.

They shall then continue to assist organized labor appointments in all campaign matters as they arise.

Herald Participates in Campaign

The Tecumseh Herald is taking part in a year long promotion campaign to benefit this area by bringing about a better understanding of the benefits and responsibilities concerned with the location and expansion of industry.

Twenty-six ads are schaduled to appear during the next 12 months, dealing with the general subject of industrial-community relations.

More than 200 of Michigan's newspapers are expected to participate.

The ad series was created by an MPA Industrial Promotion committee.

It is undertaken in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

Publishers were told that the donation of their newspaper space could play an important part in benefiting the state in general and their individual community in particular.

TECUMSEH COUNTRY CLUB

LEO REPORTS

By LEO BISHOP

A turnout of 52 golfers competed in the "Beat the Pro Day" last Sunday with seven golfers topping the pro's 33-37, two under par round of 70.

Using a 100 percent handicap for the event, winners were:

G. Haskins—63
Max Smith, Sr.—66
Ed Christison—66
Jack Hanna—67
M. Coulter—67
Keith Bailey—69
Clarence Champanois—69

Approximately the same number of people also attended the steak roast following the tournament.

This Sunday another baby calcutta will be played. The partner event will include 100 percent handicaps and using the new quota system. All golfers are urged to sign in early.

On July 27, Tecumseh players will play at the Sunningdale Country Club at Toledo. About 30 golfers are expected to make the trip.

Thirty from Area Attend Conference in New York City

About 30 Jehovah's Witnesses from the Tecumseh congregation will attend an international convention in New York city July 27 through August 3.

Kenneth Ball, presiding minister of the Tecumseh congregation, in announcing the plans of the local delegates, said that it has been necessary to cancel all local meetings from July 25 to August 8, due to many being away for the Christian assembly.

The few witnesses not attending the Christian assembly and other interested persons in the area are invited to attend meetings held in neighboring congregation at Adrian. Their Kingdom Hall is located at 1304 W. Maumee street.

Mr. Ball said that the local delegates attending the international gathering will benefit with Christian association with Witnesses from foreign lands.

The convention, he said, will further the understanding and good will among the various races and nationalities of Jehovah's Witnesses. It will also demonstrate to the world how the Bible message and Christian living can unite people from all walks of life, regardless of race or other backgrounds that tend to divide the world.

Most of those from the Tecumseh congregation will be staying in private homes in New York city and nearby areas. All hotel accommodations will be filled, according to the Watchtower rooming committee, and the majority of attenders will be placed in homes following a house-to-house effort to find available accommodations.

Use Sense While Boating

Small boat accidents are responsible for some 1,400 water fatalities each year — or more than one-fifth of all annual drownings in this country.

The following safety rules can prevent most boating accidents:

1. Stay ashore in bad or threatening weather. Learn to recognize signs of storms so that, when out in a boat, you can return in time when bad weather threatens.

2. Don't "over-power" your boat. Many boats carry the Outboard Boating Club of America plate telling the maximum horsepower the boat's outboard motor should have. If your boat does not have such a plate, consult a reliable marine dealer for the information BEFORE buying your outboard motor.

3. Don't overload your boat. One adult passenger to a seat is considered a good rule of thumb.

4. Avoid sudden or excessive bursts of speed.

5. When in trouble, THINK—don't panic.

☆

FOR THE SAKE of boating safety, also listed are the following points:

1. Know how to swim.

2. Before leaving shore, tell someone where you're going, and then stick to this cruise plan.

3. Provide a life preserver for every passenger. Insist that non-swimmers wear a life preserver when in your boat.

4. Equip your motor boat also with oars, an anchor and a line, a fire extinguisher, a first aid kit, a whistle for signaling, and if you go out at night, flares for signaling, too.

Most boats will float when swamped or capsized. Boat owners should look to their boats as a safety device, and if it is floating after an accident, by all means stay with it.

—o—

Milk is the nearly perfect food, say Michigan State University home economists. It gives you calcium for building and rebuilding bones and teeth. You also get riboflavin, a B-vitamin for building good skin and nerves. And it has protein for building body tissues, too.

Farmers can get season-long control of Canada thistle with a new chemical weed-killer called amino triazole, say weed control specialists at Michigan State University.

Minor Changes Are Reported for Small Game

LANSING — Only minor changes in small game hunting regulations for 1958 seasons are recommended by the Conservation Department's game division.

Game division recommendations for 1958 seasons include:

PHEASANTS: Same as last year except season would open October 20 in lower peninsula.

RABBITS: Same as last year except season would open October 20 in southern lower peninsula.

RUFFED GROUSE: Same as last year except season would be opened on High Island under permit and closed on Hog Island; both islands are in the Little Beavers group. Also, season would open October 20 in southern lower peninsula.

SQUIRRELS: Same, except for October 20 opening in southern lower peninsula.

Mary Mason and Stanley Harsh Wed in Candlelight Ceremony

Rev. Seth T. Hoisington performed the double ring ceremony Friday evening, when Mary Ann Mason became the bride of Stanley Forrest Harsh in the Union Gospel church in Tipton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Jay Mason of Route 1, Tipton are the bride's parents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Davis Harsh of Route 4, Adrian.

The 8 p.m. ceremony was performed before the altar decorated with tall hampers of white gladioli, flanked with cathedral candelabra.

An arch of tall lighted tapers formed the background, and lighted candles stood in each window of the church. The family pews were marked with large white satin bows.

Judy Allen of Onsted presented a prelude of nuptial music, and played the traditional wedding marches. Tim Ostrander sang "Because", before the ceremony and "Always" and "Savior Like a Shepherd, Lead Us," during the ceremony.

☆

AS THE BRIDE approached the altar, she was wearing a gown of embroidered nylon sheer over tulle, made by her mother. The fitted bodice was distinguished with a Sabrina neckline, accented with iridescent sequins, and short scalloped sleeves.

The bouffant scalloped skirt was worn over a floor length tulle flounce and a large hoop. A large bow tied in the back, and streamers fell to the hemline.

The bride wore matching mitts, and her tulle fingertip veil was attached to a pillbox crown of sequins. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of small orchids and stephanotis. Her jewelry consisted of tiny cross earrings and a heart shaped necklace which was given by her aunt, Mrs. Cooper Roudolph.

Carol Hofrman of rural Adrian, was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid was Jo Anne Harsh also of rural Adrian.

Both wore street-length dresses styled like the bride's in nile green dotted Swiss with large bows in the back.

They wore white picture hats and accessories, and carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations interspersed with tufts of nile green tulle.

☆

SUSAN MARIE SALLOWS of Route 1, Tipton, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a pink dotted Swiss dress trimmed with white organdy, and carried a miniature white straw basket filled with white daisies and tiny pink rosebuds. Robert Yoder, Jr. rural Adrian, a nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

The bride presented her attendants with small pearl earrings, and the flower girl with a heart necklace.

James L. Harsh of Clinton attended his brother as best man. David Powell of Brooklyn, a cousin, was his attendant. The guests were seated by Gaylord L. Sallows of Tipton and Roger D. Harsh of Tecumseh.

Two hundred guests were served at a reception held in the church parlors. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake, surrounded by a wreath of daisies. On each side stood crystal candle holders with green candles.

The bride's cake was cut by Mrs. Mildred Crawford and the groom's cake by Mrs. Ruth Fox. Bonnie Parkhurst, Sylvia Hunt, Judy Giroux and Joan Lemm assisted in serving the guests.

☆

THE BRIDE'S MOTHER, Mrs. Mason, wore a light green silk print dress with light green accessories. Mrs. Harsh chose a blue nylon chiffon dress with pink accessories for her son's wedding. Both wore corsages of white carnations and red and pink rosebuds.

The new Mrs. Harsh was wearing a brown sheath dress with white accessories when the couple left for a wedding trip through the Western states. A corsage of orchids from her bouquet was pinned to her shoulder. Upon their return, they will live at 307½ North Pearl Street, Tecumseh.

A 1958 graduate of Onsted High School, Mrs. Harsh is employed at General Telephone Company in Tecumseh. Mr. Harsh graduated from Onsted high school in 1953, and is employed at the Clinton Engines Corp.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Harsh, entertained at a rehearsal dinner in their home Thursday evening.

Folding Doors Make Cabinet Convenient

Often kitchens have wide cabinet doors. These not only take up valuable space when they swing open, but also the homemaker is likely to bump into them if they're left open.

Kitchen cabinet doors don't need to be so wide, points out Coral Morris, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University.

When you're remodeling or planning a kitchen for a new home, plan upper cabinets with doors that do not swing beyond the edge of the lower work surface.

If a cabinet door must be wide, it can fold back rather than swing out. To make cabinet doors fold back, they are cut in two, lengthwise, down the center.

Flat hinges are installed on the inside of the door to hold the two sections together. This permits the door to fold as it opens. By folding, the door swings out over only half the space it would take as a solid piece.

Cabinet doors that are already in use—and are too wide—can still be made to fold. The cut down the center must be neat and smooth—a power saw seems to work best. Doors of plywood, fiber board, solid wood or any material that can be sawed neatly into two sections may be hinged.

The hinges on the inside make the door fold, center out, as it is opened. It'll close flat with no problem in making it latch or lock just as it did before being cut.

Tot-Lots Do Booming Business

Tecumseh Tot-Lots are doing a booming business.

Tot-Lots, in case you're wondering, are supervised play areas which are part of the summer recreational program.

Sandra Schneller is in charge of the Herrick Park playground, while Jane Colgrove supervises kiddies in the Tecumseh Acres program and Julia Boyce looks after the tots at Central school playground.

The program began June 23 and will continue through August 8.

Each morning, Monday through Friday, from 9:30 to noon, these three playground supervisors look after their charges and engage them in recreational and educational projects.

While mother is getting her laundry done, junior may be at one of the Tot-Lots learning handcraft or leather projects, playing badminton, checkers, or horseshoes.

If he isn't interested in any of these things there are puzzles to be worked, clay to play with, sand to dig in or swings to use.

The supervisors have been able to find projects for even the most active youngsters to enjoy.

Attendance at the Tot-Lots has been good, averaging between 15 and 20 children each day. Supervisors report that during the first week attendance was heavy but has gradually leveled off.

This part of the city's summer recreation program gives mothers with young children a chance to get a little more work done and at the same time keep the youngsters constructively occupied.

Like Huge Garden

By GRETTA PORTER

Three people were seated conversing congenially in the comfortable farm home of the Leslie Calhouns on Rogers Highway.

On the surface this would appear to be an ordinary neighbors-come-calling scene.

After a few minutes, however, it would be obvious that there was something unusual here, for two of the group were speaking through the third, who was acting as translator.

Mrs. Leonor C. Davila of Mexico City is spending the summer with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Calhoun.

She arrived in the States in June and was met in Chicago by the Calhouns.

With her, Mrs. Davila brought her three-year-old grandson, Leonardo Verduzco.

☆

ALTHOUGH THIS is not her first visit to the United States (she was here previously when the Calhoun's daughter, Cindy, was born), on this trip she has had more leisure time to enjoy the country.

Speaking through her daughter, Mrs. Davila said that she adores the hospitality of the people in Tecumseh.

Mrs. Calhoun interjected that each time she takes her mother for a ride Mrs. Davila exclaims that Tecumseh "just doesn't look like a town! It looks more like a huge garden with houses spread all over."

The visitor is especially impressed with all the lovely trees in the area. She feels lucky because she is sure that she must have come to Tecumseh during the prettiest part of the year.

With the crops ripening Mrs. Davila thinks the farms are "just beautiful."

Mrs. Calhoun laughingly added that each time they return home from a jaunt, Mrs. Davila remarks every 10 minutes enthusiastically that "this, indeed, must be paradise!"

☆

MRS. DAVILA likes to take long walks through the fields to admire all the plants, trees and growing things.

She is impressed with the comfort and beauty of the farms around and feels that they must compare to the richest homes in the city.

"If it weren't for the fact that most of my family is in Mexico, I would like to live right here," said the soft-spoken lady.

In explaining some differences between living in Mexico and the United States, Mrs. Davila pointed to the Mexican use of servants in the home.

"We have servants in Mexico," she said, "because the work is hard and we don't have the conveniences that you have here. It would be impossible for me to do all my laundry by hand, for example, and therefore I must have a servant.

"In the United States only the wealthy have servants, while in Mexico," she explained," only the millionaires have automatic appliances. Prices on such things as automatic washers and dryers are prohibitive in Mexico."

☆

AS FOR amusements in Mexico, women play bridge and canasta much as they do here. Mrs. Davila, however, is completely devoted to her home and except for an occasional theatre trip is content within her family circle.

Members of Mrs. Davila's family have had various and interesting careers. Her late husband, was at different times, chief of many Mexican customs houses, usually in border towns.

Her eldest daughter, Billie, is a private secretary to the assistant Mexican highway engineer, while a son, George, also in government work, has his own customs agency.

Another son, Edward, who is married to the former Patricia Douthit of Chicago, is public relations director of Pan American World Airways in Mexico City.

Interestingly enough, he met his wife while in Chicago to inaugurate a new Pan-Am flight between Mexico City and Chicago. The new Mrs. Davila was then secretary to the public relations director of Pan-Am in Chicago.

BEFORE HER marriage, Mrs. Calhoun was a private secretary in the accounting department of GE of Mexico.

Mrs. Davila's nephew, Hugo Rangel, now a professor of economics at the University of Mexico City also maintains a private law practice in the city. At one time, Mr. Rangel was Mexico's Secretary of the Interior.

The Mexican visitor, who from all indications is thoroughly enjoying her trip, is planning to return to Mexico at the end of the summer.

She would like to prolong her visit but must return to the other members of her family in Mexico City.

Concerts will be held daily at 4 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., General Manager Donald L. Swanson announces.

Baptist Youth Group Enjoys Hayride, Dance

20 members of the youth group of First Baptist Church enjoyed a hayride Sunday evening accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beland, counselors.

Clair Beland furnished the tractor and Charles Beland the wagon. Arrangements for the event were made by the committee with Evelyn Beland as chairman.

Following the hayride a weiner roast was enjoyed at the Harry Beland home with dancing following.

Claire O'Brien of St. Louis, Mo. was a guest.

Dusty Country Roads May Become History

Lenawee County may have solved the age-old problem of dusty country roads.

A new inexpensive method of improvement, which hardens the surface and withholds all dust, was demonstrated Monday on Staib Rd., north of town.

On hand were 70 people, representing six counties — Lenawee, Hillsdale, Ingham, Wayne, Jackson and Washtenaw.

Also present was Floyd Gale of the State Highway Department.

Using a pulva-mixer machine, one-quarter of a mile was given an asphalt emulsion covering.

According to George Iverson, county road commissioner, it should be good for five years.

As yet there are no cost figures, but Mr. Iverson concedes it will be much less than the $10,000-per-mile figure now necessary for conventional hard surfacing.

"THE COVERING takes out the dust and hardens down the road," Mr. Iverson explains.

The pulva-mixer combines either asphalt or chloride with other liquid materials to provide a sturdy road spread.

Another roadway — this one extending three miles—will be started this week using the chloride base. It's along Forrester Rd., west of US 223.

Monday's demonstration followed a dinner served at the Tecumseh Grange Hall at which talks were made on the new method.

New Overseas Rate Revealed

Here's good news for mothers and girl friends of servicemen based outside the United States. And it's even better news for servicemen hungry for home baked cakes and cookies.

The old limit of two pounds on air parcel post packages addressed to army post offices and fleet post offices has been eliminated.

Northwest Orient Airlines passes on the tip that air parcel post packages going to servicemen overseas now are being handled in the same way as domestic air parcel post.

A package up to 70 pounds in weight and 100 inches in combined length and girth can be sent anywhere in the world through an APO or FPO for eight cents a pound.

VOICE of THE HERALD

How the Paper Helps

The Blissfield Advance recently reprinted an editorial from the Globe (Arizona) Record, which we would like you to see. It's entitled "Newpapers Aid Community Economy."

Fostering economic prosperity in a community is as much the responsibility of a newspaper as encouragement of good government, good schools and community health.

In fact, in promoting business activity, the newspaper aids in building better public institutions. For good government and good schools grow from sound economic roots. They are dependent on the business health of the community.

Most local business men know the advertising columns in this weekly newspaper is a major stimulus to community prosperity. However, few people realize how much the typical newspaper contributes to community economy through its news column.

Even the smallest newspapers contribute thousands of dollars worth of free space and hundreds of man-hours to projects which help to develop better economic and business conditions in the community.

Consider just a few samples:

Continuing drives to develop new industry.

Promotion of agricultural progress in the trade area.

Repeated "shop at home" articles in news columns and editorials.

Promotions at Easter, during the Christmas holiday, and at the beginning of the school term, which keep people in the local community during the peak buying seasons.

Sponsoring of city improvements, retail and chamber of commerce activities, and other movements which help to maintain the local trade area.

These are just some of the ways in which the local newspaper gives freely to the community economy, and some of the reason why the local merchant who invests in newspaper advertising gets far more value than just the advertising space he buys.

Remember? Last Winter's Opening Snow

We thought you might like to feel a cooling chill this week and here is the best way we know how. It was a blustery, wind-out-of-the-north day when The Herald photographer spotted this scene along N. Britton FFA Given Award

Britton FFA chapter received a gold award in national FFA competition.

Cassopolis, Marshall and Deckerville were named as the outstanding Future Farmers of America chapters in Michigan.

It marked the eighth consecutive year the Cassopolis chapter had qualified for the national contest scheduled for October

The contest winners are judged on individual performances and test of the group.

Painfully Aware

Like most folks around town, we're mighty pleased to learn that at long last Tecumseh will have dial telephones.

However, we're going to take exception to several statements made in the firm's announcement, which appeared in last week's Herald.

"Furnishing automatic dial service to Tecumseh reflects our faith in the growth potential of this area . . . "

This would sound as if General Telephone was only going to introduce dial tele phones here because of future expansion. This, in itself, is poor public relations.

Tecumseh has long deserved dial phones —for about 20 years. General Telephone, way overdue in making its decision, should be painfully aware of the long years Tecumseh patrons have had to live with the antiquated "Number, please" system.

Then comes another angle, and we again quote the company:

"Only if our earnings are sufficient to attract the new capital required for a new plant, can we continue to expand our service and meet our customer's requirements."

This would seem to be a round about way of saying, "If we can raise the rates and promise fatter dividend payments to potential investors, we can give Tecumseh dial phones."

Let us not fall into this frame of thinkin. The orginal premise still stands—Tecumseh should have had dial phones years ago and over those years phone users here have been paying the same or more as folks in areas where there is dial service.

Thus, there seems no valid reason for any rate-increase thinking.

We congratulate General Telephone on its decision and we're anxiously looking forward to ground-breaking for the new Tecumseh office with dial equipment.

Immunize Against Polio Immediately

LANSING—Immunization continues to reduce death and crippling from polio, the Michigan Department of Health reports.

During the first six months of this year, only ten cases of paralytic polio and one death were reported, as contrasted with 16 paralytic and two deaths during the first half of 1957.

Since the polio vaccine was field tested in 10 Michigan counties in 1954, there has been a steady decline in crippling cases and deaths.

In 1953, there was a total of 1127 paralytic cases and 108 deaths. Last year, the widespread use of polio vaccine had cut crippling cases to 121 and deaths to 12.

☆

"THE HEARTENING REDUCTION in polio deaths and crippling can continue only if parents make sure that their children receive the full three doses of vaccine, beginning at age three months," explains Dr. F. S. Leeder, director of Disease Control, Records and Statistics of the state health department.

"If the 210,000 children who will be born in Michigan this year are not properly immunized," he warns, "paralytic polio could make a tragic return."

It is equally important that adults be protected, he says, because the disease strikes at all ages. There are ample supplies of vaccine, Dr. Leeder reports.

To begin immunization against crippling polio, he suggests seeing the family doctor without delay or consulting the local health department.

Wheat Yield Good

The Big Line-Up is on. Sound like a TV program? Actually, Hayden Mill is the scene as farmers bring their wheat into town.

Although wet weather held the harvest up almost two weeks, combining got under way in earnest last week.

About 8,000 bushels a high-grade wheat have been coming into Hayden Mill each day.

The moisture content has been running between 13 and 13½%, according to Chet Baker at the mill. Since Haydens' has no drying equipment, wheat containing over 14% moisture cannot be accepted.

Wheat is still coming in heavily from Manchester, will probably just about be finished in that area by the end of this week.

The wheat yield has been high and should prove to be a good year despite the prolonged rainy season.

Contact VA Before Selling Mortgage

A veteran selling his home and GI mortgage should first contact the Veterans' Administration if he wishes to be released from liability to the Government on his GI loan.

Such a release protects the veteran in the event the new purchaser defaults in payments.

A 1956 law allows veterans to be released from liability to the Government, provided the new purchaser meets credit requirements and assumes the veteran's obligations to the Government on the GI loan.

The new purchaser need not be a veteran, and the Government's guaranty of the loan is not affected by releasing the veteran from his liability.

In most states the only cost of obtaining the release is a small fee, usually not more than $5, for a credit report on the proposed buyer.

Release of the veteran from liability to the Government does not automatically release him liability to the lender.

However, VA will furnish the prospective buyer's credit report to the lender, and otherwise assist any veteran who wishes to seek his lender's release.

VA makes no charge for this service, although the lender may require the payment of a nominal fee for the processing of his release.

Through My Window

SO NICE TO BE OUTSIDE

The long lazy days of summer are here and with the coming of hot weather we have moved outside. Instead of gazing through the glass of our big picture windows we now look through the big, ceiling-to-floor screens which enclose our porch.

Open to the north, east and west the porch is an extension of our room. An extra-wide door, custom built so as to accomodate the bed, connects the inside and outside.

It is amazing how much the view changes in just these few feet. Through the window our beloved Evans Creek races around two bends, bubbles and dances over several sets of stony rapids and tumbles over a man-made dam.

Coming into porch view the creek slows down, abandons its hustle-and-bustle pace and meanders along in a leisurely manner which is much more in keeping with our easy-going summer attitude.

Now it ambles around a wide, easy curve, slips under a log (which the kids love to use for a bridge), dawdles in several deep pools, slides over a little dam, then flows around another curve and is out of sight.

☆

BIG, WIDE-SPREADING trees —maple, elm and willow—mark the creek's twisting and turning course. All of the trees seen from the porch are growing near the water's edge and, since our house is built on the high south bank of the creek, the trees are 15 to 20 feet below us.

This being on a level with the lower branches, coupled with the fact that some of the trees are so very close, gives our porch a tree-house quality. The feeling that we are living high in the trees is at times very strong.

Just as with the windows the porch offers the anticipation of something new and different. Last week for instance we had a winderful afternon watching the nervous and quick dartings about of the bright eye-catching Goldfinch.

This little bird with his brilliant coat of yellow and black was having a grand time flitting about the rose garden.

☆

ALTHOUGH SEEING the different birds and their lovely surroundings is a treat to the eyes, the porch offers an even greater thrill to the ears. The sounds are wonderful.

Above the bubbling and babbling creek talk there is the constant whistling, chirping and trilling of the birds. Wouldn't it be wonderful to know their language and be able to listen in with complete understanding to their lovely bird conversation?

We, of course, hear many more birds than we see and even though we cannot identify all of them by their calls alone, the nice thing is that it is not necessary to know the singer to enjoy his song.

Some of the old bird-feeder favorites have distinctive and familiar songs and these we happily identify and enjoy.

Cardinal always conjures up a mental picture of Papa Redbird, resplendent in his suit of flaming scarlet, peering mischievously through a jet-black face mask.

The screams of an irate Blue Jay brings to mind an equally vivid picture. These birds, however, are not given to serenading from the top of the highest tree in the neighborhood as are the Cardinals and so they are often seen as well as heard.

The clear, high, then low whistle of the perk little Tufted Titmouse and the unmusical honking of the upside-down Nuthatch are also familiar and always welcome sounds.

☆

OF COURSE one of the lovliest bird voices, the one which takes the lead in the symphony of bird songs, is that of the little House Wren. From morning until night the bird chorus is enriched by the bubbling, care-free trilling of this tiny bird.

Before closing there are two other birds which we must mention when talking about the sounds which surround our porch — the Mourning Dove and the Kingfisher.

The former will sit by the hour, it sometimes seems, and call in his soft low mournful way. From a nearby tree will come the answering coos and thus goes the Doves' conversations.

Although seldom seen, the Kingfisher's presence is always made known by his loud raucous cry. With a clattering rattle, halfway between a laugh and a scream, he skims down the creek, sometimes clearing the water by only a few inches, looking for lunch. Eagle-sharp eyes are quick to spot the little fish which make up his diet.

So there you have a few of the sights and sounds which make our porch an outdoor wonderland. With such a variety of things to hear and see is it any wonder that we look forward to warm weather?

During summer's long lazy days and peaceful evenings it is a joy to be outside!

Curly "Eggs" 'Em In

Well, we've had drive-in restaurants, drive in movies, drive-in banks. Now a drive-in eggery. It was inevitable.

Curly Rice and his Missus have sold eggs retail at their place for some time. "But all that running back and forth," exclaims Mrs. Rice, "it fairly wore you out."

"So we set aside one room for the egg business. We enlarged a window about car height, and circled the driveway past it. It's efficient—but it cuts 'visiting' with customers and you know how I love to talk!"

From where I sit, I'll go along with Curly's wife—because there's nothing like good talk between good neighbors—especially when there's a healthy difference of opinions. Now you might like some cider to help the conversation along—I happen to prefer a glass of beer. As long as we agree on our right to disagree what does it matter?

TO THE EDITOR

Thanks for sending us a notice that our Herald had expired. We would surely hate to miss one issue. It is something each one of us look forward to each week.

When our family and friends forget some things that have happened in Tecumseh, we don't miss out as the "Herald covers all."

We are all enjoying our summer in Wisconsin. We are sure it must be much colder than lower Michigan, although people write that you have had a cool summer.

The lakes are lovely and plentiful. With our boat and trailer we have had lots of fun investigating all the new lakes.

We have a "little Tecumseh" group here of people who were transfered. They are all working hard and making a big contribution to the community of New Holstein.

The Lauson Engine Plant is certainly getting to be "big business" and you can't help notice the affect on the community in general.

Some people in Tecumseh will remember when the Tecumseh Products first started in a little town and watched it grow. I feel the same way about New Holstein—it's like being in on the beginning of a very big project.

Thanks again for such a good paper.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Charles Stephenson

"What is acceptable collateral for a loan at your bank?"

First off, let us set one thing straight: It is not always necessary to put up collateral in order to borrow here. When you do so, however, you get credit at the lowest loan cost — and quickly. Savings bankbooks; life insurance policies that have a cash or loanable value; certain stocks and bonds; bills of lading and warehouse receipts; trust receipts; chattel mortgages — these are acceptable security for a collateral loan here. Whatever your credit need, we can probably help with it. Won't you come in and talk it over?

State Parks Are Popular This Season

LANSING — Campgrounds are reported full in nearly all state parks throughout the lower peninsula.

Camping has increased more than 21 percent this year from the record-breaking 1957 season.

"We don't know where to put campers that keep coming," said Arthur C. Elmer, chief of the Conservation Department's parks division.

"Park managers keep in contact by radio, and then tell surplus campers where vacancies exist in nearby parks. But the camper has to take his chances wherever he goes. It's first-come, first-served, and space is limited."

About 45,000 camp permits have been issued, compared with 36,000 during the period last year.

Day-use attendance at parks, meanwhile, is about eight percent below last year. About 7,500,000 have visited state parks to date.

College President to Speak Sunday

In the worship service Sunday at the Methodist Church of Tecumseh the sermon will be delivered by Dr. John Dawson, president of Adrian College.

Dr. Dawson has made a name for himself in the Adrian-Tecumseh area, in view of the strides made during his tenure as president of Adrian College.

Several new buildings on the campus, others in the planning stage, and recent accreditation by the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges are significant achievements of the College under his leadership.

Dr. Dawson was ordained in the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Church in 1942 and served three pastorals there before coming to Adrian College in 1955.

Completely Self-Service, Fast Check-Out, Parking for 120 Cars New Store Features

Tecumseh shoppers will see the latest developments in modern shopping convenience when the new Kroger store at 1007 W. Chicago opens next Wednesday at 9 a.m.

The 1958 look in Kroger supermarkets was designed "from the shopper's point of view." That's the word from manager Dick Meyers.

Every detail of the new store, he explains, was planned to make the weekly shopping trip easier and more convenient. The ideas were contributed by home-makers throughout Kroger's 21-state area, and the combined forces of science and industry mobilized to put them into effect.

The new supermarket covers more than twice the floor space of the old store located at 205 E. Chicago, and provides space for larger departments and many new sections. Ample parking space is provided for over 120 cars.

New features which have been designed to bring the utmost in convenience and efficiency to today's busy shoppers will be the keynote of the new store.

The meat department will be 100% self-service with every cut of meat pre-packed in transparent wrapping and marked with weight and price for easy selection.

The produce department will include long refrigerated cases to assure the peak of freshness in perishable fruits and vegetables, and is also entirely self-serve. New type shelving for staple items are designed for better visibility and easier access.

Reflecting the growing popularity of frozen foods, greater space will be given to cases for frozen foods and prepared dishes, ice cream, seafoods and poultry. Housewares and health and beauty aids also are included under the "one-stop shopping" plan featured by the new supermarket.

Five of the latest type conveyor checkout stands have been installed to speed customers through the checkout lanes. These new-style stands can cut checking time in half.

Color keyed decorations and the most modern effective lighting delight the eye. From the "magic carpet" door openers to the Parcel Pick-up station, this new store will provide the utmost in shopping convenience for its many customers in the Tecumseh area.

The new store will follow Kroger policy in bringing to its customers the finest products available.

"All Kroger poultry and eggs are U.S. Government inspected, nationally advertised brands are featured at the lowest possible prices, fruits and vegetables are of top quality and freshness, and Kroger's own Tenderay process is your assurance of tender beef 10 times out of 10," Mr. Meyers said.

Mayor H. H. Hanna and other Tecumseh businessmen and officials of the Kroger Co. will be on hand for the ribbon cutting ceremonies at 9 a.m. Wednesday, August 13.

KROGER MANAGER DICK MEYERS HAS BEEN BUSY PAST WEEKS GETTING NEW STORE READY

Tornado Funnel Clips Off Tops of Five Farm Trees

A tornado funnel passed within 15 feet of the Manuel Andrade farm on Centennial Rd. Sunday night, nipping off the tops of five trees in the front yard as it went.

The path of the funnel was easily traced following the violent storm which engulfed the Tecumseh area from between 6 and 7 p.m.

Limbs and branches on the ground formed a neat avenue about 50 feet wide from the road right up to the Andrade home. The funnel apparently rose at this point just skimming, but not damaging a large pine tree which stands 15 feet from the structure.

Winds damaged three other trees in back of the home, one 50-foot box elder being uprooted.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrade had returned from a visit in Adrian and were eating in the farm kitchen when the storm struck. A loud crash brought them running to the front of the house, where seconds later they viewed the ruins.

In Tecumseh itself the most serious damage occured when a giant maple was blown down across W. Logan St., crushing the front of a 1941 Chevrolet owned by Mrs. Nerissa Brady of 211 W. Logan St. The car was not insured.

The tree, which stood about 65 feet high, blocked traffic for several hours. Upper branches draped over utility lines on the opposite side of the street.

Broken off limbs created considerable trouble for telephone subscribers as 300 phones were temporarily knocked out. A crew of eight linemen worked for five hours following the storm to restore service. Bill Beagle, local manager, reported that by Monday night all were back in working order.

Tecumseh's fire department received two calls, both regarding shorted power lines. One was at the corner of Maumee and Logan Sts. the other on S. Pearl St. near W. Cummins St.

Police trouble amounted to one minor accident when Florence P. Brunt of Petersburg ran into the rear of a car driven by Guy Beevers of Saline. She was ticketed for failing to have her vehicle under control.

THE Long & Short OF IT

SEVERAL PEOPLE TOOK EXception to our editorial last week about the local telephone situation.

It was pointed out by one that there hasn't been a phone rate increase since 1952, but that during the years since then wages have been advanced, materials have become more expensive.

These are good points and must be taken under consideration when the time might come to consider any advance in changes to phone customers.

But the objector we admire most—and she'll go unnamed by her own request—is the wife of a phone employee.

She dropped into the office and we had a friendly chat, going over a letter she had written right after reading the article entitled "Painfully Aware."

She made these points:

"I don't care what you do or say about the General Telephone Co., but when you run it down, you're stepping on my toes and my way of living.

"You don't train a telephone man overnight, the same as you don't train a painter overnight.

"There are quite a few telephone men in this community. So why not a commendation, rather than a condemnation for the little guy, the one who keeps goodwill, or at least tries, the husband, the father, the citizen and taxpayer of this town.

"Why not a 'hats off' to them. They are human beings."

"I have seen my husband come from an eight-hour day of work only to go out again in blizzards, sleet storms, thunderstorms, 100 degree and zero weather.

"I've had to postpone birthdays, weddings and other family or social affairs because of my husband's duty to his fellow men.

"Sure he gets paid, but there are times when money doesn't mean a thing."

We'll underline this by injecting how true it is and we have Sunday night as proof. A crew of repairmen was out five hours following the sudden storm to get 300 phones back into service.

But last week we were not talking about the service folks who give whole heartily in the performance of their duties.

Rather we questioned company opinion that a dial system would be installed in Tecumseh based on future growth. Our point was that dials were long overdue here.

Apparently, local telephone folks agree they'd like dial, too. And as our visitors stated on a rate increase, "We would have to pay it, too."

SGT. BALDWIN READY TO "HOOK UP" FOR JUMP

City Sergeant Lives Where Christ Walked

What would it be like to live on land upon which Christ once strolled?

Finding out is Sgt. Tom Baldwin, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Baldwin, 311 W. Chicago Blvd., currently among airborne troops in Lebanon.

Sgt. Baldwin's unit is bivouaced in an olive grove, reputed to be the oldest in the world and one in which Christ is said to have walked in on several occasions.

In letters to his parents, the Tecumseh High School graduate of 1954 states that the trees are twisted and gnarled, the land sandy and mountainous.

The climate is hot.

Sgt. Baldwin, who went into the paratroops shortly after finishing school and recently reenlisted for six more years, has visited Beirut. He states it has many modern buildings and the streets are filled with American-made cars.

The natives are friendly, but eager to make money off of the American troops, relates the Tecumseh GI.

15-Month-Old Injures Arm

Peter Mitchell, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mitchell of 509 Stacy St., received cuts and bruises on his arm last Monday when it was caught in a washing machine wringer.

He and his brother, Joey, 3-years-old, were playing in the laundry tubs while his mother was starching clothes.

Mrs. Mitchell thought she had pushed the machine far enough away from the children so that there was no danger, but the little fellow reached it and pushed his arm into the wringer.

Mrs. Mitchell rushed the child to the hospital where X-rays were taken and it was found no bones were broken.

The physician in charge said that it would be some time in healing because the skin tissue had been pulled away from the bone.

Swim Exhibition Friday

An exhibition by young people who took swimming lessons this summer will be given Friday at 7 p.m. in the Tecumseh pool, announces Vic Lawson.

Pupils from either the first four-week or second-four week sessions who wish to take part should contact Mr. Lawson, J. J. Walper or Rita Crosby, swim instructors.

The general public is invited to this "open house".

More than 400 took lessons this year in everything from beginning swimming to Senior Red Cross work.

Pupils in beginning, intermediate and swimmer classes will demonstrate some of the Red Cross tests which are given in the various courses.

There will also be a diving exhibition and a demonstration of life-saving techniques by the pupils.

Purpose of the "open house" is to acquaint the public with the program and to point out what tests must be passed in order to receive a Red Cross certificate.

The exhibition will take about one hour.

TWINS PERFORM—Eight-year-old Joyce and Jill Holden, expert floaters, will be among the youngsters performing at Friday night's Tecumseh pool "open house."

Fire Number: 674

By error an incorrect Tecumseh fire department number appeared in last week's edition. Fire Chief Cecil Alderdyce states that 674 should be called in case of fire.

Merchants To Gather on Monday

Sidewalk Carnival Is on the Agenda

Tecumseh's Sidewalk Carnival, first sales promotion of the new Chamber of Commerce, is taking shape.

So far, the retail division board has made preliminary plans and now all storemen will join in the arranging.

A special session Monday afternoon at 2:30 will be held for merchants, states Don Murphy, executive secretary. It will be in the council chamber of the city hall.

To date, Carnival arrangements include:

1. All day Friday, August 22, bargains continue inside stores the following day.

2. Music will be played over public address system from a Tecumseh Herald booth in front of United Savings Bank, where there also will be a display of 11 x 14" Herald pictures.

3. Hodges Drug Store will give away 2,000 ice cream cones from a booth in front of its doors.

4. The Strand Theatre will stage a free cartoon party for children Friday afternoon.

5. No parking will be permitted on Chicago Blvd. one block east and one block west of Evans St.

6. Special streamers will be hung from stores to cables running between utility poles along Chicago Blvd.

Many more individual efforts are expected to be brought up at Monday's meeting.

Incorporated

Perry Cook, local businessman, has incorporated under the name of Cook Electrical Contracting, Inc.

The incorporation was made after moving his business from Chicago Blvd. to S. Evans St.

More on Sidewalks

Objections to sidewalks along Adrian St. were voiced at council meeting Monday night by residents of the area.

Councilmen explained the sidewalks were necessary for the youngsters who will be attending the new Tecumseh Acres School next month.

Deadline for constructing sidewalks along the east and west sides of Adrian St. is Sept. 1.

☆

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE Secretary Don Murphy and Bill Wright questioned council about earmarking revenue from the parking meters for improving off-street parking.

City Manager Ed Nelson reported the meters take in over $5,000 annually and funds are used principally for improving parking facilities.

Council referred the request from the secretary and Mr. Wright to the city manager.

☆

HARRY BELAND was granted a permit to construct an addition to his workshop on Occidental Rd. and the Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheran Church to build an entrance to its building on Brown Street.

The Joel Investment Company, office building now under construction just north of the airport on M-52 received approval for water service.

Max Elliott Explains His Position

Max Elliott, local contractor, has clarified his part in the recent County Circuit Court action taken by Wes Haeussler against building union pickets at his Tecumseh jobs.

First of all, Mr. Elliott states, he did not bring any court action, adding, "I have nothing against Wes Haeussler or anyone else."

"My position is this: I refuse to be the only union contractor paying a higher wage scale in Tecumseh when the rest of the contractors are not required to do so.

"Unless all contractors become union, all my contracts with the union will be cancelled," said Mr. Elliott.

He explained that he had told this to the union and as a result officials began a concerted campaign to bring other city contractors into the union, picketing all independent building projects here.

You Told Us

BY DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Tecmseh residents should be most grateful for the pool, the pit and the many lakes with their refreshing waters which help to cool the hot flushed faces of little children as well as their parents. To live in an area where lakes are not plentiful would be a most unhappy situation to we who are used to them in abundance.

Many are the trips made to from the pleasant summer cottages and quite a number just live there through the summer months. So many Tecumsehites do this that we will not take the space to enumerate.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A City-Ditty

Took a back road home last week and stopped for gas at Hopkins Crossing — a village with three or four stores, a few houses and a Post Office.

While I was there another fellow drove up to the gas station, with Big City written all over him—from his clothes to his block-long car, to his attitude. "Nothing like the real country for peace and quiet, is there?" he remarked to the attendant.

"Why, I wouldn't know," the attendant said. "I lived all my life right here in town!"

From where I sit, opinions are sometimes like fingerprints, never two exactly the same. The idea is not that you have to think like the next fellow—but to understand his point of view. (For instance, your preference for tea, my liking for an occasional glass of beer.) It makes neighbors more like neighbors.

VIC LAWSON REPORTS
Recreation Notes

A combined Products Union, Kiwanis and Exchange team won the Little League All-Star affair Saturday, 14 to 3.

The losing nine was made up of players from the Jaycee, Rotary and Hodges Drug crews.

Dennis Beemer, Gary Lee and Greg Allen split the pitching chores for the winners.

Hurling for the opposition were Gene Manwarning, Phil Collier and Larry Whelan.

In the hitting department, Bob Barth and Doug Fairbanks of the Union and Bob Miller of Kiwanis all had two hits.

The losers got a pair of blows from Jim Brown of Hodges, Mike Blumerick and Paul Snyder of Rotary.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Greg Allen, Products Union hurler, threw a no-hit game in recent Little League action.

It was over Exchange by an 8 to 0 count. Allen struck out four and only one man reached first on an error.

Dave Dziachan, Doug Fairbanks and Paul Decker each collected two hits for the Union nine.

Hodges Drug Store stopped Rotary, 11 to 1, with Phil Collier the winning hurler.

Phil helped his cause with two blows and team mate, Doug Luce, also chipped in a pair.

For Rotary, Tom Richardson and Paul Snyder contributed two base knocks apiece.

When the Jaycees stopped Kiwanis, 13 to 3, Jerry Hebb was the winning pitcher.

Howard Majtyka had three hits for the winners and Jerry two.

In the biggest run producer of the season, Union swamped Rotary, 27 to 4, with Bob Barth the victorious hurler.

The Union's Paul Decker banked out a trio of safe hits, while Murray Richardson, Greg Allen, Barth and Fred Schwede all had a pair.

Rotary's Paul Snyder connected for two.

Kiwanis downed Exchange, 4 to 3, and Terry Morden was the winning hurler.

A 6 to 6-tie was played by Hodges and the Jaycees.

GIRL'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Julia Boyce's team defeated Carol Kapnick's squad in the championship game, 16 to 2.

THE LAMP IN THE WINDOW

Symbolic of the earlier days of American pharmacy was the lighted lamp in the drugstore window. All through the night it glowed, a beacon of hope, a symbol of unselfish service.

Although the historic lamp is now practically extinct, the fundamentals of pharmaceutical practice have changed but little. The responsibilities of the pharmacist are greater today than ever before — he is a vital factor in medical care.

3 Boys Complete Tree Hut

By ARTHUR COLLINGSWORTH

Three future construction magnets — Roger Fox, Kim Dabe and Winfield Walker have constructed a large tree hut on Russell Rd. near the Indian Hill subdivision. The trio with the help of Ted Templeton, whose property the tree is on and whose materials it was built out of, invested $13 in the project.

The building up 15 feet, is in a "L" shape, make about two medium-size rooms.

The boys have put on screen doors, and bamboo curtains to add comfort. Their furnishings consist of a sleeping bag, four chairs, pillow, broom, and a latern.

A sing nailed to the tree states: "Keep out of tree! By order of Ted Templeton".

The boys spent two weeks constructing it, have spent a few nights there.

Ray Arft Named Financial Head

Chrysler Corporation has appointed Ray Arft of 406 Outer Drive to the position of Chief Financial Officer of its new $50,000,000 Assembly Plant, which is presently under construction at Valley Park, Missouri.

He has already assumed his new duties.

Mr. Arft, who joined Chrysler in December 1956, is presently Comptroller of Chrysler-Plymouth Evansville, Indiana, operations.

He will hold both positions through the 1959 model year — the last cars to be produced by Chrysler at the Indiana location.

Being an avid aviator, Mr. Arft pilots his own four-place Cessna 172 and expects to add to his flying hours travelling between Valley Park, Evansville, and Detroit — the latter city, where he attends many meetings.

"THERE IS ALWAYS A BEST WAY OF DOING EVERYTHING"

—*(Author's Name Below)—

When pharmacists compound your prescriptions, you place your health, even your very life in our professional care.

First we carefully read the prescription and then, select the exact ingredients specified by the physician. All drugs must be potently fresh and of the purest possible grade. Next, after checking the dosage and ingredients again for accuracy, we compound them, record the prescription by number and date, and place in a container labeled with directions for use. We must always do our best. To do less is unthinkable.

•

YOUR PHYSICIAN CAN PHONE TECUMSEH 245 WHEN YOU NEED A MEDICINE

Pick up your prescription if shopping near us, or let us deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Tecumseh Public Schools show a deficit of some $24,000.00 in the General Fund largely due to the fact that capital outlay this year exceeded expectations because it was necessary to purchase furniture and equipment for the additional enrollment due to the growth of the area and transportation equipment for more adequate bus service. However, since State Aid for transportation expenses for the current year is never paid by the State until the following year, approximately half of the deficit is recoverable leaving an actual deficit of approximately $12,000.00.

The Board retired $160,000 of the 1952 Tecumseh School Bonds and placed in escrow $50,000 to complete payment of the balance of the 1952 Bond Debt. They also retired $3,000 of the Rigeway District 1953 Bonds in addition to the regular yearly payment of $2,500. In addition the Board paid $30,000 interest on the 1957 Bond Debt leaving $78,000 towards the Bond payments for 1958-1959. This was made possible by the increased evaluation of the school district (now over 34 million dollars) and the prompt payment of school taxes by the community. The Board has also been able to provide maximum educational advantages to the community at one of the lowest operational tax rates in the county due to efficient control and the cooperation of the teachers and other personnel who have accepted exceptionally heavy loads during the year.

The Board has recommended to the County Tax Allocation Board that $9.35 per thousand of state equalized evaluation be levied for operation for 1958-1959 and $6.45 per thousand of state equalized evaluation for Bond Debt or a total of $15.80 which is $.20 per thousand less than last year's total of $16.00. The Board expects to have completed by early fall adequate housing for all pupils in a high school, a junior high, and seven elementary schools.

WLCW HOLDS MEET

The WLCW of the Gloria dei Lutheran Church met Monday at the Parish house.

Arrange Kitchen For Easy Working

The wise homemaker arranges her kitchen so she can do her work in less time—and use less energy doing it, says Coral Morris, extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University.

To save steps and time, organize storage so that things are at the point of first use. For example, spices and seasonings used during cooking are handy when stored near the stove.

Store items most often used where they are easy for you to reach.

Plan work counters that are a good height for you to work at easily. You should be able to stand with your back straight and shoulders relaxed while working. You'll want different heights for different jobs.

Have your kitchen organized so that the flow of work is from right to left—if you're right handed.

Plan for enough work space beside each piece of equipment so you can work easily. The food preparation area should be as free from traffic—people passing through the kitchen—as possible.

Don't be in the dark. Have your work area lighted so you aren't working in shadows.

It's a good idea to have a place in the kitchen to sit down and do your planning. If you have enough space you may want a desk for taking care of all family business right in the kitchen.

FOR ALL WE HOLD SACRED . . . ATTEND CHURCH !

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	8	12
Monday	John	7	1-3
Tuesday	Matthew	5	14-16
Wednesday	Ephesians	5	8
Thursday	I Thessalonians	5	8
Friday	Daniel	6	10-23
Saturday	Malachi	3	10

Over the altar of a church in Philadelphia this huge window tells the story of the life of Christ. But it speaks only to those who gaze upon it reverently.

Through the centuries the Holy Bible has revealed to men the Light of the World . . . but only to those who will read it and hear it preached.

Every day a wondrous light seems to shine in the faces of those whose hearts have been touched by God. And amid the turmoil of our worldly confusion we are transfixed again and again by the warm glow of someone's Christian countenance.

These too are windows of God.

This light could shine from our faces as well. That's why the Church seeks us all.

Kids attending the theatre will each be given a bag of popcorn, gift of the Chamber.

Arrangements are being made to obtain a cotton candy machine, which will dispense about 5,000 free helpings to visitors in town for the Carnival.

This Mobil-Sweeper supplied by the lowest bidder, Earle Equipment Co., is of a new design. The equipment is built on a truck making operation easier.

The $9,980 piece of machinery holds 200 gallons of water, which eliminates dust. Its hopper has a capacity for over three yards of dirt.

Sales representative for Earle Equipment, Don Kurtz, explained that the brush on the right side of the vehicle has steel bristles which are more stable and won't wear out as fast as the regular bristles.

Controls for the street sweeper are on the right hand side so the operator can judge the distance from the curb more accurately.

Sew Machine Center Opens

Trouble with Heater

The fire department was summoned to the Joseph E. Kellogg residence, 423 W. Cummins St., August 6 during the storm, where the people were alarmed by a flooded water heater.

Peanuts Has Palatial Home

Without a doubt, "Peanuts" has the most luxurious dog house in the city.

He is the canine pet of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blaska of 602 West Kilbuck St.

Built on a cement foundation, the boxer's house has a separate room for summer quarters and one for winter quarters.

The winter room is insulated and has both screens and windows. The summer quarters will have the screens removed and glass put in, in time to shut out the cold air.

Peanuts' palatial dog mansion is complete with a porch light.

Exterior decor includes white clapboard siding with gray trim around the windows. The green shingle roof lifts off conveniently so the interior can be easily cleaned.

Peanuts outgrew his smaller and more conventional dog house and Mr. Blaska decided it was time to get something his dog could fit more readily.

The Blaskas have raised Peanuts from a pup and decided that the $450 spent to build their pet's new house was money well spent.

Ends Up in Jail

Isabel Florez of 611 South Pearl street is sitting in the county jail and all because he didn't have his car lights on.

Tecumseh police saw his car traveling east on Chicago Blvd. Sunday morning without lights. Officers stopped the vehicle and found Florez had no operator's license.

His license had been revoked recently on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol.

'Grandma' Celebrates Her 98th

Mrs. Caroline Brun, better known as Grandma to her friends at the Parrett Nursing Home, celebrated her 98th birthday Sunday.

Festivities began in the morning with children from a German Lutheran Church bringing gifts and presenting a musical tribute.

While the 21 youngsters enjoyed cake and ice cream, Grandma delighted them by singing several songs in German.

Residents of the home gathered at dinner and presented Mrs.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Bdun lighted cake.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Brun came to America 81 years ago. Her husband and two sons are deceased.

She has made her home at the Parrett Nursing Home since last October.

Tecumseh Schools To Open Sept. 2

Tecumseh Public Schools will open as usual on the day following Labor Day which is September 2, 1958.

Although the new schools and additions will not be completed due to strikes within the county and delays by the suppliers caused by labor trouble, the Board plans to have all children start school at this time. Parents are asked to cooperate as in the past when conditions have not been quite ideal and to bear with certain inconveniences for the short period that the buildings will be incomplete.

Complete information about school hours, lunches, and building programs will be in next week's paper.

THE Long & Short OF IT

BEING ABLE TO SWIM IS not a luxury in life—it's a skill every one should have.

That's why we're so high on the summer recreation program which introduces the art to many Tecumseh youngsters each summer.

Friday night was "open house" at the pool and swim instructors Vic Lawson, Rita Crosby and J. J. Walper put many of their students through the tests they had taken after completing various courses this year.

Parents, who were seeing the small fry perform for the first time, were slightly amazed at the progress the kids had made.

Children, many with no knowledge of swimming last spring, were leaping off the diving board and confidently paddling to the side of the pool.

They acted as if they had been doing it all their lives. And that's exactly as it should be for some day they may become envolved in an emergency around water.

Keeping one's head is the first rule when a mishap occurs and a familiarity with swimming permits the trained youngsters to do just that.

If you are a parent whose child does not swim or fears the water, better think about signing him or her up for lessons next year.

It could save the youngster's life some day.

☆

WHILE READING THE MAGazine Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record, we noted with great interest the ranking of the state's largest banks, based on total resources.

Of the 175 listed, Tecumseh's United Savings Bank ranks as No. 51 with assests (as of June 30, 1948) of $17,363,000, which is a jump of almost $2 million over December 1957.

The Commerical Savings Bank and the Bank of Lenawee County in Adrian rank Nos. 57 and 58.

Who is first?

Well, the National Bank of Detroit, with just under $2 billion, holds that position.

☆

ALL YOU HOUSEWIVES, INtent on back-to-school needs for the children, should circle August 22 on your calendar.

Emphasis is going to be on back-to-school items as merchants up and down Chicago Blvd. set up shop on the walkways.

Some real bargains are promised and you'll be able to find out all about them in next week's Herald.

Slightly Outdated

Did you know that Tecumseh's public library building was constructed in 1905?

What does this have to do with me, you ask?

Well, just this—your city library building was built when the population of Tecumseh was 1,500. Now, with over 6,100 in the city library facilities are exactly the same as they were 53 years ago.

Since that time no additions or enlargements have been made on the orginal building.

As you probably know, the library has been recently remodeled. The best possible use is being made of every square foot.

However, in 1895 Tecumseh free public library had 645 books, today there are some 12,914 volumes.

In 1948 there were 1,000 card holders while currently there are 2,324 people who hold library cards.

Librarian Mrs. Conrad Fosbender reports that under minimum American Library Association standards, Tecumseh public library should have 18,000 volumes.

With only slightly less than 13,000 books Tecumseh's library is inadequate and can accomodate a yearly increase of perhaps 600 volumes.

Tecumseh prides itself on progress and civic-mindedness. How about our library? Can we afford to stand by and ignore the fact that it is old-fashioned and outmoded?

Only 342 Bother

Eleven percent of Tecumseh's registered voters turned out last week to cast their ballots in the primary election.

This means that only 342 out of the 3,062 registered took the time to go either to the city hall or the fire hall to vote for those candidates who will represent them in state and county government.

When such a small number turns out the election becomes costly to the city. Election officials must be paid whether 300 people vote or 3,000. When only slightly better than 300 vote, however, the cost per voter naturally increases.

But even more important than the monetary angle is the personal cost to you as a citizen. When you forfeit your right to vote you are giving up a part of your independence.

Contrary to what we've heard many local citizens say, your vote in a primary election IS important. This is the time when YOU have a chance to decide which candidates you want to see serve you.

If you didn't vote in the primary you have no right to complain if the slate of candidates is not to your liking in November.

So registered voters of Tecumseh, it is up to you to get out and exercise your privilege to vote when the November election rolls around.

Even though it is cliche, don't forget, that one of the things that has made this country great is your right to a secret ballot for officials that serve you.

Visitors from Hawaii

After visiting in Cleveland, Washington, D. C., New York City and Boston Mrs. Kenneth Yee will stop briefly in Tecumseh on Thursday.

Mrs. Yee is a prominent member of the Chinese community in Honolulu, Hawaii and a well-known radio and television personality there.

Also in the party will be Mrs. Yee's sister and another 8-year-old contestant from Hawaii.

The plane carrying the party will arive at Willow Run Airport Thursday at 9:45 a.m. The Yees will tour the Ford Rouge plant and be officially welcomed to Tecumseh at the City Hall by Mayor H. H. Hanna at 3:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Farver, who met the Yees in Honolulu last year, will entertain them that evening and they will spend the night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Murray, who lived in Honolulu while Dr. Murray was a naval dentist.

Mrs. Yee and party will leave for San Francisco the following morning.

Marda Gene Duncan's Through My Window

SUCH APPETITES!

The birds and squirrels have fully recuperated from an orgy of eating. How they ever survive so many days of overeating I'll never know. Mother Nature usually does quite well in setting a full banquet table, but occasionally she outdoes herself.

This was the case during July and the birds and squirrels were in a tizzy of excitement. They gorged themselves!

First it was cherries and then, closely following, came the mulberries. Flocks of birds, their appetites whetted by the anticipation of tasty fruit, flew from one tree to another carefully checking the degree of ripeness.

Being connoisseurs, they waited until the fruit had reached its peak and was at its flavorsome best. When the right moment came, the word was quickly sent out and the feasting began.

Our overgrown dwarf cherry tree stands in the Northeast corner of the yard. The mulberry trees are more easily seen from my window as they grow right along the creek bank.

Was this an especially good cherry year or did our tree just go on a bearing spree? This Spring, during blossom time, the tree was a big billowing mound of delicate sweet-smilling cherry blossoms. As the fruit grew and ripened, the small branches bowed low under their heavy weight of the juicy bright red cherries.

☆

BLUEJAYS, ROBINS, catbirds, cardinals and grackles were among the most persistent cherry eaters.

How careful they were about patrolling the tree and selecting only the tastiest fruit. From early morning until late in the day the air was full of the sounds of the feasting birds, the tree seemed alive with birds.

They didn't forget their manners, however, and, although eating their fill, enough cherries were left so that we enjoyed delicious fresh fruit picked from our own tree.

While the cherry feasting was fun, we, because it was more convenient, derived greater pleasure from watching the activity in the mulberry trees. As the dull red berries turned dark, the announcement was made that the mulberries were ripe and in moved the birds.

The cherry group was augmented by the squirrels and starlings (of course they might have been in the cherry tree and we just didn't happen to see them).

The squirrels were most welcome, but the nasty starlings, so loud and dirty, were uninvited and certainly unappreciated guests.

☆

AS IF realizing that they would be competing with humans, the birds and squirrels lit into the mulberry trees with gusto. As usual the squirrels set the pace; they were the most fun to watch and their feats the most daring.

As they tiptoed out on the pencil-thin branches (of course, the tastiest berries are always the furthest out), the limbs swayed about and bent dangerously low.

More than once we expected to see a bad fall but, with unerring judgment, the squirrels seemed to know just how much weight each thin branch could support.

When, after careful testing, a branch from which grew some especially tempting berries proved unsafe, the squirrels were undaunted.

They merely scampered up to a higher and sturdier position, secured a good foothold and hanging by their hind feet, dropped down and ate their prize.

From this unsidedown position they twisted and turned about showing great skill and agility in reaching out with their front hand-like paws and pulling the berry laden branches to them. Such deft clowns.

☆

AS THE SEASON wore on, the mulberries ripened much faster than they could be eaten and thus the ground was soon covered with fallen fruit. Now the day came when we were unhappily aware of just how many grackles and starlings we were hosting.

As they brought their dull looking, nondescript youngsters to the banquet, their squalling and squawking made a regular din; the noise was unbelievable and most unpleasant.

Often the ground beneath the fruit laden trees was a mess of ill-mannered youngsters screaming at their ever patient parents.

Both starling and grackle juveniles are unattractive; dull brownish in color, their heads look small in somparison to unproportionately large bills.

As will any young bird, these hollering juniors were constantly begging for food in loud, shrill and harsh voices. Had it not been that we so wished to avoid an over-running invasion of these unpleasant birds, it would have been fun to watch the adults searching through the grass for fallen fruit.

Once a tasty berry was found, it was quickly picked up in a wicked yellow or black bill, depending on the species, and with a lightning quick movement, jabbed down the yawning cavern which presented itself when the young bird tilted his head back and opened wide his outrageously large mouth.

Well, now the cherries and mulberries are gone but we are happy to say that most of the birds have stayed on. The grackles and starlings could, however, take their noisy families elsewhere and no one would be the least bit sorry to see them go.

VFW Auxiliary Announces 24th Essay Contest

Students with some free time on their hands this summer would do well to be thinking about an essay which they might submit to the 24th annual National High School Essay Contest which is presently being announced by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veteran's of Foreign Wars.

Any eligible student attending a public, private or parochial high school and who is carrying a full prescribed course is invited to compete for the awards.

There is no age limit but preentry or post graduate students may not enter.

The essays must contain up to but not more than 1000 words counting a's, and's and the's.

Essays accepted for competition must meet these requirements:

They must be submitted in triplicate (original and two carbon copies).

They must be typed, double spaced, on plain paper measuring 8½ x 11 inches.

They must be accompanied by a properly signed Declaration of authorship. For further information contact Mrs. Harold Mead.

Ever since Alexander Hamilton told George Washington

"Not only the wealth, but the independence and security of a country, appear to be materially connected with the prosperity of manufacturing . . .

"Whence it follows, that it is the interest of a community, with a view to eventual and permanent economy, to encourage the growth of manufacturing."

In these words Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, reported to the President and to the Congress on December 5, 1791 . . . and the book of industrial development was opened.

This is the first of a series of advertisements showing why you should join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

RICHARD MATHEWSON . . . . sharing the problems.

Co-Manager Finds Things Are Hectic in Civilian Life

Richard Mathewson, Kroger Co-Manager, is finding that things can get pretty hectic in cilillan as well as military life.

Until two weeks ago, he was in the Army, working with guided missles. Since then he has been guiding products into their proper places at the new Kroger store at 1007 W. Chicago.

Co-manager, as the name implies, works with the manager on all phases of operating a large retail supermarket.

For the past two weeks, Dick has spent most of his working hours getting the store ready for its opening yesterday.

To serve progressive Tecumseh better, the new store will be open every day Monday thru Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Manager Richard Myers and Co-Manager Mathewson will divide their time so that one of them will be in charge of operations at all times.

DICK MYERS . . . . super market head man is expert in many lines.

Man of Many Talents

Richard Myers will continue his duties as store manager at the new Kroger store in Tecumseh.

Mr. Myers joined The Kroger Co. at the store in Findley, Ohio as a part-time clerk in 1949. A few months later he was named head grocery clerk.

For the next three years he managed the many details connected with supplying a busy food store's staples. This training plus ambition and good judgement soon qualified Dick for more responsibility and he was made manager of the food firm's Ottawa, Ohio store in 1954.

Two years later he was transferred to one of the company's large supermarkets in Toledo as the co-manager. Following six months in that capacity he came to Tecumseh as manager of the Kroger store at 205 E. Chicago where he has served many satisfied Tecumseh area shoppers for over two years.

☆

MANAGING A LARGE supermarket requires a sort of "jack-of-all trades." Besides the obvious requirements of being able to supply shoppers demands, a good store manager must be a psychologist, prophet and administrator.

For the past several weeks Mr. Myers has been dividing his time between managing the E. Chicago store and getting the W. Chicago store ready for its gala opening.

The best thing about the new store is that we will be able to serve Tecumseh shoppers so much more efficiently and in such pleasant surroundings, said Mr. Myers.

"We are proud of all of the items we have to offer homemakers, our famous Tenderay Beef and the huge selection of nationally advertised food products, plus our own Kroger-made and tested items—our garden fresh vegetables and orchard-ripe fruits, and the many useful non-food items which make homemaking more convenient and pleasant."

The Myers family—wife Blanche and sons, Jack and David, live at 512 Nokomis. Dick is a member of the Tecumseh Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce Clubs.

Ex-Postmaster, Wife Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Former Probate judge of Muskegon County and Acting Postmaster of Tecumseh (1940-1952) F. E. N. Thatcher and Mrs. Thatcher will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, August 24.

An open house will be held for the couple at Ravenna Methodist Church from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friends are invited to attend.

The Thatchers were married in Ravenna Methodist Church August 26, 1908. She was formerly Daisy Grannis.

The couple have two children, a son, Garfield G. Thatcher of Hollywood, Fla. and a daughter, Mrs. William A. Wright of Tecumseh. They also have three grandchildren.

HEAD DAIRY CLERK — Anna Mae Bowser is in charge of the new Kroger store's dairy department. The large cases will be well stocked with all the regular items, plus many new cheeses, salads and dressings that she couldn't carry because the lack of space in the old store. Mrs. Bowser has been a Kroger employee for 12 years. She, her husband Arthur and daughter, Dona Jean, live at 1351 W. Monroe. Another daughter, Mrs. Marion Erie, lives nearby at 2214 Monroe. Their son, James, is a student at Albion College. The Bowsers enjoy bowling for their recreation.

WINNERS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Tim Neil and Mrs. Hugh Hanna were hostesses for the bridge luncheon at Tecumseh Country Club last Wednesday.

High winner at bridge was Mrs. Leland Hubbard and Mrs. Paul Maves was second. Table prize winners were Mrs. Karl Schneider, Mrs. Fred Dickerson, Mrs. Yale Kerby and Margaret Hardy.

The Peak of Flavor

Lawrance Reichenbaugh, produce manager of the new Tecumseh Kroger store, looks with great pride at the long colorful cases of dewy fresh fruits and vegetables that line both sides of a wide aisle.

Here, he muses, we have space enough to display our produce and the most up-to-date mechanical equipment to keep it at the peak of flavor and freshness that every Tecumseh homemaker wants.

"Just look at this," he said, beside a display of brightly colored vegetables. "Here is everything the lady needs for a real taste-tempting salad."

Several kinds of lettuce, each a different shade of green, cool white celery, sunny carrots, lone shiny green cucumbers, bright red radishes, large green peppers and the favorite-firm red tomatoes."

☆

REICHENBAUER explained that it takes a lot of know-how and team work to make a display like that possible.

Although as many products as possible are purchased locally, many come from throughout the United States and even from foreign countries.

In order to obtain the best quality at the most reasonable prices for Kroger customers, the firm's produce merchandising department in Cincinnati stations field men throughout growing areas.

The information they gather makes it possible to purchase each crop when it is at the peak of flavor and condition.

Such items as green beans, cabbage, turnips, peppers and other vegetables in season are often shipped directly from growing areas, arriving in Kroger stores overnight. Merchandise arrives in Toledo in freight cars on railroad sidings which adjoin the company's warehouse facilities.

Much merchandise, too, is delivered to the warehouse in huge tractor-trailers, insulated and often refrigerated to protect perishable products.

LAWRENCE REICHENBAUGH . . . sets produce scale.

SHIPMENTS MIGHT include cars from Central and South America. Cuba ships pineapples, cucumbers, watermelons and tomatoes, while pears and grapes may come from Africa when they are out of season here.

The major movement of produce, however, is from areas within the borders of the United States.

As added insurance that fresh fruits and vegetables will reach Kroger stores in this area at the peak of freshness and flavor, Reichenbaugh explained, special storage facilities are used at the Kroger warehouse, even though the products may be kept there only for a brief time.

Reichenbaugh has been with Kroger for over three years. He has been the head produce clerk at the E. Chicago store. He is unmarried and lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence at Tipton.

To further testify to his ability for handling produce, Reichenbaugh's hobby is farming.

JAMES EVERINGHAM . . . follows family tradition.

Kroger Store Will Display Award Trophy

Wave Bourquin, meat merchandiser for The Kroger Co. Toledo Division is ready for one of the pleasant tasks of his annual program.

The job is to visit fairs in 14 Ohio and Michigan counties, attend the junior livestock auctions and purchase between 40 and 50 finished, corn-fed Four-H and Future Farmer of America project baby beefs, plus a goodly number of project hogs and sheep and present appropriate and beautiful award trophies in each area.

Kroger Co., the country's third largest food chain, with an annual meat volume of over 655 million pounds, supports junior livestock sales in the following districts: Erie, Fulton, Hancock, Henry, Lucas, Ottawa, Putnam, Sandusky, Seneca and Wood counties in Ohio and Jackson, Hillsdale, Monroe, and Lenawee counties in Michigan.

Mr. Bourquin has received the 1958 award trophies and they will be displayed in the near future at various Kroger-stores, including Tecumseh.

Ordering Goods Is Task Given to Everingham

Grocery Manager James Everingham is kept busy handling all of the items stocked in the new Tecumseh Kroger store.

A lot of training and experience are necessary before thousands of items can be ordered in the correct amounts to supply the shoppers demands.

Constant anticipation of homemakers wants gets to be a sort of science, Everingham thinks. Past records, attractive prices, seasonal habits, and many other things must be studied and evaluated before orders are placed, sometimes several weeks in advance of deliveries.

Since "Mrs. Homemaker" likes to do as much of her shopping in one place, the new store has large sections devoted to health and beauty aids, housewares, records, books and magazines, socks and nylons, housewares, house plants and seasonal items such as garden supplies, Christmas gifts and toys—in fact practically everything you need for your daily living.

☆

KROGER FIELD MEN are constantly on the look-out for things that will make homemaking easier and more pleasant. They are trained to buy quality at an attractive price, and Kroger shoppers all over the country know they can rely on getting the best for their dollars.

Mr. Everingham is following family tradition.

One brother, Lyle, is operations manager for the Toledo Division, and another brother, Robert, is produce merchandiser for the Dayton Division.

James and his wife, Sandra, are life-long residents of Lenawee County.

Fruit Prices Down

There's a silver lining to the black clouds that have covered most of the Midwest and South this summer.

Heavy rains have resulted in an abundant supply of fresh fruits and vegetables which are reaching the consumer at retail prices averaging 13 per cent below 1957, according to Carl Fuller, vice president of the Toledo division of the Kroger Co.

Produce prices are lower than they have been at any time since 1951, he added.

Among the items which are lower than a year ago are peaches, 25%; cantaloups, 25%; pears, 21%; onions, 22%; watermelons, 16%; and corn, 6%.

Potatoes at about five cents a pound are the same as a year ago. However, a big crop is in prospect and the price is expected to drop further. A bumper crop of apples which is scheduled to reach the market soon should also provide bargains for homemakers.

Generally, Mr. Fuller said, the quality of fresh fruits and vegetables this summer has been excellent. Unfortunately, wet weather has retarded the growth of locally-grown tomatoes and cantaloupes, which thus far have not been up to usual quality.

Excessive rains this summer have created unusual problems throughout the midwest and south. In some areas, certain crops have developed well but could not be harvested because of muddy fields.

80 Foreign Students To Be Grange Guests

Tecumseh Grange will entertain 80 foreign students from the University of Michigan's English Language Institute. The meeting, which is open to the public, is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Thursday, August 14.

On the dinner committee are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bortel, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bugbee, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bottorff and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Green.

Members are asked to bring cake or cookies.

There are still a few diseases for which complete cures are to be discovered. But we have many research projects studying these problems and we know we will learn the answers.

Meanwhile, do not become alarmed when reading the symptoms of these well publicized riseases and imagine that you suffer from such a condition. Panicky fear can actually make you sick when there may be absolutely nothing wrong. Never believe you are seriously sick unless your physician tells you so. Always check with him when in doubt.

1958 MICHIGAN GENERAL EXCELLENCE

No. 1 Methodist Honored

Miss Elizabeth Beamish marks 75 years of membership in the Tecumseh Methodist Church this week.

Fitting recognition of this fact was made in the service of worship last Sunday.

Rev. James D. Nixon, pastor, led the congregation in expression of appreciation for her long tenure and faithful participation in the church.

Church records disclose that Elizabeth Beamish entered the church as a "Probationer" on February 3, 1883.

Later in the same year, on August 19, she became a full member, taking the vows of the church.

☆

SHE ENTERED the probationers class under the Rev. R. S. Pardington and was received into full membership under the Rev. George W. Hudson.

During the past year the Woman's Society of Christian Service honored Miss Beamish by securing for her a Life Membership in that organization.

Last Sunday, Mr. Nixon and the past and present Woman's Society president, Mrs. Carlos W. Jones and Mrs. Frederick Nash, joined in a public recognition.

Mrs. Jones presented to Miss Beamish her Life Member pin and Mrs. Nash presented to her the Life Membership certificate.

☆

MISS BEAMISH now holds the distinction of having belonged to the Tecumseh Methodist Church longer than any other person living.

Five other living members joined before 1900:

Lavern S. Austin, 68 years.
Mrs. Earl Updike, 64 years.
M. Lavie Snedecor, 63 years.
Robert J. McCoy, 62 years.
Leon Williamson, 59 years.

Miss Beamish accepted the recognition of her fellow Methodists with quiet humility.

She wanted no fuss made over her long faithfulness to her church, but her fellow-members would not let the week go by without paying warm tribute to their Number One member.

THE Long & Short OF IT

AN ANNUAL PROGRAM FOR Tecumseh Grange is a visit by foreign students from the University of Michigan's English Language Institute.

These folks are not regular U. of M. students, but rather enrollees of an intensive eight-week course to master English.

From here, they fan out acros the United States to take special courses at such institutions as Columbia, Cornell, Minnesota, UCLA, George Washington, Illinois.

The Institute is one of the few places in this country where English can be learned in this manner. It attracts citizens from almost every Central and Latin American country, Japan, Korea, Spain, Sicily.

Last Thursday, about 50 such students attended Grange and their visit was, as always, a huge success.

Despite sweltering temperatures, the foreign folks watched intently as Grange Master Dow Bilby and his fellow officers conducted their regular meeting. It was the first time — and maybe the only time in their lives — they viewed a gathering of America's oldest farm group.

Lecturer Charles Patterson carefully explained to the guests the various offices, then told about Grange work.

"Grange is for the entire family," he stated. "It is devoted to four major objectives — education, recreation, legislation and fraternalism."

Mr. Patterson told that through Grange efforts land grant colleges, high school vocational agriculture courses, RFD and REA have been established.

In America there are 8,000 subordinate Granges, he said, such as Tecumseh — Michigan alone has 396.

Then it was the guests' turn to take the spotlight.

Allen Gerrard of the Michigan faculty, who teaches at the Institute and accompanied the group here, told about the work being done there.

For five hours each day, classes in grammar, pronunciation, vocabulary and patterns in English crowd the foreign students' time. They also have a laboratory session in which they practice their new-found talents.

Signs hang on all doors, pleading, "English Only", meaning that during these eight weeks students should use just this new tongue.

Which brings us to one of the biggest laughs of the night. As Mr. Gerrad named a country, he had the visitors from there give his name and home town, then tell where he or she was heading after finishing at the Institute and what they'd be studying. One smiling young lady from Central America arose, speedily told her name, then in halting fashion added, "English Only."

Here fellow students roared and the Grangers joined the hilarity when Mr. Gerrard explained that these were the only words she knew so far.

To help keep students using English, meals are with instructors who keep the conversational ball rolling. In assigning roommates, an attempt is made to keep those from the same countries separated, thus making English the common language between "roomies".

Most of the Institute's students are graduates of colleges in their home countries who need English in order to expand in knowledge of their field by attending American universities.

Among last week's Grange guests were lawyers, doctors, a University of Bagdad professor.

Mr. Patterson invited the visitors to perform and they responded with a vocal group doing several Spanish songs. A Japanese girl, wearing native kimono, presented an oriental dance. Both efforts received warm applause from the Grange members.

The evening was capped with a lunch, during which the visitors were seated among their hosts and asked about the farm organizations in between answering questions about themselves and their countries.

It would be wonderful if Institute students could come again and meet more Tecumseh area folks. It would be fascinating for every one concerned.

It's Busy Day for Methodists at Ridgeway

RIDGEWAY — Sunday will be a full day at the Methodist Church here, beginning with morning worship at 11.

It will be conducted by Rev. Francis Mitchinson of California, who at one time did migrant work while at Hudson. His wife has accompanied him on the trip back.

Their son, Allison, now the pastor, will be married in the evening to Shirley Sprague of Tecumseh.

During the afternoon, the Church's new bulletin board will be dedicated in memory of William Jennings Frayer with a memorial service.

Rev. Lauren Carter of Ida and Rev. James Simmons, of Clinton, will be guest ministers.

Shough Reunion Held 31st Time Sunday Afternoon

The 31st annual Shough Reunion was held Sunday at Moore's Recreation Room. Seventy-eight relatives enjoyed a picnic chicken dinner.

Mrs. Wilma Platte of Wayne conducted the business meeting and was re-elected president for the coming year.

Other officers elected:

Vice-president — Oakley Shough of Adrian.

Secretary and treasurer — Mrs. Dean Moore of Tecumseh.

Co-hosts — Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Carey, Sr. of Ypsilanti.

The afternoon was spent socially with softball and horse shoes.

Ice cream was served before the guests left for their homes in Defiance, Hicksville, Dunkirk, Ohio; Battle Creek, Detroit, Dundee, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Wayne, Tecumseh and Adrian.

Lawyer Checks Revolving Fund

Council, on the recommendation of City Manager Ed Nelson, authorized city attorney James Beardsley Monday night to investigate a revolving fund for Tecumseh.

The revolving fund was reported as an equitable way of financing capital improvements here, besides saving the city money.

A detailed report is expected for the Sept. 2 council meeting.

Routine business was handled at Monday's meetnig.

MOVING OUTSIDE—Mrs. Forrest Murphy and Jon Weakly of Hodges Drug Store practice setting up on the sidewalk for Friday's Carnival. Jon will have his work cut out for him that day. Along with John Elliott he'll dip 2,000 free ice cream cones.

2 Sessions Set for Tecumseh Acres Until Rest of School Is Completed

Building strikes contibuted to a delay in school construction this summer and several projects are not complete—including several rooms of the new Tecumseh Acres school.

Supt. James McDowell and the Board of Education have worked out temporary schedules, including two shifts for the six classes at Tecumseh Acres which are ready for use.

The High School, Junior High, West Branch, Patterson, Herrick Park and new Tipton buildings will be in operation under normal conditions with the exception of food service in the High School.

Pupils in Junior and Senior High who must eat away from home will either bring lunches or eat at local restaurants until approximately October.

☆

HOT LUNCH programs at Tipton and Patterson will open September 3 as planned and West Branch pupils will have hot lunch service at the Patterson school.

Macon pupils must bring lunches or eat at home and Ridgeway pupils will not at present be at school during the lunch hour so they must eat at home.

The Board and administration have for some time been considering various plans for opening school should the building program be incomplete by Labor Day.

The Board voted to open all schools September 2 and to give the best possible program to those pupils who are assigned to buildings which are incomplete.

☆

TECUMSEH CITY pupils who have been assigned to the Tecumseh Acres School will attend school in two shift.

Each of the completed six rooms will be used to house one grade. One group will attend from 8 a.m. until noon and another group from noon until 4 p.m.

The school day for these pupils will be shortened temporarily, approximately one and one-half hours per day.

Ridgeway school will be operated in the same manner and it is expected that both buildings will be completed soon and the regular schedule be arranged.

At Macon the pupils will be housed in the two orginal rooms and at the Culbertson school. Pupils will be bussed as needed.

The Kindergarten pupils enrolled at Tecumseh Acres will attend school at Patterson and Herrick Park until the Kindergarten is finished.

☆

KINDERGARTENS at Herrick Park will be operated:

8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. for children who were assigned to walk to school.

10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for children who were assigned to the Tecumseh Acres School and transported to Herrick Park temporarily.

street last week, is anxious to get preparations underway for the coming season.

Although practice is not permitted under state regulations until September 1, the new Indian mentor is allowed to hold skull sessions and will do so each day next week.

"We'll probably use a combination of the 'T' and single wing," he said when questioned about what system the Indians will play.

Assistant coach is Mike Rotunno, former University of Michigan center, who spent the summer working here with the recreation program. He has had an opportunity to meet quite a few of the local gridders.

The nine-game schedule opens against Hudson September 19.

Newcomer on the schedule will be Howe Military Academy of Indiana in an "away" contest.

For a Dutch crumb garnish, mix 1/2 cup butter with 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs and brown lightly, according to Anita Dean, foods specialist at Michigan State University. Use Dutch crumbs to garnish vegetables. That golden brown color and good butter flavor make vegetables "tickle the taste buds" of most every member of your family.

Thurza Marie Dicks Wed to Sgt. John H. Kopka

Tall white wedding hampers and lighted candelabra formed the background for the wedding of Thurza Marie Dicks and T/Sgt. John H. Kopka at the Strathmor Methodist Church in Detroit Saturday.

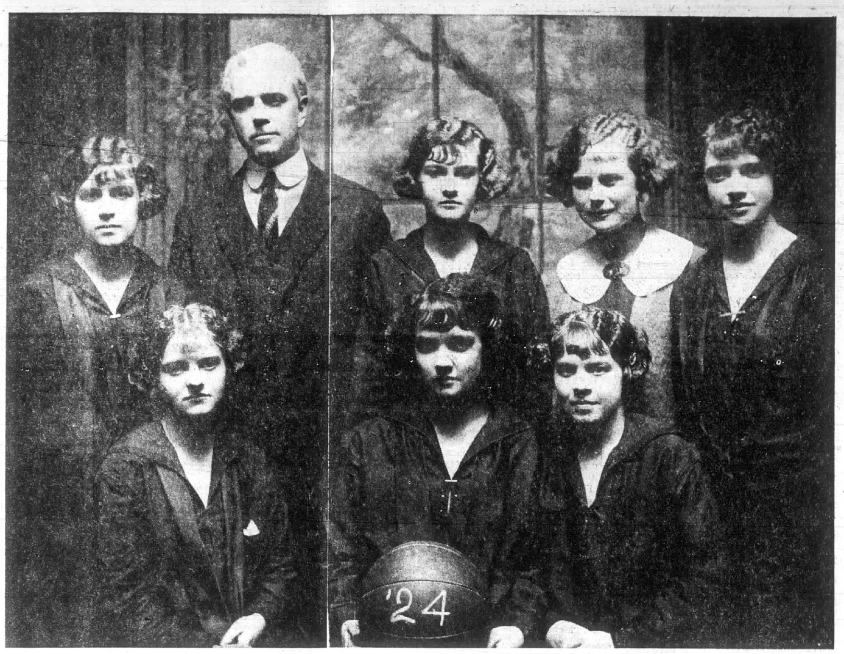
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dicks of Detroit and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kopka of 8 Water St., Tecumseh.

Rev. Jewell M. Smoot, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Gerald Ansama, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor length gown of white lace and net over white satin fashioned with long sleeves, a scalloped neckline and the skirt was worn over a hoop.

Her finger tip veil hung from a tiara of pearls and she carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and white orchids.



Board to Sell Schools through Local Brokers

Board of Education decided at its last regular meeting that all of the schools which are to be sold would be listed with licensed brokers having offices in Tecumseh. Purchases are to be made through any of the brokers and interested parties could contact their broker.

The Board, having received permission from the electors to sell the schools through a favorable vote of electors of district has set realistic prices on these rural schools which should interest persons desiring such property.

The Board also voted that any person owning land bordering any of these schools from which the orginal grant was made may have first opportunity to purchase same at 5% discount by contacting the Superintendent of Schools by September 15, 1958.

An advertisement in this issue lists prices and brokers.

Express Love to Children by Action

ANN ARBOR — "If parents spell out 'love' by their actions, children will reflect their behavior and strive to be like them and respect them," says John Fisher, lecturer in the University of Michigan School of Education.

"Children need to experience self-reliance, and to gain this they need a set of built-in controls established in their babyhood," Fisher says.

"In their helplessness, they depend largely upon the assistance of others. Everybody knows this simple fact, but what is often forgotten is that the young child reads a meaning into all the every-day acts. If they are performed graciously, gently and tenderly, they spell out 'love' and 'security.' When the infant discovers he's wanted, we can see the shine all over him.

"The child really makes a bargain with adults who treat him this way. He pays us the compliment of becoming 'like us.' He develops a cheerful outlook on life; he becomes a force rather than a fretful clod of ailments.

"The child who feels emotionally secure because he can count upon the people around him to discipline him with consisteny and love will also look to them for training in judgment and morality. We're off to a good start. He will be able to relate himself to our complex society and he will learn to know himself.

"If the ingredients of love and tenderness are in the background of the child, they will create the conditions which are best suited for realizing the wonder, beauty and apparently unlimited possibilities of the powerful forces that shape the concept of self."

Hay production in Michigan this year will be smallest since the drought of 1934. The favorable grain price situation this this year makes it more profit-

Grain 'Soup' May Help To Get Cows To Eat More Rapid

Grain "soup" may be just the ticket to get dairy cows to eat their grain faster.

Cows will eat grain about 30 per cent faster when it is wet rather than dry, according to research at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

Many dairy cows usually need about twice the time to eat their grain as it takes to milk them in a milking parlor.

Dairy scientists have been looking for ways to get bossy to gulp her dinner down before being chased out of the parlor.

IN THE MICHIGAN study, researchers Woody Snyder and Eugene Hupp say the 20 per cent increase in eating rate appeared to be enough to let most cows finish eating their grain during the milking period.

Wetting the grain did not speed up milking or increase total milk production during the test period.

Just before feeding, put with the grain an amount of water equal to at least one-half of the total volume of grain. But the water used should not exceed the total volume of grain.

Should Children Suffer

Are your children suffering because of inadequate space at Tecumseh's public library?

Built in 1905 the library stands exactly as orginally constructed.

This means that although librarian, Mrs. Carl Fosbender, is interested in adding to such specialized departments as the record and art collections for loan, there is no room to expand such facilities greatly.

Your child, who might be learning to appreciate good music and fine works of art could be hampered because Tecumseh's library in plain words is TOO SMALL to meet the growing community's needs.

Sinnce 1905 everything else in Tecumseh (industry, business district, schools and housing developments) have increased to meet the ever swelling population. Not so, however, with the library.

An important part of your child's education development and growth can be gained through use of the library. When space is limited, it necessarily follows that books which could be important to your child will not be on the library's shelves.

Mrs. Fosbender tells us that although Tecumseh Public Library has nearly 13,000 volumes, American Library Association note that a city the size of Tecumseh should have some 18,000 books in its library.

The library building is crowded now, where could an additional 5,000 volumes be housed?

This building is old fashioned and inadequate. Why not drop into the library and see for yourself.

Migrant Staff Speaks in City

The Migrant Ministry Staff of Lenawee County will be telling of its work in the Tecumseh Friends Church Sunday evening at 7:30.

Rene Ledesma, Iola Perkins and Jane Graber are the staff members, each presenting a different phase of the program.

The Migrant Ministry Program is sponsored by the Lenawee County Ministerial Association and the United Church Women of the County.

An offering will be taken for the Migrant program.

OUR TOWN

By Arthur J. Collingsworth

TECUMSEH WAS WELL REPRESENTED at the Lenawee County Republican Convention last week at the Courthouse in Adrian.

In the 1956 election the City and Township of Tecumseh received 1,968 votes entitling it to two delegates and two alternate delegates at the State Convention in Grand Rapids on Sept. 30.

There is one delegate and alternate allowed for each 950 votes cast for that party.

From Tecumseh H. H. Hanna and Jack Shutt were nominated as delegates, and the alternates were Mrs. Majorie Beardsley, and T. J. Wagner.

Others present from Tecumseh were Mel Partridge, Mrs. Jack Shutt, James Beardsley, Jerry Stoner, Mrs. Florence Howe and this writer.

Mrs. Ella Koeze, of the Republican State Central Committee was the keynoter.

The Credentials Committee was headed by Jack Shutt of Tecumseh, and the Resolutions Committee was headed by our Mayor Hanna.

☆

WHILE IN DETROIT LAST Saturday I called on Mrs. Albert E. Cobo widow of the late Mayor Cobo of Detroit and former Republican candidate for governor.

She said she would try to visit Tecumseh next week.

She said that a gold rivvet was placed last Friday in Cobo Hall, (part of the civic center) completing the steel structer.

☆

THE NEW CAFETERIA AT the High School is being plastered this week. Also the addition to the home making department is nearing completion as well as the addition to the Industrial Arts department.

At the junior high school furniture is being placed. The home making room is large and the new industrial arts department is fully equipped with every type of tools.

THE EMPLOYEE MAGAZINE, Consumers Power News, ran a three-page story on Tecumseh in the July issue.

Since Tecumseh is one of the cities that the Consumers Power Company serves, it has done a wonderful article on us.

The article includes eight pictures: Jim Beardsley house, Harry Spencer residence, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Allan Seager, Richard Beemer, Ted Templeton, Harold Black and construction work on the new Tecumseh acres School.

The Tecumseh Herald furnished four of the photos.

7 Den Mothers Sought for Cubs

Seven Cub Scout dens find themselves without den mothers this year.

At an organizational meeting of Pack 73 Monday evening committeemen were selected and Neri Collingsworth was named Cubmaster.

Mothers of boys in dens, 1, 2, 3, 6, 10, 12 and 14 are asked to meet Tuesday, Aug. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at 500 Outer Drive. Any mother unable to attend is asked to call Mrs. Howard Wilson at 732-R.

It has been announced that no Cub Scout program can be available unless den mothers are obtained.

The training program for all mothers is scheduled for Sept. 17 and 24 and Oct. 1, 8 and 15. These sessions will be from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Place will be announced later.

Here Are Tips for Youngsters

The messiness that goes along with small children learning to eat by themselves is common.

But there are some things you can do to make their "messiness' less a problem, points out Lennah Backus, extension specialist in parent education and child development at Michigan State University.

During the "learning to feed myself" period it is well to eat where table and floor coverings are easy to wash. It's also wise to serve smal l children on dishes that can withstand damage, advises Mrs. Backus.

Less milk will be spilled if you serve Johnny in a fairly small cup--one which he can easily grasp. Fill the cup only about half full, Mrs. Backus suggests.

There's less to spill and he can have the fun of asking for more. He may like to pour his own "seconds" — with help if needed.

Don't judge a child's capacity by your own. Keep his servings small—a big plate full may look pretty discouraging to a little child and is likely to be more than he can eat.

You might include "finger foods" in the menue. Such things as carrot sticks, celery, crisp raw cauliflower, prunes or other dried fruits are easy for children to eat without a mess.

Marine Resides on 'Pepsi' Ridge

Pfc. J. C. Heflin, son of Mrs. Roy Burchett of 114 N. Division St., is stationed with the 2nd Division Marines in Beirut, Lebanon.

The Division left Camp LeJune, North Carolina June 25 and landed on the Rock of Gibraltar for a five-hour liberty before receiving orders to make an amphibious landing five miles from Beruit.

The Leathernecks marched into the mountains and dug into fox holes in the rocks where they stayed for 13 days.

In a letter to his mother, Private Heflin wrote that at the time of the landing "I carried more weight on me than I weigh myself."

The men lived on K and C rations in weather 90 to 100 degrees in the shade — and no shade — with very little sleep. They were on sniper and fire fighting patrol.

They dubbed the location, "Pepsi Cola Ridge" because they were able to purchase the beverage for a dollar a bottle from an Arab.

The Division has now been transferred to the other side of Beruit in a reserve unit where conditions are just a bit better and sleep is more practical.

The address of this Tecumseh Marine is

Truck Loses Wheel

Ross Hannond of Blissfield escaped injury when a dump truck loaded with hot asphalt which he was driving crashed into a utility pole when a wheel came off last Wednesday.

He told city police that he was traveling north on South Evans St. when the truck's left front wheel dropped off.

The truck was traveling about 20 miles an hour but Hannond lost control of the vehicle, which careened across the road, struck the pole and broke it off.

Although it did not tip over, the front of the truck was heavily damaged.

"What's the best place for my cash savings?"

Naturally, we say "the bank." But so do some 74½ million prudent American savers. Their reasons, as told to many bankers, are these: The fact that money on deposit in a bank savings account is safe . . . that it is handy when needed . . . that it earns a return, in the form of interest, without the depositor's having to invest; the fact that other useful banking services and experienced help with money matters are available under the same roof. We invite you to start banking your cash savings now — here at our bank!

Marda Gene Duncan's

Through My Window

AN ADVENTURER, A GERM, AND A BIRD

It all started as a pleasant enough week-end; in fact, we had planned a typical picnic-in-the-backyard-and-sun shine-soaking-up Sunday. However, "The best laid plans of mice and men. . ." and so it was with us.

Our typical week-end turned out to be anything but typical and before it was over, one person had a broken wrist and one was laid low by a noxious little germ.

Saturday morning started out with the usual neighborhood lawn mowing and putting in flower gardens. It was about mid-afternoon when I started things off, but even then there was nothing definite; I just started feeling more and more "ugl-i-er," not bad just not real good.

About dinner time Eddie and Oley Hanna came over and, while waiting for the fire to get right for a cook-out, a wanderlust hit. Eddie decided to be adventurous and go exploring!

The next thing we knew she was being helped up the creek bank and with a brave, but nevertheless feeble, grin was saying, "I think my arm is broken!"

☆

SEVERAL YEARS ago, during a spell of high water, the creek underwashed and topped over an old tree which was growing at its edge. To the kids this fallen tree has been a boon; to Eddie it was a bane.

The boys and girls that play up and down the creek banks use the fallen tree as a bridge. It is most exciting and quite daring, especially for the younger ones, to carefully work their way across the rough barked trunk.

To those of us who just enjoy looking, it offers a pretty accent to one of the creek's gentle turns. A deep pool right in back of it acts as a reflecting basin-a lovely sight.

On this particular Saturday night the call of the wild was strong and for Eddie the creek and it's tree bridge were irresistible lures to adventure.

☆

BY THE TIME THE reports from the hospital confirmed her diagnosis of a broken arm, we knew something was amiss up here too. Nausea, chills, fever-Marda was in for a seige. How quickly the complexion of our week-end had changed!

Instead of spending all day Sunday outside we hardly appreciated the beautiful day it turned out to be. Even with a houseful of favorite people for company I was, of my own accord, completely out of things and of course, we were all so very, very sorry about Eddie's accident.

Before closing, I must comment on how well Peter, our pretty blue parakeet who doesn't realize he is a bird, behaved during my brief illness. He was absolutely wonderful!

☆

AS IF REALIZING I wasn't feeling well, he suddenly changed his loud demanding ways and became all tenderness and concern. No more shrieks loud banging of his bells.

For the few days I was under the weather, he filled the room with soft little cooing sounds and gentle nudges of his bell. Even at night when we were up, Pete greeted us with a cheerful little whistle.

Sometimes the whistle was on the sleepy side but nevertheless the thought was there and we loved him for it.

Well, things are finally getting back to normal. The doctor's long sharp needle has chased my unwanted bug away and Peter is back to his old bossy self.

We will not mora!'e on Eddie's exploits-We have asked her to bring her poor broken bones, in their pretty pink cast, over and sit on our porch.

Maybe in surveying her Waterloo she will philosophize on "Grandmothers playing at children's games."

PROUD OF BLOOMS — Sandra Egan, of Fort William, Ontario, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. C. Hamaker, is proud of the Rose of Sharon blooms on the grounds of the Tecumseh Motel. This bush was one-foot high when it was a gift of the late Vance Ogden eight years ago. Now measuring nine feet in height — a gain of a foot per year — it will be covered with blooms for another two months.

Our Readers Write

August 18, 1958

To The Editors:

In last weeks Herald you featured a story and picture at the top of the front page of a $450 dog house built by a Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blaska of Tecumseh.

Living in America with its freedoms the Blaskas have every right to spend their money as they so desire.

However, in a world in which over half the entire population is continually hungry from infancy to death, it might be pertinent to think of some of the other ways in which that $450 might have been spent.

At $10 each it would have bought 45 CARE packages.

At $10 per month per child it would have kept 4 Korean orphans for nearly a year.

It might have been a real help to a victim of Cerebral Palsy or Muscular Dystrophy.

It might have spelled the difference between failure and success to a scientist working on heart disease or cancer research.

It would have bought LEADER dogs for 3 blind people.

It could have meant a semester in college for some youngster otherwise unable to go.

It might have helped a lot of children through the purchase of Easter seals.

But perhaps the $450 figure was in error. Maybe the house only cost $45. Even so, if the dog, "Peanuts" could speak and had been asked beforehand, I think he might have said that he could be just as comfortable and well satisfied in a house made of tar paper and cedar shingles and for his owners to use the money saved in helping others.

Morris Cornell

(Editor's Note: Cost given The Herald was $450. Other than that, "no comment.")

Plan Corn Tour in County

A corn tour will be held in northeastern Lenawee County on Sept. 3. Specialists from MSU assisting will be Lynn S. Robertson, Howard S. Potter and Elmer Rossman.

Schedule of Stops:

10:30 A.M. — Louis Machan farm, ¼ mile north of Laberdee road on Raisin Center Hwy., Raisin township.

11:30 A.M.—Albert VanNeste farm, at the jct. of Holloway road and Ridgeway Hwy., Raisin township.

The tour will then resume in the afternoon.

1:30 P.M. — Oliver Mueller farm, 3 miles east of Holloway on Holloway road and then north 1¼ mile on Palmer Highway, in Ridgeway township.

3:30 P.M.—Stanley and David Woods farm, 3 miles south of Britton on Britton Hwy., and then ½ mile east on Holloway road, Deerfield township.

During the day, at the stops selected all will see fields that have every opportunity to produce maximum yields of corn. The owners have shown considerable interest in good practices in their attempt to reach maximum production.

Mr. Robertson will be able to answer questions on fertility problems. Mr. Potter will discuss the plant disease situation; while Mr. Rossman in charge of corn plant breeding work at Michigan State University will discuss production relating to this important crop.

Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Rice High Point Winners

Mrs. Ralph Helzerman and Mrs. A. L. VanWinkle were cohostesses last Wednesday at the Tecumseh Country Club ladies luncheon.

Mrs. Frank K. Smith was high scorer at bridge and Mrs. Frank Rice was second.

Table prize winners were Mrs. Earl Woods, Mrs. L. M. Hubbard and Mrs. Hugh Walters.

School Schedule Set

Plans for the opening of the Tecumseh public schools are now complete.

Several changes from the announcement of last week have been made due to the fact that the Tecumseh Acres School will not be complete by September 2.

All of the additions and new schools will be completed soon so the inconveniences of the opening of school will be of short duration.

Junior High School pupils will report Tuesday at 7:51 a.m. in the boys' gym of the remodeled Central School now renamed the Junior High, and High School pupils in their building's gym for enrollment.

Students will receive schedule cards and pay fees.

☆

ALL JUNIOR and Senior High pupils should plan to bring book rental fees of $6 which cover all books except workbooks which are expendable.

Senior High pupils the first semester are to bring towel and locker fee of $1.50, which is used to supply clean towels daily, and a lock for their gym locker.

Junior High pupils the first semester will need towel and locker fee of 75c which is used to supply clean towels for gym classes and a lock for their gym lockers.

If the pupil desires to lock his corridor locker, 75 cents year rent for the lock will be required.

Only school-owned locks may be used on lockers in any school. Pupils who do not come prepared to pay these fees must make arrangements with the principal before receiving their schedule cards.

Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. all Junior High pupils will go to their sixth hour classes for an orientation period and the Senior High pupils will go to their first hour class for the same information.

All classes will be on regular schedule for Wednesday starting at 7:51 a.m.

☆

CAFETERIA SERVICE will not be available for Junior and Senior High pupils at present. Pupils who must bring their lunches will eat in Room Two in the High School and in the Boys' Gym in the Junior High.

The only hot lunch program which will be available when school starts is at Tipton.

The charge for elementary children will be 25c per day and lunches will be available as long as there are sufficient number of pupils using these facilities to pay expenses.

All elementary school pupils will also be starting Tuesday, but at varying hours and in different locations than expected last spring.

All elementary pupils should plan to bring their book rental fee of $5, which includes first semester workbooks. Parents of pupils who do not pay their book rental fees on opening day will be contacted by the principal of the school which the pupil attends.

Parents can expect to receive a receipt from the teacher for book rental fees and should ask their children for same. Book rental fees for kindergarteners are $2.50.

☆

SINCE THE Ridgeway, Macon and Tecumseh Acres schools are not complete, the Board voted to operate on a four-hour day for elementary pupils when necessary.

Pupils will have almost a full school day in traditional subject matter. Only art, music and the physical education programs will be seriously affected.

The West Branch, Tipton, Macon, Herrick Park and Culbertson schools will be open at 9 a.m. and close at 3:45 p.m. as they will be on their reguler schedule for the year.

☆

PUPILS ASSIGNED to the Tecumseh Acres school, with the exception of the kindergarteners, will attend classes at Patterson starting at 8 a.m. and dismissing at noon.

They will have their own regular teachers and will be given bus service until their school is completed. Pupils should be set to be picked up by the bus from 7:40 to 7:55 a.m. opening day and they will be returned home at noon.

Pupils assigned to Patterson will attend school at Patterson from 1:15 p.m. until 4:15 p.m. and will also have their regular teachers.

Those who live more than one mile from school will be given bus service as usual and should be ready by 11:30 a.m. opening day. Bus schedules will be adjusted to meet the needs of the pupils as soon as possible.

☆

RIDGEWAY PUPILS will attend school in two groups. The grades one, three and five will meet from 8 a.m. till noon.

Grades two, four and six will meet from noon until 4 p.m.

All of these pupils will have their regular teachers and will be given bus service if they live more than a mile from school.

HIGHER POST — Tecumseh's Joseph C. Satterthwaite bounced into the nation's spotlight last Friday when the Senate approved his nomination by Pres. Eisenhower for U. S. Assistant Secretary of State. A veteran of nearly 34 years with the government, Mr. Satterthwaite was formerly Director General of the State Department.

THE Long & Short OF IT

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD Leola Gove of Tipton is a victim of leukemia, confined to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

The Herald will run a feature on Leola next week, but in the meantime, she'd enjoy receiving letters and cards.

Why not drop little Leola a line?

☆

ROCKY MARCIANO IS THE sort of a fellow, after you meet him, you'd like to take home and introduce to the family.

In case you don't recognize the name, Rocky is the former world's heavyweight champion.

His newest field is business, more specifically potatoes.

In connection with an effort to have more and more folks serve Rocky Marciano spuds, the exboxer made a personal appearance swing, visiting area Kroger stores.

First stop on his 10-super market junket was Tecumseh.

As youngsters carefully lined up to get Rocky's autograph, a Herald reporter and photographer chatted with the Rock.

The dark-skinned, soft-spoken Marciano seemed to enjoy his task. When a little boy or girl approached him — 3 or 4 at most who absolutely had no idea who the hulking fellow in the sport jacket was — he smiled warmly and touched their heads.

The older folks who formed an outer circle around the champ were impressed by the guest's sincerity, his ease at expressing himself as he explained Rocky Marciano Enterprises, which will soon branch out into a variety of produce, raised all over the nation.

We haven't any idea how much Rocky knows about the produce business, but if he puts into it the zing and desire he did in boxing, the venture will prosper.

Say, before I forget, I'd better get a bag of Rocky's potatoes.

THE NUNS AT ST. ELIZABETH'S are searching for someone to cook their noon-time meal on school days.

It's a tough chore to teach in the morning, rush back to the convent and prepare lunch.

If you're interested, drop over and see Sister Anne Xavier.

Britton-Macon Opens Sept. 3

BRITTON — Arrangements for opening of Britton-Macon schools are complete, announces Russ Spalding, superintendent.

In next week's Herald the complete faculty roster will appear.

A teachers' conference has been scheduled for September 2 and enrollment of students will be September 3. Cafeteria lunches will be served beginning September 4.

School hours are 8:30 a.m. to 3:05 p.m. with high school students having a 30-minute lunch period and elementary students an hour.

Kindergarten classes will begin September 4 with those living Northwest of the Wabash Railroad tracks attending in the afternoon and Southeast of the tracks, mornings.

Bus routes will be similar to last year's with changes made as necessary. Parents are asked to cooperate in making bus service operate smoothly and efficiently.

Cafeteria at the school will be open for all students and employees. Students who do not live close enough to eat at home are asked to remain at school during the noon hour.

Nursery School Still Has Room

There are still places available in both the three and four-year-old groups in the Tecumseh Nursery School.

Applications may be picked up at 709 N. Union or by calling 7052-R. Those who have applications should turn them in along with the $10 registration fee to Mrs. Leslie Bennett, 1251 E. Monroe Rd. no later than September 1.

JAMMED WALKS — Looking west, from the front of Bea Ring's Gift Shop, the camera catches a view of merchandise and buyers which jammed the sidewalk Friday at the Carnival promotion.

Publish Day Later

Publication of the Tecumseh Herald will be Thursday instead of Wednesday next week due to Labor Day. Copies of the Herald will be received one day later than usual.

Governor's Day Ends in Banquet

Gov. Williams Day in Lenawee County activities will be climaxed Thursday, August 28, with a banquet dinner at Tecumseh Country Club.

Scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., the dinner will be $3.50 per person.

Members of the Lenawee County Democratic committee, accompanied by local candidates for county offices will meet the governor at 3 p.m. in Hudson.

A tour is to be made of the Bridgeport Brass Corp. while the group is in Adrian.

St. Elizabeth Opens Sept. 4

Grades two through eight of St. Elizabeth's school will begin Thursday at 9 a.m. for half-day session that day and Friday.

First graders will report the following Monday, states Sister Anne Xavier, principal.

About 300 pupils are expected to attend the local parochial school this year.

Two rooms are now being added, one for a library and the other a class. These are expected to be completed the later part of September.

Newest City Boast: Winning Pigeon Loft

Tecumseh boasts of many accomplishments and the latest is a championship pigeon loft.

It belongs to a father-son team, Bill and Larry Becky of 703 S. Adrian street, who have been racing birds for several years.

Becky entries in the 200-mile race Sunday, sponsored by the Maple City Pigeon clubs, swept the field.

Sixteen lofts are competing in club competition this year, reports Ben O. Mahrle of Clinton.

Golfers Battling for Championships

A two-way tie for first place climaxed two exciting Sundays of golf in Tecumseh Country Club's annual Calcutta tournament.

Teams of two golfers each battled last Sunday and August 17 in a 36-hole best ball tourney. Eighteen holes were played each Sunday by the teams.

Sharing winners' honors were the teams of Frank Owen-Bob Hanna and Loraine and Paul Callehan. Each of the teams carded a 130 score, using a three-quarter handicap for the 36 holes.

Four teams came in with a score of 132 and tied for third, fourth, fifth and sixth places. These teams were Roger Linger-Max Smith, Sr.; Duane Roller-Jim Cannon; Art Geisenhaver-Bill Porter and Ted Piehl-Joe Horvath.

☆

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP tournaments are now in progress. In the men's championship flight semi-finals, Ned Rosacrans will play Ed Mossing and Paul Callehan will meet Clyde Gunder.

First and third flight final playoffs are undetermined while Gordon Haskins will play Ralph Comfort and Bill Wright challenges Paul Kaiser in the second flight.

☆

WINNER OF the Pauline Moore-Helen Kelso match will play Frances Porter for the ladies championship trophy.

In first flight, winner of the Jean White-Louise Lawson match will meet Ellen Roll. Second flight play-offs are undetermined.

All club championship matches re scheduled to be played during the Labor Day weekend.

FEEL OK, LARRY—Coach Duncan Leckta checks shoulder pads on quaterback Larry Yoakum as equipment was issued Monday. Bob O'Neill, veteran end, sees if strings in back are adjusted. Looking on from left are Greg Mason, guard and center candidate, and newcomer Dan Cisco, a 208-pounder who has transferred from Hudson where he was honorable mention all-state last fall. Dan has his eyes on the fullback position. Practice opens Monday with session at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., announces Coach Leckta.

Sidewalk Sale Ranks as Top Promotion

Without question, Tecumseh's Sidewalk Carnival Friday will go down as one of the most brilliant promotions ever held here.

Old timers along Main Street agree that no greater crowd ever assembled at one time along business row.

Often, the sidewalks were so jammed there wasn't an inch to get through, but nobody seemed to mind the crowded conditions.

And they bought. Almost every store reported vast jumps in sales. Merchants agreed that their patrons were in jovial moods.

Racks of clothes, counters, shelves, tables piled high with merchandise were everywhere.

The Herald had a booth in front of the United Savings Bank from which it sold, at 5c each, old pictures taken for use in the paper. When the day's receipts were totaled it was found almost 500 had been purchased.

Hodges Drug Store gave away almost 2,000 ice cream cones. Customers in return bought with gusto, even to wanting records owner Ralph Hodges brought from home to spin on a player at the store entrance.

☆

MUSIC WAS everywhere. Cal's Tog Shop and Eggleston's Jewelry both had amplifiers at their places of business. The Herald sent selections over speakers atop the bank's sing and WABJ, which broadcast from its mobil unit, also played selections over a PA.

Don's Grill had a Paris Cafe established out front and outdoor chef Max Smith grilled hot dogs for a steady flow of customers.

"I'll never look at another hot dog again," exclaimed Max the next morning.

The cotton candy, colored with blue vegetable dye, had children happily grinning through blue-tinted faces.

☆

MERCHANTS GAVE away tickets to "Peter Pan" and even with 600 available a few children were almost dissappointed. They couldn't find any and thought they'd miss the show.

Apparently, some 50 or so who had tickets didn't come so Manager Walter Nichols saved the day by having it announced over The Herald's PA that ticketless kids could be taken care of and he'd re-run the cartoons after the feature so they wouldn't miss a thing.

A car from Ohio stopped at Easton's Friendly Service for gas and the couple asked Harold what was going on.

He explained about the Carnival and the lady got out, walked over to the sidewalks and looked down Chicago.

"Come on, let's go down," she told her husband, who in turn asked Harold, "Think we can save anything?"

The genial Mr. Easton assured them they could and said he'd gladly park their car while they shopped.

In a little while, the couple returned loaded with parcels, Harold reports.

Larry Coscarelli, who ran a hamburger-malted milk special, needed 125 pounds of ground beef to satisfy his patrons, who gobbled up nearly 800 burgers and drank 250 to 300 malts.

Winners in the special $100 contest were:

$50—Mrs. Norma Pence of 603 W. Chicago Blvd.

$20—Mrs. Frances Caristianos of Clinton and Mrs. Leona Posey of 115 W. Logan street.

$10—Mrs. Charles Lane of 406 S. Maiden Lane.

The family requests that donations be made to the Heart Fund.

Quaker Oaks Folks Cut $6,489 Melon

Employees at the Tecumseh plant of The Quaker Oats Company received $6,489 Tuesday in annual profit-sharing checks.

This 23rd yearly bonus added an average of $249 to the employees' regular earnings during the company's recently ended business year.

Donald Nixon, plant manager, explained that 26 local employees were eligible this year to share in company profits. Eligibility, he said, is chiefly dependent upon sim-months or more of service.

Folks Rave About Sidewalk Carnival

Here is how some of Friday's many shoppers reacted to the Sidewalk Carnival.

MRS. O. W. LAIDLAW, 1 Evans Creek Dr.—We enjoyed the Sidewalk Carnival. It seemed like old times (the old Wednesday and Saturday evenings downtown) meeting old friends. It was the first time my husband had been down all summer and he enjoyed it very much.

MRS. ROBERT J. MURRAY, 706 W. Pottawatamie—I vote an enthusiastic HURRAH! It was much fun and I would like to see it repeated.

MRS. JAMES R. BARTON, 515 W. Pottawatamie — There were real bargains at Tecumseh's Sidewalk Carnival. Liked it very much. Lots of fun.

MRS. LEO BISHOP, 630 N. Union—Got down for just a few minutes in the evening, but what I saw, I liked. It brought a lot of people out.

MRS. HARRY CROSBY, 305 E. Pottawatamie—Didn't get down myself, but the children were down and they had lots of fun. They said the streets were crowded.

MRS. GLENN DRISCOLL, 107 W. Brown—Drove through the downtown area. Didn't get a chance to stay downtown, but liked the idea.

MRS. MERVYN BOLTZ, 112 E. Kilbuck—Was crowded during the evening. Liked the friendly atmosphere which prevailed. Ease of manner, of course, promoted sales. Made some purchases which ordinarily wouldn't have because of the convenience of the booths. Was crowded, however, and hard to see all the displays of wares.

MRS. CARSON HOUSE, JR., 604 Outer Dr.—The bargains were nice and the whole thing was fun. Would like to see it repeated, not right away, but sometime in the future.

MRS. FRANCIS PACKARD, 511 S. Evans—Walked by quickly and saw several things that looked like good bargains. The youngsters enjoyed it.

MRS. ADEN MEAD, 128 W. Brown—We took a look around and had a good time. The children were downtown in the afternoon and had a good time, also.

JOYCE MANWARING, 116 W Pottawatamie — It was fun. I would like to have one every week. There were lots of nice bargains. I went through several times. I bought a dress and a picnic basket. The prices were authenic mark-downs because I had noticed the items in the stores before and knew they had been marked down considerably. Everyone had such a good time. We were sorry we couldn't give just a little house away.

ANNA GRIGG, 519 E. Chicago Blvd.—It certainly brought out a lot of people. Even early in the morning the street was full. There were definitely some good bargains. The Herald table created as much interest as any, with its pictures.

MRS. ROBERT LOWE, 310 W. Chicago Blvd.—I got quite a few bargains. Rushia caught my eye, her children's things, plus teen agers. I bought an $8.95 jacket for $3.00 and six pairs of shorts for the little girls, $1.98 for 69c. When are they going to have another one?

MRS. CONRAD FOSBENDER, 99 Parkway Court—It was real nice with such a festive air. So many were interested in coming down to look. I could see lots of possibilities for another next year and maybe it could be made an annual event. People seemed to be real pleased with the things they bought. It was nice to see the downtown so alive and busy and people interested in our own town.

MRS. LONAL BISHOP, 213 Burt St.—It was lots of fun—but I didn't win any money. I got my kids shoes and Lonal bought a charcoal grill and he says we haven't had a meal in the house since. We had roasted weiners and steaks and Sunday we celebrated my brother-in-law's birthday—and had grilled hamburgers at my brother's home at Whitemore Lake.

MRS. ROBERT LAIDLAW, 510 Seminole Dr.—I found some very good bargains and saw friends I hadn't seen for a long time so it must have brought a lot of people out.

Post Office Open Monday 2 to 4 p.m.

On Monday, Sept. 1, Tecumseh post office lobby will be open from 2 until 4 p.m. only. This is for the convenience of boxholders.

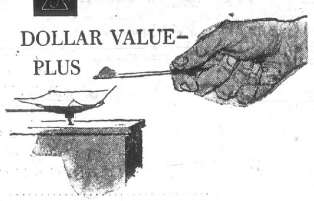
DOLLAR VALUE— PLUS



In an emergency the value of medicine can hardly be reckoned in dollars. Medicine is priceless when needed.

Yet it is an interesting fact that nationally the average cost of a pharmaceutical prescription is about $2.50 — and more than half of all prescriptions cost less than $2.00. Although higher than 20 years ago, the increase in the cost of medicine lags far behind that of other, and less essential, commodities.

When you purchase a prescription you are sharing in the fruits of scientific research. You are getting today's best buy.

Back to School

Then Your Pal and Mine Will be Crossing Busy City Streets

They're just little tykes, five and six-years-old. And they have to cross a lot of streets to get to school. We hope you who drive cars will be looking out for them. Please be especially careful where they cross. Please drive slowly on all streets where children walk. They're pretty careful, but once in a while one will run into the street without looking. After all, they're just like you were when you were a youngster. They might dash into a roadway while chasing a ball, not see you coming. As we said, they're just little guys and we think they're awfully nice. We don't want them to get hurt and not be able to run and play anymore. You'll help them get to school and back safely, won't you? Please give our little pals a break.

Mary Elizabeth Howe and Charles B. O'Neill, Jr. were united in marriage during an impressive candlelight ceremony Saturday evening in the Tecumseh Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howe of 22580 Watt, Farmington, Michigan and the groom is the son of Mrs. Charles O'Neill of 205 W. Bidwell St. and the late Charles B. O'Neill.

Rev. James D. Nixon, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony before 175 guests.

The altar vases were filled with white gladiolus, white mums, white pompons and white delphiniums. Large hampers of the same white blossoms and the traditional seven-branch candelabra and palms formed a beautiful setting at the altar.

As the couple knelt at the altar Leslie Bennett sang "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Kenton Hunt at the organ.

☆

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her parents, was radiant in a floor-length gown of white bouquet taffeta with fitted bodice and designed with a scoop neckline embellished with beaded alencon lace and seed pearls.

The fully skirt was accented with a windswept cathedral train held in place by a large French pouf.

Her finger-tip veil of French illusion was attached to a Swedish tiara of pearls. She carried a crescent arangement of white Butterfly roses, stephonotis and white Snowdrift pompons with nylon tulle tufts and narow satin streamers tied with lover's knots.

Virginia Hizer of Dundee, a college roommate, was maid of honor wearing a ballerina length gown of turquoise fashioned with a fitted bodice of small tucks and a scooped neckline. She carried a rattan parasol filled with yellow daisy pompons, yellow sweetheart roses and centered with Fuji mums in crescent design.

☆

ANNETTE LINGER, cousin of the bride, Sharon Geiger of Lake City and Shirley Bunnell of Birmingham were the bridesmaids wearing gowns of aqua chromespun taffeta in the same design as the maid of honor. They carried parasols over-flowing with yellow daisy pompons and yellow Fuji mums.

The attendants wore sweetheart picture hats and shoes matching their gowns.

Little Chreyl Parmentier was the flower girl in yellow taffeta and nylon net and carrying a nosegay of white Marguerites centered with yellow sweetheart roses and a frill of aqua tulle, tied with satin shower ribbon.

Philip Surratt was the best man and guests were seated by J. J. Walper, Robert and Ronald O'Neill, brothers of the groom.

James Linger, cousin of the bride from Tipton, was the ring bearer.

☆

THE BRIDE'S MOTHER wore a dark brown lace sheath with beige accessories and a corsage of cream colored cymbidium orchids.

The groom's mother wore a cocoa brown silk sheath with green accessories and green cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with silver candelabra and arrangements of white pompons and yellow sweetheart roses.

Pat Dibble of Tipton and Rose Karchon of Detroit poured punch while Mrs. Edward Beal, aunt of the bride, poured coffee.

FOR THEIR wedding trip to northern Michigan for one week, the bride changed to a white satin sheath embroidered with small silver roses at the neckline and white and silver accessories.

She formerly attended Adrian College and is now employed by Sears Roebuck and Company.

The groom was recently discharged from the Navy and will attend the University of Michigan this fall.

The bridal party were guests of Mrs. O'Neill for the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Rock Inn.

RESOLUTION AND ORDINANCE

MEETING of the Village Council of the Village of Britton, Lenawee County, Michigan, held on the 4th day of August, 1958.

PRESENT: W. Lewis F. Becker, K. Bottorff, F. Bryan, C. Fairbanks, L. Dunbar.

ABSENT: None

The following preamble, Resolution and Ordinance was offered by Councilman Lewis and supported by Councilman Bottorff,

WHEREAS the continuing growth of the population of this Village and its consequent demand for housing has resulted in the submission of proposed Plats for this Village; and

WHEREAS justice and orderly development of the Village demand a consistent policy in relation to such sub-divisions; and

WHEREAS it is not the desire of this Village to discourage development but rather to encourage it along sound and proper lines which will offer incentive to sub-dividers, and yet not penalize the present inhabitants of the Village by virtue of excessive taxation.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED: (Effective 15 September 1958)

1. The definition, terms, procedures, and penalties of the Plat Act, a sequence of Michigan Statutes identified as Act 172 of 1929, as amended, is herein incorporated by reference, and unless specified to the contrary elsewhere in the recorded official Acts of the Britton Village Council, shall be the standard by which future Plats are considered and processed by this Village. Violation thereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable as elsewhere provided in the Village Codified Ordinances.

AND THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

1. In addition to the above enacted definitions, procedures, and penalties, there is hereby adopted by this Village a sub-division policy which shall become in full force and effect upon the acceptance, by the Village, of a proposed Plat or sub-division submitted and accepted in accordance with the above procedures. This policy is more particularly set forth as follows:

a. Upon the proper preparation of street and alley surfaces in the proposed sud-division, the same to be suitable to the Village Engineer, such surfaces will be seal-coated by the Village without direct change to the sub-divider or to the future property owner.

b. Curbing and gutter upon any desired street may be installed at the expense of the sub-divider at a price to be approved by the Village. A refund shall be made equivalent to 40% of the cost of such curb and gutter installation proportionate to the frontage of a particular house and lot upon the receipt of the first full year taxes from the particular house and lot.

c. The sub-divider will install, at his own expense all water mains and hydrants necessary for the proper servicing of the sub-division.

d. The sub-divider will install, at his own expense, all necessary sewer mains to adequately service the proposed sub-division. The Village may waive the requirements of installation of sewer mains if the Council decides that such will be impractical and inconsistent with its policy. In such an event, the use of septic tanks may be permitted, said use and permission to be wholly with the discretion of the Council; the cost of such septic tanks to be neither directly nor indirectly an expense to the Village.

e. Upon development of the sub-division and following the first full year's receipt of taxes by the Village of a particular house and lot, the sub-divider shall be entitled to a repayment of $50.00 per water tap, connected by a Consumer to a water main installed by the sub-divider.

f. The sub-divider shall install sidewalks satisfactory to the Village Engineer, unless the Council shall waive such installation of sidewalks.

Rocky 'Quite a Guy' Gal Reporter Finds

HIT IT, JOHNNY — Rocky Marciano, former heavyweight champion of the world, takes a right cross from John Dustin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dick Dustin, during his personal appearance at Kroger last week.

By GRETTA PORTER

On the agenda for last Thursday was an assignment to talk with Rocky Marciano as he visited the Kroger Store.

Now this reporter, although a sports fan, doesn't know the difference between a rabbit punch and a left hook and to interview the retired undefeated world's heavyweight champion left me a bit dubious.

When this reporter and The Herald photographer met Rocky, all qualms were dispelled, however.

Contrary to popular belief a boxer doesn't have to be a big dumb oaf' Rocky Marciano is a soft spoken gentleman who it turns out has other interests besides boxing.

☆

CURRENTLY, Rocky is in the produce business with both feet. He and his partner are promoting a high-grade potato and soon are going to branch out into other food products.

The duo not only will farm, but process their vegetables which are grown all over the country on the share-crop basis.

Rocky has studied a great deal about the potato and farming aspects of his project and is currently on a personal appearance tour around the country.

Thursday he spent an hour in Tecumseh before traveling to Jackson for two appearances. The rest of the weekend was spent meeting the public in the Toledo area.

☆

AS FOR BOXING, Rocky explained that naturally, he misses the game, but not the training grind.

Looking physically fit and trim, the former boxer said that during his tours he meets many former boxers or potential fighters.

He is often asked for suggestions and he metes out this advice, "Take boxing seriously because it is a serious game, a serious sport.

"Good clean living is essential," Rocky advised. "Don't smoke, drink or stay out late at night."

☆

ROCKY AND his former trainer wrote a book "Body Building and Fight Techniques" which is being used as a guide for school physical education instructors.

Rocky was 18 when he decided to go into boxing. Prior to that the champ was mainly interested in baseball, had a tryout with a Chicago Cubs farm team.

He spent about six weeks with the club. Rocky added with a gleam in his eye, "I almost made it, too!"

With a firm handshake and personal greeting Rocky Marciano, retired undefeated world's heavyweight champion, thanked us for interviewing him (but he didn't get away before I could get his autograph!)

Woman Escapes Serious Injury in Train Mishap

Mrs. Richard Copley, 9750 Tecumseh Rd., who is handicapped by not being able to hear, escaped serious injury when she was struck by slow-moving train Saturday afternoon next to the C. A. Wright & Son store.

Taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital, she was treated for bruises on her elbows and right leg by Dr. Carlton Cook and then released.

One of the train's crewmen, conductor Budd Vannsey of rural Brooklyn, said that Mrs. Copley was walking the same direction the train was slowly moving.

She stepped close to it and a footboard attached to the engine knocked her down.

Lung Cancer, – A Town Disease . . .

Regardless of the merit of tobacco claims, pro and con, lung cancer is definitely more prevalent in cities — and worse where air pollution is greater. Farm folks are almost completely immune.

Controversial in some respect, all signs show that breathing clean air never provides the right climate for lung cancer. Seemingly a disease of filth, and enlightened public should make short work of this by care alone.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Traffic Stopper

Every so often I see little things that prove that folks really are pretty wonderful!

Take last Saturday. I was downtown when I saw a middle-aged woman about to cross a busy street. Just as she started, the light changed, and she hurried back to the curb. But the big moving van that was first in the long line of cars had not moved.

"You cross first," the driver of the van yelled. "But you're holding up traffic," the woman said. "Lady," replied the driver with a good-natured wink, "let's just say you're so good looking you're stopping traffic!"

From where I sit, something like that makes the "doer" and the "receiver" both feel mighty good. It's like the friendly feeling you get when your hostess goes out of her way to serve you beer—even though she doesn't drink it herself. That's pretty wonderful, too!

REALTY VIEWS

"I'm looking for a good home, said Harry Tribner, who answered an ad we were running on a property of that type.

"Fine," I replied, and showed him a complete description of the property which we had prepared.

"It sounds good," he siad. "Let's look at it."

He liked it even better when he saw it. And he questioned me at length about the facts relating to the property. I showed him how we had obtained the details—from original sources, such as the tax notices and audited statements. Physical measurements had been actually taped. The full details on the property were available in authentic form.

"I like the way you've rounded up the facts on this property," Harry said. "When I first became interested in buying a good home, I answered several owner's ads. But I never seemed to get the whole story. And, even when they did supply some figures, I didn't know whether to believe them."

"Yes," I replied as a I handed Harry his copy of the earnest money agreement, "there are many reasons why a buyer finds it pays to deal with a competent real estate firm. If that weren't true, we couldn't stay in business."

May we help you to buy wisely too! We have other good homes available and the FULL FACTS!

Through My Window

A VERY BUSY AFTERNOON

A small flock of Goldfinches; a young Robbin; two Blue-jays, one young the other older and more experienced — all combined one afternoon and gave us several hours of wonderful looking.

The Goldfinches came first. Five or six tiny yellow and black brilliance flitted through the yard and without giving a second look to the clear bright water in our bird bath, made straight for a dirty mud puddle in the road.

It almost hurt to see those lovely feathers dumped into that muddy, cozy water. The Wild Canaries loved it however, and as they ducked and bobbed, like children on an outing, they came out, surprisingly enough, sparkling bright.

After about 10 minutes they started leaving two by two and in a matter of minutes, all were gone .

☆

FORTUNATELY, our bird bath was not ignored for long. Soon, a young Robin hopped up on the rim to see what kind of a contraption this was .

He was a full grown bird, but oh, so young; his speckled breast would have won first place in any freckle contest and the only patches of red showing were tiny spots beneath each wing .

He was out exploring this big, wide world and the bird bath was most interesting. Gingerly he placed one foot in the water and then, after a few seconds when nothing happened to it, he cautiously pulled the other in and several minutes stood with both feet in the water.

After a little foot soaking, things were still going all right, so he became a little more venturesome. A big hop into the deeper water at the bath center and then trouble!

☆

OUT OF THE trees came a blue streak and, with angry shrieks of protest, dive-bombed the young bather. Greatly startled and probably not a little frightened the Robbin left!

What a spray of water and whirr of soaked wings that departure was. The strength of the Blue-jays first pass carried him up to the house roof and there he started squawking. Why I don't know because by this time the Robin was long gone.

Now the Blue-jay proved his true character. He swooped to the bath, perched on the rim and screamed his domination several times. He didn't want a bath; it was apparent that this was his private bathing pool and no one else was going to use it.

Satisfied that the bird world understood his proclamation, he flew away. ☆

APPARENTLY IN a nearby tree a young Blue-jay had been taking this all in. It was a hot, sultry day and maybe he felt the need of a dip in the cool water or maybe he was just cocky.

Anyway, the old Jay had not been gone long when Junior sailed in. Landing with a big splash in the middle of the bath, he had just started to duck under when the other one came back.

Again the screaming, dive-bombing tactics and again the usurper left with the upmost haste. Another watery departure.

Proctecting his rights, proved a hot, difficult job and so Dictator Jay decided to cool off. He took a long leisurely bath. Dipping down and shaking so much was he, do you suppose, just daring someone to come around?

☆

MASTER ROBIN proved to be a smart one; after his first run-in, he stayed clear of the Blue-jay fracus.

When quited down, he made doubly sure the coast was clear and then back to the bird bath he came. What a bath he took. The enforced wait must have made the accomplished act that much better.

Thus it was that young Mr. Speckled-brest had he last word and we had, in spite of the Goldfinch's preference for muddy water, a busy afternoon full of good looking.

Merchants Agree on Carnival: 'It was Wonderful Promotion'

FUNNY HAT — Brenda Heeman of the D&C store is almost visible under the floppy hat she wore during Friday's Sidewalk Carnival.

Here's how merchants reacted to the Sidewalk Carnival promotion of last Friday.

BILL WRIGHT of C. A. Wright & Son: "Extremely successful, never have seen so many people in all my time here (since 1940.) From 8 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. we were awfully busy."

SALLY POPE of Gaston & Son Jewelry: "Everybody seemed to have lots of fun." ED HEILMAN, also of Gaston & Son: "More shoppers on the street than any time during the past 25 years. Was like the old Wednesday nights here when we had free acts."

MIKE HITE of Hite Hardware: "Greatest thing since the invention of the wheel. We had a lot of fun."

NED ROSACRANS of The Rosacrans Store: "Best promotion we have ever had."

BEATRICE RING of Beatrice Ring Gift Shop: "Much more than I expected. People on the street enjoyed it. Merchants cooperated beautifully. We had to start selling before 9 a.m. (when sale was to have started.) We were busy inside, too, gift wrapping from 9 until 9."

WES PROCTOR of Proctor Shoes: "Mixture of business and pleasure. We had more clerks than usual. More customers in the store than ever before."

CLAUD HELMS of Helms Furniture: "Really fabulous. We oversold our desks by noon. (His store featured a student's desk special.) Never saw desks sell so well."

MARV WATKINS of Marv's Market: "Reminded me of the old Saturday nights. Neighbors had a chance to visit. We should stress Tecumseh more as a 'friendly town, with friendly merchants.' "

JESSE SLUYTER of Sluyter Electric: "We had a hay day I enjoyed most the merry feeling of the public. Folks were happy. A couple from Iowa was passing through, stopped and told me they hadn't seen anything so gay. The next day my feet felt as if I'd walked 77 miles."

WALT HOCHREIN of Porter Printing Co.: "Terrific. More fun than a barrel of monkeys."

DICK EGGLESTON of Eggleston Jewelry: "Most tremendous thing we've ever done in Tecumseh."

RUSHIA COSCARELLI of Rushia's Apparel: "I'm very happy with the business we did. Would like to do it again. Never been in such a successful promotion."

MRS. ERNEST BRANDT of Brandt's 5 and 10c to $1: "Very worthwhile project. Benefited a lot of people. They enjoyed it."

NED BALDWIN of Baldwin's Hardware: "We showed an increase in sales. When you get that number into town, you can't help but do somebody some good. Gives folks something to talk about.' "

SKIP REX of Western Auto: "Most successful promotion I've seen since I came to Tecumseh in 1955. Customers were able to pick up exceptionally good buys."

CAL DAMON of Cal's Tog Shop: "It was great, thanks to our new Chamber of Commerce, The Tecumseh Herald and cooperation of merchants. We're on the right track — let's keep building Tecumseh."

MRS. BEN RUFFER of Ruffer's Gas & Appliances: "I think it was fine."

DICK HICKS of the D&C 5 and 10c to $1: "Wonderful."

DON SMITH of Don's Grill: "Good to see so many people on the streets. Our sidewalk cafe was a huge success. We sold 400 hot dogs. 'Murph' (Don Murphy, Chamber executive secretary) and the retail division should be congratulated."

MRS. JIM OSBORNE of Osborne's Department Store: "Everybody had lots of fn. Business was good."

MRS. FLORENCE WEER of The Voge Shop: "We enjoyed it. Thought it was very successful."

JIM SPOONER of Butler Motor Sales: "We rade what seemed about 50,000 children around the block in our electric cart." (The Ford agency gave free lifts in a golf cart to anyone wanting one.)

HAROLD EASTON of Easton's Friendly Service: "Terrific. The merchants were giving people values, no dogs and cats."

NORM WESTGATE of the Sewing Machine Center :"We were very happy. Had a good many people."

LARRY COSCARELLI of Coscarelli's Soda Grill: "Something we should have done five years ago. It turned out better than I had expected. The people just didn't shop and leave, they stayed around.' "

DON MARTIN of Gamble's: "Really a successful promotion. Wouldn't want to do it too often — thats' a job moving out all that stuff. We had three clerks busy outside most of the day."

Here's why you're not using a phone like this

Very few telephones wear out. They're retired when better ones are placed in service.

Better and more attractive instruments—more efficient central office equipment to speed your calls—expansion of service to let you get in touch with more people by telephone—these things are constantly being provided for you by General Telephone.

But constant telephone improvement and expansion, of course, take money. Only a healthy telephone system, operating at a profit, can continue to get the investing public to put their savings in its securities.

Profit is a small part of the money you pay for telephone service but it assures your own telephone future. Only when the payment is adequate can you count on getting the greatest value for your money.

You Told Us

BY DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

While rummaging through an old safe which he had purchased, Willis Porter found an account book with C. M. Gilbert, dealer in "fancy groceries, fruits and vegetables".

Nick Howland had an account with Mr. Gilbert and it can be noted that the cost of living in 1909 was somewhat different than it is currently.

For instance, at that time a pound of coffee could be purchased for a mere 35c while a loaf of bread was 5c, half dozen eggs sold for 14c and a quart of oysters sold for 50c.

Those were the god old days!

√

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Milheim and sons have returned from a one-month vacation in California going by the way of the Carlsbad Caverns, southern states and old Mexico. They visited 20 national monuments and parks and returned by the central route.

They saw three shows in fabulous Los Vegas.

The boys favorite spots were Death Valley Scotty's Castle, Disneyland in Hollywood and Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco.

While in Hollywood they saw a movie being made and the TV program, "Queen for a Day." They also enjoyed Dinosaur National Park and swimming in Great Salt Lake.

√

From now on when reporting of the University Hospital in Ann Arbor, to be correct we should use the name, University of Michigan Medical Center.

Since the hospital has grown so much and the school of nursing and medical sciences have been moved into attached buildings it seemed justifiable to use the term Medical Center rather than hospital. This was explained by a spokesman from the Medical Center.

√

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Glenn and son, Bobbie, returned to their home here Friday after a six-day trip through Wisconsin and upper Michigan. They crossed Lake Michigan by ferry at Ludington, spent some time in the Dells and came home by way of the Straits and the Soo.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greene and Gary have been enjoying a vacation at Lake Louise and Gary and Mr. Greene have just returned from a one-month stay in Peru, South America.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Hara flew in from Los Angeles Thursday. They had been visiting their son and wife, Lt. and Mrs. Norbert O'Hara.

Their granddaughter, Kathy, two-years-old, accompanied them and will visit their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brown of Britton, for a time. Her mother was the former Beverly Brown.

Mrs. O'Hara entered Grace Hospital in Detroit Sunday for surgery. She is in room 466.

Now Is The Time For All Good People To Support The

DRIVE FOR OPERATING FUNDS FOR THE SMALL ANIMAL SHELTER

On Academy Road, Two Miles East of Adrian

The fulfillment of a long cherished dream; a necessity denied our county for many years, this new and modern building to care for homeless, neglected or abandoned dogs and cats is now open and operating.

For many years, with but few members, the Lenawee County Humane Society has conducted its fine work — without much public support. Kicked around like an unwanted dog itself, denied any finances by many agencies, frowned upon by many because its work seemed dirty or unpopular, the Society and its members have carried on their duties nobly — without personnel, without a home, and often without any funds.

Through recent years, the AVERAGE ANNUAL WORKLOAD HAS BEEN

* To provide shelter and care for about 2,400 homeless, or injured animals (1,000 dogs, 1,370 cats, 30 others).
* To humanely end life for 150 sick or injured animals.
* To investigate and correct or prosecute about 100 cases of cruelty to small animals.
* To investigate and correct or prosecute numerous cases of cruelty to small children.
* To investigate and correct or prosecute cases of cruelty to livestock (usually transit cases).

CHORUS LINE—These eight lively young women and men make up the chorus line for the musicale, "The Boy Friend," which comes to Tecumseh Saturday, Sept. 13. The show's proceeds will go into the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary treasury. Altogether, about 30 make up the Clark Lake Players company.

It's 'The Boy Friend'

Musical Comedy Will Play Here Sept. 13

★ ★ ★

A gay musical comedy, "The Boy Friend," will be staged by the Clark Lake Players at the Strand Theatre Saturday, Sept. 13.

Sponsored by the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the show has played to packed houses during its three-day stint on the Lake's regular summer program, then ran into another week.

With a setting of the Roaring Twenties in France, "The Boy Friend" combines dancing and singing that would rival Broadway efforts.

Only professional in the troop is director William McAnallen, who has done an excellent job of casting and then rounding his charges into exceptionally capable performers.

The Clark Lake Players are mainly from the Jackson area, all stage-struck and each with a real talent for singing, dancing or acting.

They tackle a wide variety of productions each summer, from drama to musicals.

They have a loyal following, including folks from Tecumseh and it was through two of them, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Coak, that the Tecumseh performances was arranged.

Tickets are being offered in three price brackets, $2 for the front half downstairs, $1.75 for the back half and $1.50 for balcony seats.

The Strand will accommodate 600.

All proceeds, after expenses, will go into the Hospital Auxiliary treasury.

Merchants Now Will Give Away Silver Dollars

Next Chamber of Commerce retail promotion is in the works.

Being held in conjunction with National Apple Week — Oct. 26 to Nov. 1 — the effort will be pegged on a silver dollar gimmick.

Merchants will give customers the $1 piece with every $10 purchase, meaning a 10% reduction on all sales.

The Chamber's retail board began preparations at its meeting Tuesday noon, naming Claude Helms as chairman.

Apple growers in the area will be invited to display their crops along the sidewalks.

An apple queen will be chosen and she'll lead the annual Halloween parade.

Prizes will be awarded for outstanding costumes.

This is the Chamber's second sales promotion, the first being the highly-successful Sidewalk Carnival.

Silent Auction Planned Again for Circle 2

Ann Carson opened her home Tuesday evening for the first regular meeting of Circle 2 of the Presbyterian Church.

A potluck dinner was served with Mrs. LeRoy Titley and Mrs. James Beardaley assisting the hostess.

Mrs. Henry Carl Smith had charge of the devotional period. A white elephant silent auction was held with so much success that it was decided to continue that project at the next meeting.

The group voted to serve the Business and Professional Women's dinner September 22.

Following the business meeting color slides were presented by Mrs. John Hamilton and commentary on her experience as a counselor at Presbytery Point in June.

The October meeting will be held at Mrs. E. C. Heilman's home.

THE Long & Short OF IT

THAT PICTURE OF THE 1924 girls' basketball team drew quite a bit of comment, including a letter fromm San Francisco.

Now living in California, Mrs. W. L. Mannheim, the former Madeline Boyce, came through with complete identification of the gals plus a squib written in their yearbook.

The writeup, in part, said, "They have met the very best teams of the state and have been successful . . . they played clean, aggressive, sportsmanlike games . . . few teams have shown the same ability to pivot and dribble."

Mrs. Mannheim closes, "I wish to thank you for printing something which recalls pleasant memories of our high school days in Tecumseh."

☆

VETERAN TECUMSEH school bus driver Mrs. Donald Wood gives that little extra to her "patrons."

Kindergarteners on her route receive a special pre-school visit from Mrs. Wood, who introduces herself to both the mother and the child.

She wants to make certain each youngster knows his and her driver and instructs them to go only into her bus. At the same time Mrs. Wood gets acquainted with her new customers.

The kids enjoy the call and so do the moms.

We congratulate Mrs. Wood on her throughtfulness.

☆

TWO OF THE AREA'S BIGGEST boosters of summer stock theatres are Dr. and Mrs. Richard Coak, who are up to their elbows in a project which will be bringing a lot of fun to folks here.

Regular patrons of Clark Lake Player shows, the Coaks so enjoyed the season's finale, a musical called "The Boy Friend," Jean sought out the director after the performance.

"Would your group come to Tecumseh?" she asked.

The answer was a definite "Yes" and wheels went into motion.

Mrs. Coak envisioned a twin reaction: entertainment for Tecumseh and a money-making project for the Hospital Auxiliary, of which she is president.

Dr. Coak was equally enthusiastic about the idea, returned the following night to record songs from the show. His tape will be played over a downtown PA system to create interest in the production and its performance here.

We're lucky to have folks like the Coaks in Tecumseh.

Maybe one of these days we'll have our own amateur players right here.

Keran Services

Funeral services were held at the Niblack Funeral Home in Britton last week for A. E. Keran who passed away at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. John Keran, where he had made his home for the past year.

Rev. O. E. Priest officiated and burial was in Ridgeway cemetery.

Area Youths Win Ribbons in 4-H Show

Weather was the best possible for Tecumseh area boys and girls who had entries in the State 4-H Club Show at East Lansing last week.

Nelson Sweet of the County Hi-Steppers Club showed the fourth place individual barrow in the swine show and his brother, Raymond, took fifth showing a breeding herd and seventh showing a single gilt.

Their sister, Gloria, was awarded a red ribbon for her Home Improvements project.

Carolyn Woods received a red ribbon on her wildflowers poster and notebook.

Sharon Ries from Ridgeway won a red ribbon for her complete costume and Nancy Bird received a blue ribbon for her medium annuals shown in the Flower garden entries.

☆

WINNING STATE honors as the best foods judge was JoAnn Frost of Britton who also received a blue ribbon for her Tasty Meals. She is a member of the Holloway homemakers Club.

Also of this club are Marilyn Mumaw who won the blue ribbon in clothing; Joan Mumaw, blue in baking four, Ann Wellnitz the white ribbon in baking two and Harriet Marks who received a red ribbon by creating her own flower arrangement.

Joan Mumaw received a red ribbon for her second-year vegetable gardening exhibit as did Kay Schultz who also took a red ribbon in frozen foods.

Larry Wagner and Larry Robison of the Tecumseh Cylinder Head Tractor Club entered the tractor contest and the former placed fifth in the plowing contest and fourth in safety operation while Larry Robison was 14th in the tractor operators contest.

Little Leaguers Will See Tigers

Little Leagers interested in seeing the Tigers meet the Baltimore Orioles Saturday, Sept. 13, should notify their teachers, states Mike Rotunno.

Mr. Rotunno, who headed up the past summer's Little League program, states that plans have been made to take 90 boys to Briggs Stadium for the contest.

The youngsters will go by school bus, leave Tecumseh at 10 a.m.

Meyers Aircraft Is in the News on Two Fronts

Meyers Aircraft is in the news this week with:

1. Publicity in Sports Illustrated.

2. An addition at the plant.

A picture of the Meyers 200 appeared in the August 25 edition of the national magazine along with several other newly-created executive aircraft.

Sports Illustrated devoted considerable space to aviation in the issue and the Tecumseh-made ship was in a section entitled, "The New Age of Private Planes."

☆

MEANWHILE, back at the shop, a cement-block addition is being constructed and will offer 2,400 square feet of space.

It will be used for the engineering department and storage space.

The old engineering layout is being changed into an airport field office, made necessary by the increased landings and take-offs on the Meyers strip.

Approximately 300 arrivals and departures are now being recorded on the Meyer's log every month.

LEUKEMIA VICTIM LEOLA GOVE ADMIRES HER LOVELY BRIDE DOLL.

She Enjoys Mail

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Leola Gove, 12-year-old leukemia victim, looks forward eagerly to the daily mail delivery at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Always an active youngster until this spring when the family physician discovered Leola had contracted the deadly disease, she now has to be content with quiet hobbies—and opening mail is one of them.

Leola has been in and out of Herrick Memorial Hospital since getting leukemia.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gove, Leola has a brother Paul, 15, and sister, Beth, six.

Paul attended the 4-H State Show at Lansing the past week and Leola no doubt would have been there too if she were able.

She is a member of Pentecost Lads and Lassies Club and took first year sewing and food and food preservation for her projects last year.

As a sixth-grade student of Onsted school this past spring, Leola, with three others making up the Junior Clarinet Ensemble of the Junior Band, took first place in the State District Spring Festival held at Lansing. She was also given the safety patrol award for the month of April.

She is a member of the Tecumseh Friends Church. Liquid embroidery has been one of her favorite hobbies and she would like to learn to type.

She has started collecting stamps, thanks to the assistance of one of the kind nurses who is caring for her while she is in the hospital and is most grateful for the greeting cards she has received.

Everyone knows that with mail the big event of the day there can never be too much of it so this writer suggests that all Tecumseh take the time to post a note or pretty card to this little gal.

Pain in her arm is excruciating at times and Mrs. Gove spends much of her time at the bedside of her daughter to soothe and rub it.

Pain is not the usual thing in cases of this kind, but for Leola it is a prime concern. The doctor says it is caused from pressure building up in the bone marrow. She has had 14 blood transfusions since April, seven of them recently.

The family is grateful to the Tecumseh Products blood bank for replacing these. Her father is employed by the Company.

As the paper goes to press the news of little Leola is good. Her mother reported the child well rested on Wednesday from a full night's sleep which she has not had for some time. She had no pain and was able to use a typewriter to write thank you notes.

Enrollment: 2,900

Figures for attendance this week at the Tecumseh schools indicate a likely enrollment of approximately 2,900 for the 1958-59 term.

Supt. James McDowell reports a total school enrollment of 2,721 for this week. Before Sept. 26, when the official enrollment is taken for the state, the count is expected to increase by at least 100.

High school, the top four grades, is 622; junior high, 421; and elementary, including kindergarten, 1,678.

Many students are reported not back from trips and vacations.

Golf Champs Crowned

Tecumseh Country Club crowned its 1958 golfing champions Labor Day evening with 100 members on hand for the festivities.

Big winners were:

1. Paul Callahan of Adrian, who won the men's championship flight, besting Ned Rosacrans over a 36-hole grind, 10 and 9.

2. Pauline Moore, who for the seventh time out of 10, won the women's championship flight crown. She defeated Frances Poter, 4 and 3.

Mr. Callahan also was awarded the PGA trophy for firing nearest to the pin during the tourney.

Other male champions:

First flight: Virgil Tucker beat Fred Randall, 1-up.

Second flight: Bill Wright beat Ralph Comfort, 3 and 1.

Third flight: Andy Woodworth beat Jim Cannon, 4 and 2.

Among the women:

First flight: Ellen Rolf beat Jean White, 2 and 1.

Second flight: Joann Rosacrans beat Jean Christison, 7 and 6.

Mary Alice Wins Tops in Michigan

Of the 500 essays entered in this year's Michigan American Legion Auxiliary Americanism contest, the one written by a Tecumseh girl ranked the best.

The author, Mary Alice Stutesman, an eighth grader, is the daughter if Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stutesman, 113 S. Maumee St.

She was a special guest at the August 26 banquet staged by the Saline Legion, which also honored Pat Johnson of that city, third-place winner.

Mrs. Maw Uphouse, District president, presented both young ladies with their awards and the girls read their entries.

Mary Alice was accompanied to Saline by Mrs. Louis Schneider, Sr. and Mrs. Paul Keyser, Americanism chairmen.

Teen Club Holds Dance on Friday

Tecumseh's Teen Club opens the year's activities Firday night with a dance from 8 until 12.

The painting and decorating has almost been completed. Part of the expenses have been supplied by the committee of local service clubs that now aid the Teen Club.

The Club supplied the remainder of the money and the labor.

Walt Nichols To Head Drive

Walter Nicols, manager of the Strand Theatre, has been appointed Campaign Chairman for the 1958 Tecumseh Community Fund Campaign, announces Owen Partridge, president of the local board.

Mr. Nichols is now in the process of appointing chairmen for the business, professional and residential divisions, Mr. Partridge reported, and campaign plans shall soon be laid out by them.

The Tecumseh Fund Campaign this year will be different from last year, as Tecumseh campaigns in cooperation with the Lenawee County United Fund.

The major differences:

1. Will not be responsible for soliciting manufacturing firms in Tecumseh, which fall within the jurisdiction of County-wide industrial solicition.

2. Quota for non-industrial solicitation handled by the Tecumseh Community Fund will be set by the County Fund Ouota Committee, which is headed by George Greenn, Jr. of Tecumseh.

Ingredients for 'Smash'

Not even the most optimistic would have dared predict the "smash" Tecumseh's Sidewalk Carnival was going to be.

It truly was a carnival with customers and merchants thoroughly enjoying themselves. Nobody wanted to go home and the walks were jammed from early morning until late Friday night.

The climax came when $100 was given away—but even the non-winners went away happy. They had had a wonderful time.

The friendly feeling was contagious right from the start. Stores were slated to start selling at 9, but many were banging the cash register at 8:30 as they went about the task of setting up merchandise on outdoor display counters.

And the goods were well worth the buying. There were oddles of back-to-school items and what could be timelier? Close-out prices on summer things were just too good to pass up, even if it meant stowing away for eight or nine months before getting to use them.

The Chamber of Commerce retail division, guided capably by executive secretary Don Murphy, sponsored the Carnival. It sprang half a dozen gimmicks which received strong support from the public.

There was a free showing of "Peter Pan" at the Strand with a capacity house of 600 attending. Upon entering the theatre, each small guest received a bag of popcorn, a gift of the Chamber.

Free cotton candy — fashioned with a blue tint — went free to children.

Colorful banners swung gayly over sidewalks on both sides of Chicago Blvd., decorations thoughtfully arranged for by the Chamber some weeks back.

The topper came in the evening when the Chamber awarded $100 in a special contest. As the contest began at 8 p.m. the crowd blocked of half of Chicago Blvd. in front of the bank.

Estimates of people in the downtown area at that time ranged from 1,000 to 2,500. In any case, the place was jammed. Chief George Kilbourn had to keep traffic going in both directions on the south side of the street — at that, it was touch and go until the contest ended.

Of course, the Good Lord provided the real touch — brilliant, sunny skies, along with just enough of a breeze to keep the day from becoming opressively hot.

All added up, the brilliant accomplishment pointed up what can be realized when merchants work together and are willing to give it just that "little extra effort", which actually is the difference between something "ordinary" and a "smash".

You Told Us

BY DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

A long, drawn-out sigh escaped the lips of many Tecumseh mothers Tuesday as they saw the children off to school. It had several meanings.

For many, it was a longing known only to those who have sent the last little tad off to school. For others it was relief since the last few weeks before school convenes it was rather difficult to interest the young folk in much of anything. With a third group it was "there, now I can really get some work done around here."

Though the weather was cool the Labor Day weekend was a busy one for the hometown folks.

The John Hamilton family enjoyed the company of two Irish-born citizens from Toronto, Canada who arrived from County Antrim about two years ago. They were James Greenwood and Graham Dallas who greatly enjoyed a day of sailing Sunday along with Shirley Bloomer of Jackson, who was also a weekend guest in the Hamilton home.

MR. AND MRS. MAX E. McLAURY

Former Tecumseh Resident Is Married in Port Clinton, O.

Carol Ann Amato, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Amato, and Max E. McLaury, son of Mr. and Mr s. Carl McLaury, all of Port Clinton, Ohio, were married in the Immasulate Conception church of that city August 16.

White gladioli and white asters and palms were used to adorn the altar, white satin bows marked the family pews and the traditional white silk aisle runner was laid preceding the entrance of the bride on the arm of her father.

Her gown was fashioned of Schiffli embroidered tulle over silk taffeta with a basque bodice, sweetheart neckline of tulle pin tucks and a softly shirred yoke. It featured a bouffant skirt with a cascade of back ruffles and brush train.

Her finger tip veil of imported silk illusion floated from a dainty Queen Crown, by Vogue, of pleated tulle and lace, highlighted with sprays of pearl and sequin rosettes.

She carried a white prayer book topped with phaleanopsis and stephanotis and she also placed a bouquet of flowers at the feet of the statue of the Blessed Virgin.

THE BRIDE was attended by her sisters, Jeanne and Mary Jo Amato, and Carol Sokoloski and Carol Long, all of Port Clinton.

Richard Kokinda was best man and the guests were seated by James Amato, Richard Ohm and James Mackey.

For their wedding trip to northern Michigan for a week the new Mrs. McLaury changed to a two-piece ensemble in apricot with white accessories.

When they return they will be at home at 227 W. 3rd St. in Port Clinton.

☆

THE BRIDE is a graduate of the Port Clinton High School in 1957, atended the Toledo Mercy School of Nursing and is currently employed as a secretary in her father's firm.

The groom graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1954, worked in the Tecumseh A&P Store and was transferred to Port Clinton in 1955. In 1957 he began working for the Gerner and Wolf Funeral Home in Port Clinton.

The groom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Island House in Port Clinton.

1924 Hoopsters Are Identified by Readers

The gal hoopsters of 1924, pictured in last week's issue, were identified by a number of Tecumseh area people.

They are Marguerite Wilson, E. E. Crampton, superintendent; Genevra Crampton, Corleone Newton, phpsical training teacher; Alice Barber (deceased), Josephine Daisher, Margaret Turner and Velna Crittenden.

The girls had a remarkable record that year of 10 wins and only one loss.

Mrs. Wade Hendershot, Mrs. Ormand Socks and Albert Kolkloesch brought the Senior Echoes yearbooks into the office to identify the group.

North Franklin Feed Families 4-H Maidens

North Franklin Maidens 4-H girls, led by Mrs. Harold Joseph, Mrs. Claude Creger and Mrs. Roger Williams, entertained their families at a dinner in the St. Peter's Episcopal Church August 27.

There were 37 present.

The girls planned the meal, cooked it, set the table, and also helped clean up afterward.

Mary Ellen Williams gave a demonstration on "Making Chocolate Chop Cookies" and Kay Creger demonstrated "Making Raised Bread or Rolls."

The fathers enjoyed this as they seldom have an opportunity to see their girls at work in the kitchen.

Except for exhibiting at the Lenawee County Fair this month, the dinner was the completion of the summer project for the girls.

In October the grls will start sewing for their winter project.

They have been having bake sales and other money making projects, trying to get enough money to buy a sewing machine for the girls to use in their winter project.

Party For Mike

Mike Matteson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wynne Matteson, enjoyed a birthday party honoring his newly attained age of six Tuesday.

Twelve of his friends played games and ate ice cream and cake with him.

For some of the children, it was the first time they had attended a party of this kind alone.

Lois Ann Younglove Weds Glenn Williams

The altar of the First Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh was decorated with assorted gladioli and lighted candelabra Tuesday evening for the wedding of Lois Ann Younglove and Pvt. Glenn Williams.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Younglove of rural Britton and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams, 111 Maumee street.

Rev. Jack Sorensen, pastor of the Britton Bethel Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Organist Mrs. Carl Thomas, played the traditional wedding march and also accompanied Wallace Whiting who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt at the altar.

☆

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father. Her floor-length gown was of nylon jersey and nylon-acetate lace. The bodice, with flattering scalloped sweetheart neckline, was accented with an inset of shirred sheer jersey in front.

The veil of net was held in place by a band of sequins. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a tulle covered white Bible, topped with tiny pink and white rose buds and satin leaves in a shower effect knotted with ivy and roses. The Bible was a gift of the bridegroom.

Sharon Ries of Ridgeway was the bride's only attendant and wore a Nile green ballerina length gown and carried a cascade arrangement of pompons centered with tufts of Nile green and yellow rose buds.

☆

PHILIP STUTESMAN of Tecumseh attended Mr. Williams as best man.

Ushers were Gary Williams, brother of the groom, Jack Clark of Deerfield, and Privates Ronald Wheatley and Thomas Wenzel of Hemlock, Michigan who went through basic training with Pvt. Williams at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a dress of navy with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother also chose a dress of navy with white trim. Each wore a corsage of pink and white pompons.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the Fellowship Center of the church for about 200 people.

Barbara Younglove, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and Jean Thomas, cousin of the groom, had charge of the receiving line.

☆

CENTERING the attractive refreshment table was a large four-tiered cake made by Mrs. Alvin Faust of Britton, a cousin of the bridegroom. Lighted candles were placed on either side of the cake with a picture of the bride on one side and the groom's picture on the other.

When the newly married Pvt. and Mrs. Willlams left on their weding trip, the bride chose a plaid green dress with her bridal bouquet pinned to her shoulder.

When they return the bride will make her home with her parents while Pvt. Williams continues his training at Fort Knox in Kentucky.

The bride is a 1955 graduate of Deerfield High School. Mr. Williams attended Tecumseh High School and was employed at the Tecumseh Products Co. prior to entering the service in June of this year.

Council Monday Is Just Routine

Council handled routine business and reviewed city construction progress at Monday night's meeting.

City manager Ed Nelson reported the extension of S. Maumee St. to Russell Rd. and said the street would be improved to handle Tecumseh Products traffic within a few days.

The city is now improving Adrian St. from Chicago Blvd. to the railroad tracks with a new surface of bituminous concrete.

A public hearing was scheduled for an October meeting for Bert Newman's request to construct a garage to his house. The garage's closeness to property line would not conform with city regulations.

A proposal to erect four-way stop signs at Van Buren and Logan was referred to the city manager.

Nursery School Story

What is a nursery school? What does it teach? Mrs. Leslie Bennett, who will open such a school in the Pink building three miles west of town on M-50, has most of the answers.

She explains it is a daytime group facility with a developmental program for pre-school children three and four-years-old.

The staff must fulfill certain educational requirements and the school itself must be licensed by the State Department of Social Welfare.

An increased amount of knowledge about the needs of young children and the importance of the early years has been a basic reason for the development of nursery schools.

Learning comes through activities that children enjoy and a happy experience can build a positive attitude toward all school.

☆

A TYPICAL MORNING at Mrs. Bennett's school will be:

9 — arrival and morning inspection by the teacher.

9:10 — group and individual play activities such as finger painting, housekeeping corner, etc.; free play period.

9:50 — clean-up time.

10:05 — toilet and wash, followed by snack of crecker or cookie and juice.

10:20 — story time, stories chosen by children (quiet time)

10:30 — group activities such as songs, fingerplays, dancing, rhythms, games, etc.

11 — outside play depending on weather.

11:30 — dismissal.

☆

THE NURSERY school program is flexible and continually adjusts to meet individual and group needs. Special things will be provided for during the year such as trips to see baby lambs in the spring, etc.

There are a few vacancies in both groups for the fall season beginning the week of September 15. The groups meet twice a week and the cost is $22 a semester, plus a $10 registration fee.

A health form is required and parents are asked to help teach approximately four times a semester. Working mothers may obtain a substitute, provided they can teach at least once for their child's sake.

For applications, call Mrs. Bennett, 7052-R.

Classified Ad Keeps Pulling, Even After 'Kill'

When Mrs. Clark Goodacre had a four-room apartment to rent, she decided to put a classified ad in The Herald for three weeks.

It ran once and was immediately rented.

Mrs. Goodacre called to cancel the ad and get a refund. Somehow the "kill" order didn't get to the back shop and it ran a second week.

Good naturedly, she phoned to tell us, adding that already she had 15 answers the second time around.

Moral: When you have something to rent or sell, want an item or service, use a classfield ad — just 60c for 16 words and what pulling power.

GOP Catches It from Governor Speaking Here

As expected, the Republican took a lacing when Gov. G. Mennen Williams spoke at Tecumseh Country Club Thursday, climaxing a day for him in Lenawee County.

The GOP-controlled legislation was branded a "won't do" body.

Backing this up, the bow-tied state executive cited:

1. "Second rate" mental illness bill with excellent suggestions turned down.

2. Farm bill and bill for aged killed by committee.

He told the audiance of 200 the Democrats have a big job inn '58.

Reason: 66 of 83 Michigan counties are GOP "property".

"We must do better than we did in 1956," he cautioned.

The speaker was introduceed by Robert G. Hall, candidate for Congress from the Second District.

During his county junket, Gov. Williams hit Hudson and Adrian before the Tecumseh banquet. From here, he went to Detroit for the opening of the Michigan State Fair Friday.

VA Hospital Requirements Are Released

Eligibility requirements for hospitalization in Veterans' Administration hospitals have been outlined.

VA first takes care of all eligible veterans who need hospitalization for service-connected diseases and disabilities.

The second group includes veterans discharged for disability incurred in line of duty or receiving compensation from VA for disability who need hospitalization for non-service-connected conditions. They may be admitted to VA hospitals when beds are available.

The third group includes war veterans without service-connected conditions who may, under the law, be admitted to VA hospitals if three conditions are met.

First, they must need medical care of a type or extent for which hospitalization is required.

Second, they must certify under oath they are unable to pay for the needed hospitalization elsewhere.

NEW LIGHT — A special operating room light was recently installed in Herrick Memorial Hospital as part of a $6,000 new-equipment project. Herald Gets Bird — Twice

This could be called the second installment of the racing pigeon yarn.

Last week, the story of Bill Becky and his son, Larry, of 703 S. Adrian St., and their championship pigeon loft appeared.

The paper had been out a day when into The Herald office came Mike Blumerick, 108 W. Logan St., and Dick Fielder, 409 W. Pottawatamie St., carrying a pigeon with identification bands on both legs.

The boys had found it walking around Patterson school and wondered what to do with it. A volunteer from the office took it to the Becky home and when he found no one there, slipped the bird into pigeon cage in the garage.

On Saturday, three other youths stopped in with another banded bird. The trio, David Radant, 709 S. Union St., and Johnny and Mike Higgins, 717 S. Union St., explained the bird turnend up at the Tecumseh Acres school grounds.

THE BOYS major problem in getting hold of the bird was keeping Johnny's dog, Skippy, in tow. But it all worked out.

This time Mrs. Becky came over to get the bird, but still wasn't known if it and the one found the day before belonged in their loft.

The mystery was solved when Mr. Becky got home and was able to identify the markings.

Neither was his, one belonging to a Fraser man and the other a resident of Livonia.

Both birds, he said, were not in condition for long flights and probably had come down in Tecumseh during a race, just too tired to make it all the way home.

He planned to feed and rest them a few days, then release the pair.

REALTY VIEWS

"O. K., I'll take it," Jim Lansey said. "We've been dreaming of a home ever since we were married. Now we'll make that dream come true."

We shared in his enthusiasm and arranged for him to submit an application for the necessary loan to complete the purchase.

Jim's joy was short-lived. We were informed that he "couldn't qualify" for the loan. The lender had determined the house payment would be TOO MUCH in view of his other payment obligations.

Since we knew Jim had a fairly good income, we discussed the problem with the lender. Jim was paying $85 a month on a car and that threy his payment load out of balance by $30 per month. Luckily, we were able to refinance his car and cut the payment to $44 per month. That brought his obligations "in line" with his income, with a little margin to spare. Jim's dream came true!

Not all home-buying experiences end so well. Many people are shocked to learn they "can't qualify" for a loan. Naturally, we try to determine this in advance, to avoid disappointment.

Put "HOME" first on your scale of values. Don't get "loaded" with heavy furniture and car payments and then, as an after thought, try to acquire a house. "BUY A HOME — FIRST!"

Artist Tells About Venice

Tecumseh artist Russell Steinke is currently enjoying a vacation in Italy.

He dropped a line to Richard Boyd, bookkeeper at Butler Motor Sales, who passes along these excerpts about his visit to Venice.

"Left Florence, Italy, took from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. by bus to reach Venice. The first half of the trip was through gorgeous steep mountains and the last half was dull and flat.

"All through the trip, Italy was hiddeously clean. Arrived in Venice at early dusk. Everything was gold and purple. The moon was coming on to full and all silver.

"There is a long causeway to drive over to get to Venice, so the approach was lovely.

"When we debused, we had to choose between a gondola (taxi) or a Steamer (bus). We naturally took a gondola. They are just beautiful, light and graceful as a bird, at least 30 feet long.

"We floated down the Grand Canal and never have I been so excited about a place in my life. It is not real actually, but something wonderful trumped up for tourists.

"The buildings are all you expect and much, much more. Its balconies, statues, cupids, plants, flowers and bridges everywhere —everything to delight the eye.

"When you come to Italy you will learn to love geraniums. They are everywhere, also cosmos, zinnias, marigolds, golden-glow and nasturtiums.

"The streets are unbelievable narow and tangled. You can scarcely ever see more than a block ahead. The main intersection of Venice is St. Mark's Square, which is huge and a moon shining brightly on hundreds of people, listening to a concert orchestra playing 'Rigeletto.'

"Like Robert Browning, 'I want to die in Venice,' only later, perhaps.

RUSSELL STEINKE . . . . in St. Mark Square

"In the morning I was awakened by singing, so I raced to my window and here was a gondola floating by with a gondolier singing an Italian popular song.

"Shops are fabulous, and they, as well as styles, are so far ahead of the American. All clothes are beautiful, there are tons of jewels everywhere and everywhere you go there is glassware that is out of this world."

Mr. Motorist: School Bus Law Is Altered

Michigan's new school bus law requiring motorists to stop when meeting as well as overtaking a school bus stopped to receive or discharge passengers will become effective September 13.

So reminds Sgt. Carl Anderson of the Clinton post of the Michigan State Police.

The old law required stopping only from the rear. The new law now conforms with all states but Utah in requiring stops from both ways.

The law does not apply in incorporated villages and cities, but stopping can be required by local ordinance if there are signs informing motorists of the regulation.

"Stops must be made at least 10 feet in front of or from the rear of a stopped bus and motorists may not proceed until the school bus resumes motion, or the the school bus driver signals other drivers ot proceed, or visual lights on the bus are no longer actuated," said Sgt. Anderson.

☆

"THERE ARE two exemptions to the rule. Stops are not required at intersections controlled by a stop-and-go signal or a police officer. But in this case drivers may not pass a bus at a speed greater than 10 miles per hour and then with due caution. Cars traveling on the opposite side of a divided highway are not required to stop when meeting a school bus."

When a school bus is about to stop or is stopped to receive or discharge school children, the bus driver is required to give notice by operating flashing red lights at the front and rear of the bus.

Sgt. Anderson warned, however, that motorists are still required to stop even though the red lights may not be operating.

Now's the time for you to get full HOUSEPOWER
TRADE MARK

Do you have low HOUSEPOWER—not enough wiring, outlets and switches? The chances are 4 out of 5 that you do.

Here's why: The average home today uses 3 times as much electricity as it did 15 years ago. Modern, labor-saving electric appliances just can't run at full efficiency unless they get the current they need.

How's your HOUSEPOWER?
Noticed any of these low HOUSEPOWER signs in your home?
- Appliances slow heating up—pokey toaster, sluggish vacuum cleaner, lazy washing machine?
- Flickering TV picture or dimming lights when refrigerator or another appliance starts?
- Fuses blow from time to time?
- Octopus outlets or ugly extension cords?

HOUSEPOWER as advertised in Reader's Digest

Hear the HOUSEPOWER story on NBC Radio—Tune in MONITOR weekends of Sept. 6 and 13

Get a HOUSEPOWER Rating now. Find out what appliances your home's wiring system can carry . . . and what wiring you need to operate the appliances you want to add.

MEDICINE CHEST
"LEFTOVERS"

There's but one good place in the home for "leftovers." That's the refrigerator—and the "leftovers" should be foods, not medicines.

Medicine chest "leftovers" are risky at best, and often downright dangerous. The medicine your physician prescribed a year or so ago was intended to be used then, not now. Avoid serious danger—dump old medicine at once.

Each illness requires scientific diagnosis — and, usually, specialized medicine is indicated.

See your physician. Let him decide what's best. Call on us to provide your medication.

7,000 MILE FLIGHT — Peter Gluckman, at left, was in Tecumseh last week to purchase a Meyers 200 for a world-record flight from Tokyo to New York City. Here he chats with Joe LeFeuve, Meyers sales and promotion manager, about the junket. For details, please see The Long and Short of It.

THE Long & Short OF IT

By TOM RIORDAN

SINGLE-ENGINE AVIATION history may soon be in the making with Tecumseh playing a vital part.

Meyers Aircraft had a visitor last week, Peter Gluckman, "the flying watchmaker from San Francisco."

The 32-year-old Mr. Gluckman, who plies the jewelry trade 10 months out of the year and flies the other two, wanted to take a look at a Meyers 200.

He had heard that Al Meyers was one of the finest airplane designers in the business. When it came time to get a new ship, he decided to see Al.

Setting down here last Thursday from California in his Beechcraft Bonanza, the amiable Peter was talking airplane from the moment his feet hit the Meyers runway.

Joe LeFeuve, promotion and sales manager for Meyers, pumped the guest with questions about his recent 25,000-mile flight written about in Flying Magazine.

This junket took him over the Polar cap, into South America, across the Atlantic to Africa, up to England.

The hop scored a single-engine world record for Peter, but his history-making apparently isn't going to stop there.

Peter was sold on the Meyers 200 and placed his order.

Then he told Al and Joe about the trip he intends to make in the Tecumseh ship.

Not having crossed the entire Pacific—although he has hopped to the Hawaiian Islands—he'll start with a flight to Japan.

Taking on 600 gallons of gasoline in Tokyo, Peter will start a 50-hour, non-stop jump to New York City ,a distance of 7,000 miles.

This has never been attempted before in a one-engine ship.

The fuel alone will weigh 3,600 pounds, which is equal to the entire ship's poundage.

An Air Force B-52 is the only craft ever to have flown such a distance without refueling.

Delivery of the 200 to Gluckman is expected in the latter part of the year, then begins a series of shake-down cruises.

April has been selected as the time for the Tokyo-to-NYC jaunt.

If everything proceeds according to plan, Mr. Gluckman and the Tecumseh-built Meyers 200 will be big news, all over the world.

Here's the best of luck to everybody taking part in this exciting project.

LAST WEEK WE WROTE about the thoughtfulness of a Tecumseh school bus driver in dropping around to meet her "customers."

Well, it seems, this is the policy with all the folks performing these duties.

So, we'd also like to pay tribute to:

Fay Kempf
Mrs. Clifford Adams
Red Hand
Jack Hallenbeck
Stan Rentschler
Harold "Mike" Anderson
Bert Wade
Morris Evans
Ron Henkel
Harold Kempf
Mitch Mobley

Incidentally, Fay Kempf has been driving school busses for 13 years, just topping Mrs. Adams who has 11 to her credit.

Mr. Farmer: 16-Year Olds Cannot Work

With the opening of schools, farmers were reminded today that the Fair Labor Standards Act prohibits the employment of children under 16-years of age on farms during school hours.

The reminder came from William S. Singley, Regional Director of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division, the agency which administers the law.

"The Federal child-labor law is designed to keep children under 16 off the farm and thereby permit them to continue their schooling," Singley said. He pointed out that the law applies to both local youngsters and children of migratory workers.

The only exception to the law, Singley said, is for the farmer's own child working on his parents' farm.

"Children under 16 may lawfully work on farms before and after school hours and on weekends or holidays," Singley added, "but stiff penalties for willful violations can make the employment of children during school hours expensive."

Mr. Singley also stated that farmers can protect themselves from unintentional violation by requiring an age certificate from youngsters to make sure they are old enough for the job. These certificates may be obtained from the local school authorities in each county.

Musical Comedy Hit on Stage Saturday

The old Bradley Opera House —now the Strand Theatre—will experience some nostalgia Saturday night.

After many years, the historic stage will once more feel the vibrating feet of a "live" show.

A musical comedy, "The Boy Friend," will bring back memories of "golden days" when the Marx Brothers cavorted before Tecumseh audiences, when Broadway stars Beatrice Knowles and Charley Grapewin played here.

Being sponsored by the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the production is by the Clark Lake Players with curtain time at 8:30.

Tickets are on sale at a booth in front of the D & C store and are also available at the Strand box office. Prices range from $1.50 to $2.

The Clark Lake Players have staged "The Boy Friend" to packed houses nine nights at their summer theatre in what was their top effort of the season.

The Players are stage-struck amateurs with professional talents from the Jackson area. The Tecumseh appearance will be their first "road" assignment and the cast of 30 is eagerly looking forward to it.

There are some fascinating stories about members of the group and here are a few:

☆

BROOKE BANDFIELD plays Polly, the lead and same role she played with the Toledo Repertoire Players. Brooke will be in Albion College this fall.

BOB WALDO, technical director, plays the role of Tomy, opposite Polly. He is the technical director at the U. of M. University Theatre this fall while working on his Masters Degree in theatrical arts. He has had the lead in many musicals in Oregon; namely, Oklahoma, The Hasty Heart, H.M.S. Pinafore, etc.

HAROLD ROSIER portrays a mischievous old man and has many years of vaudeville experience. He was with the Henderson Stock Company, The Slout Players, Kelly Stock Company, and the Little Theatre of Bradenton. He was also with the Passion Players of Mexico.

JACKIE BIXLER does the choreography for the group. She is director of the Jackson Dance Academy. Jackie was born in England, and has lived in this country since 1945. She appeared in "Up in Central Park," and in Bert Lahr's "Burlesque in Summer Stock." She plays the part of one of the perfect young ladies in The Boy Friend.

BETTY JEANNE REYNOLDS, another perfect young lady, is another former professional, having appeared with the Four Freshmen, Julius LaRosa, and her own group known as the Daytones.

WILLIAM McANALLEN, the Clark Lake Players director, was a college professor of theatre arts in Portland, Oregon, for the past three years. He has spent his summers at Clark Lake for the theatre season, casting and directing the Players. This Fall he plans to spend some time in New York ,then on to Florida where he will be associated with the Palmtree Playhouse in Sarasota.

PERT POLLY — Playing the role of "The Boy Friend" heroine Polly Browne is 19-year-old Brooke Bandfield of Toledo. Brooke, who has a lovely singing voice, will enter Albion College as a freshman this fall.

Band Festival Is Unique Event

(Editor's note: Clare Camburn, author of this article, one-time Tecumseh High School band director, is the father of the Band Festival idea. With the help of Rev. Blair Bashore, the annual fall event has developed into one of Lenawee County's finest evenings entertainment. This year, th Chamber of Commerce will also lend its support.)

By CLARE CAMBURN

"God Bless America." Yes, God bless our own dear country.

While the golden haze of fall, sweet-scented by the incense of burning autumn leaves, hovers over all the land, 600 bright, trimly uniformed youngsters will tuck their band instruments under their arms and converge upon Tecumseh the night of October 7.

Under the capable direction of their leaders they will show, by means of bright and descriptive band music, their faith in the land of our forefathers.

It is time once more, the 12th time, that the spectacle known as the Tecumseh Band Festival will be presented to the public.

☆

SOMEWHAT UNIQUE in character, this Festival has grown through the years from a small beginning with four bands until now it includes every high school unit in Lenawee County.

This year, a year of great stress and many problems, the theme of the spectacle is "God Bless America."

The youthful musicians will depict in music and formations some of the time-honored historical happenings and traditions that America has lived and grown upon.

A few of these subjects are here briefly described.

☆

FOR INSTANCE, one band will develop its formation and music around the theme of the famous old Liberty Bell, which, as we know, rang out boldly shortly after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Another band will feature the Freeing of the Slaves.

That blessed institution, the Churches of America, becomes the foundation for the work of still another and, it is said, the bells of the Tecumseh Episcopal Church will peal out into the night during this part of the presentation.

School Days will be the warm and well-remembered subject for another group of musicians. There are many more themes in this continued story of the glory that has been, and still is, our United States of America.

☆

BEST OF ALL, in the hard work and devotion of these youngsters and their leaders to the theme, "God Bless America," back of it all.

For the future of our dear country lies in the hands of just such clean-cut American girls and boys.

Best of all, we say, is the conviction that God will bless them. We think it is true that this devotion ot the good and worthwhile things constitutes the last great bulwark between our land and the evils that threaten us.

The finale of the Festival will be the playing by the massed band, of the classic, "Your A Grand Old Flag," followed by the Star Spangled Banner.

School Board Picks Voting Delegate

Aden Mead, vice-president of the Tecumseh School Board, was selected to represent the local school body as its voting delegate to the Lenawee County Association of School Boards.

The association was formed last year to discuss educational problems and policies, especially finance, on the county level.

Supt. James McDowell reported to the board Monday night that four teachers have achieved degrees during the past summer and the sale of two school buildings.

☆

ELEMENTARY teachers Mrs. Mrs. Geraldine Beal, Mrs. Doris Jones and Mrs. LaVon Renfro have received their degrees, and Dermont Poley in the junior high has received his Master's Degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson purchased the Franklin Center School, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Platt bought the Paragon School.

☆

TUITION rates for students increased slightly over 10 percent this year. Elementary rates were hiked from $124.95 to $142.44, and secondary students must now pay $154.07, compared to $135.97.

Supt. McDowell says the increase is about average for the past few years. Rising costs account for the increases.

The board handled other routine business at the meeting.

Boysville School Dedication Sunday

Boysville's new $210,000 classroom building will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 3:30 by Edward Cardinal Mooney, bishop of the Detroit Archdiocese.

The general public is invited to attend the ceremony.

Composed of 12 rooms, the structure features a science laboratory, library and large study hall in addition to nine rooms.

It was made possible by donations of Michigan businessmen interested in the school at Macon for young men from broken homes. The Knights of Columbus handles the yearly operating expense of $125,000.

Taught by the Brothers of University, South Bend, Indiana, Boysville, in its 11th year, is fully accredited by the University of Michigan. Its seven graduation classes have contained a total of 100 boys.

At present there are 150 students at Boysville with a faculty of 15 brothers and a chaplain, Fr. Edgar Szymanski.

Assisting Cardinal Mooney will be Fr. Vincent Horkan, superintendent of Detroit Archdiocese schools; Fr. Thomas J. Collins, pastor of St. Elizabeth's in Tecumseh; Fr. Edward Kalinowski, pastor of St. Dominic's in Clinton; and Fr. James Frawley, chaplain of St. Joseph's Academy in Adrian.

Plan Coffee Hour

Interested Tecumseh Republicans will meet at a coffee hour at Don's Grill, next Wednesday evening at 8:30.

Charles O. Butler, local car dealer, will attend the 37th annual Michigan Automobile Dealers Association Convention at Grand Rapids, Sunday through Tuesday.

Mr. Butler, past president of the association, will preside at a panel discussion and at the meeting to nominate officers for next year.

Phone Company Installing Cable to Subdivision

General Telephone Company is spending $13,030 to meet the demands for telephone service in the urban areas of Tecumseh, announces District Manager O. W. Beagle.

He explained that with the installation of a mile of cable, residents in two new subdivisions, Sunset Meadows and Indian Hills, will be able to have telephone service.

"Also to be installed is 2,300 feet of feeder cable along West Pottawatamie Street, beginning at Adrian Street," says Mr. Beagle. "This will allow additional phones to be served from the expanded facilities."

"Dami" is Top Feline

Seal Point Siamese Female Cat —Age 1½ years—Owned by Mrs. Garth (Jean D.) Hall, 406 N. Union, Tecumseh, Mich. won honors in 14 classifications at the Annual Championship Show, Greater Detroit Cat Club A. C. A. September 6 and 7, 1958 Wolverine Hotel, Detroit, Mich.

"Dami" purchased as a kitten from Siama cattery, Farmington, Mich. has not previously been shown. It was the first shown entry for Mrs. Hall and was in competition with over 60 other Siamese cats from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsyvania, Illinois, and Canada.

"Dami's" name came from that of a princess in Indian Literature from the Far East. Names usually carry the suffix of the cattery name of the breeder and the cattery name of new owner is added as suffix. No more names can be added regardless of transfer of ownership.

Also in the show was Triple Grand Champion "Dalai Jakki" owned by Virginia Daly of Detroit, Mich. Pictures by "Muzzie," pet photographer at most cat shows were taken of "Dami."

"Dami" had been entered in the show and Mr. and Mrs. Hall left home Saturday morning with the intention of leaving "Dami" at the hotel with show manager, Ula Roger then planned to stop in Detroit for stock for their "Indian Acres Aquarium Shop", but Mr. Hall was so intriged by the atmosphere that they spent the entire day at the show and returned Sunday for the all breed show. The Hall's have had siamese cats in their home for some time. Three years ago a complete aquarium set-up was traded for a siamese dam and her 4 kittens owned by U. R. Bovee' of Adrian, Mich. Since that time the siamese cats come and go, many leave as pets. There are several in Tecumseh.

Mrs. Margaret Kempf is the owner of "Mei Tu" from the first litter. "Blue Bell", his sister, is now in Petersburg, who recently had kittens by a sire owned by Mrs. Hall.

At the time of their accounting, the Halls have 3 siamese studs, 3 siamese queens, and assorted kittens.

Mrs. Hall also owns "Medicine Lake Pryns of Dalai", the sire of the cat who was best opposite sex siamese specialty show.

Siamese look like no other cat because of the contrast of colors the points, mask, ears, feet, and tail always being a darker tone than the body and they are now being bred in 7 colors, seal point, tortie point, red point, blue point, chocolate point, frost point, and lilac point. The Halls have some of each except the lilac. One in particular is "Madali Saeng Doa of Neja" who is best known for his wonderful disposition. His sire was imported from England.

The children of the Hall's, Karen is 16, Barry is 13, Kathy Joye is 9, and even Marc 16 months old like the siamese almost as well as their parents, but have learned not to become too attached to them because all cannot be kept. But "Dami" and the first seal point queen "Ching" just have to stay.

Mrs. Hall says of her experience at the cat show:

"It was all very nice but I will be far more pleased when I "breed" siamese who can win honors at a later date. In the mean time I'm meeting a lot of nice people and enjoy raising siamese cats. The entire family are very proud of "Dami" but feel very humble beside the many greats, both people and cats we have had the privilege to meet. You know I really don't go for cats — but siamese, they are different."

Kiwanis Kids' Day Coming Sept. 27

Kids' Day, sponsored by Kiwanis International, will be celebrated Saturday, September 27, in Tecumseh and in hundreds of other communities throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii.

This year's theme will be "Boys and Girls—Our Greatest Resource."

"Preliminary plans for local activity are now being formulated by the committee in charge," Dick said.

He named Dr. George Burkhard as chairman and Jim Mull, Doug Maves and Don Judd as members of the committee. All members of the Kiwanis Club will share in the project.

Dick pointed out that youth work has been a major aim of Kiwanis International throughout 42 years of its existance.

The Kids' Day program, one of Kiwanis' major activities for youth, focuses attention on this important work of the organization on one day, and permits each club to develop a local program best suited to its community while integrating it with the club's year-round program for youth.

Mr. Hicks pointed out the Kiwanis club's Little League Baseball Team and help to the Teenage Club to show how Kiwanis uses locally collected funds to benefit the entire community.

With Tecumseh Teens

BY MARY V. SEAGER

School opened for the Tecumseh teenagers on Tuesday, Sept. 2 at 7:51 a.m. Even with the junior high pupils gone, there still seemed to be a big crowd of kids paying book fees and getting their schedule cards.

A lot of new students came to Tecumseh this year and made up for the missing junior high. It's nice to have only one or two people in a locker.

As the new cafeteria and other additions are not yet completed, the home ec classes are held in different rooms. Students not going home for lunch must eat downtown until the cafeteria is finished, some time in October. The old cafeteria is now being used by the chorus.

There are three new teachers this year. Duncan Leckta, the new head football coach, who also teachs Citizenship. The assistant football coach, Mike Rotunno, teaches American History, and the third new teacher, James Summers, teaches math.

Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 everyone returned to school for an hour and a half of orientation in their first hour classes. At this time the revised editions of the Tecumseh handbook, "Indian Lore," were read and new rules explained to all pupils.

This year the thirty-six weeks are divided into four nine-week periods, instead of six six-week periods.

Report cards will be given out at mid-semester and at the end of the semester, making four times a year.

Replacing six-week tests will be the mid-semester and semester tests which will both be run identically. The tests will be two hours long and regular classes will not be held during the testing period.

The library and study hall have been remodeled and the combined rooms are now called the library. A study hall is also held downnstairs.

As of September 1959, Tecumseh High will be competing in the Huron Valley League. The members of the new league will be: Airport Community High School, Blissfield High, Dundee High, Flat Rock High, Grosse Ile High, Milan High, and Ypsilanti Lincoln High School.

This fall a cross-country team has been started. This varsity sport is something that has been added this year.

Class meetings were held Tuesday during the second hour to elect class officers and six student council representatives.

After the election of student council members, there will be a student council meeting Thursday to make plans for the year and elect a secretary and treasurer.

Many of the clubs also have held brief meetings this week. The G.A.A. officers met Monday after school as did the F.F.A. Tuesday after school there was a short Future Nurses meeting.

In preparation for our first football game with Hudson on the 19th of September, the cheerleaders have been practicing hard.

The cheerleaders this year are Suzie Rohweder, Donna Nixon, Mary Colgrove, Kendra Ringman, Jeanie Hohenstein, Carol Spangler, and Susie Owen. With their great work under the direction of Carol Scheffer, school spirit should be really high this year.

The dance that had been planned for Friday the 5th at the Teen Club was not held because the re-varnishing of the floor wasn't finished in time. The Club looks really sharp now as it has been completely painted.

The credit for the decorating ideas used in the big room goes to architect Jim Smith whose help was greatly needed and appreciated.

There will be a dance at the Teen Club Friday night from nine until 12 to celebrate the remodeling. A good turnout is expected. Everyone is welcome.

Scout Meeting

An organizational meeting for all parents of Cub Scout Pack 4 will be held Tuesday at the Union Hall at 7:30 p.m.

If Pack leaders and committeemen are not available there will be no cubbing program.

Rolling Home

Products Man Builds a Beauty

A 13-year veteran of Tecumseh Products Co. service department, Earl J. Shorthouse of Adrian, is a fellow who enjoys the out-of-doors.

While traveling, he wants all the comforts of home.

This desire prompted Earl to build himself and his family a rolling residence.

It's mounted on the back of a three-quarter ton Ford truck and is complete in every degree.

There's a 20-gallon tank of water.

Bottled gas provides fuel for his two-burner range and the heater. It also keeps the refrigerator operating. And if necessary, can provide lights.

The "home" also has an electrical circuit for use in areas where this service is available and Earl can plug in.

For sleeping, there are two bunks, which Earl and his wife, Dorothea, use. Their 15-year-old daughter, Susie, has an air mattress which is placed on the floor between the beds.

Earl started his project last October and by spending most of his spare hours on it, had the rolling home ready for use in June.

Since then, the Shorthouse family has covered 1,000 miles on various hunting and fishing junkets. They stayed mostly at state parks.

The living area measures 10 x 7 feet and is six feet high. It is finished outside in aluminum and inside with plywood.

Materials cost $700.

Bigger, But Still Slow, Is Tecumseh Football Story

Local Tecumseh football fans will have to wait another week to see their Indians in action, but what they'll see is better size, but about the same speed as last year.

Overall size of the Indians this fall is one grid factor in their favor, along with some valuable experience gained by several key players in previous seasons.

Equally important, and missing, is team speed, a weakness which new head mentor Duncan Leckta cites as the squad's greatest weakness.

Returning lettermen have given the new coach a good nucleus for a starting eleven.

Bob O'Neill is a cinch to start at left end, Jim Neitling at one of the tackle spots, Jim Curth and Dave Champanois at guards, and Mike Walters at left half.

Other lettermen with battles on their hands include 253-pound Bob Wilkins at center, and backfield men Larry Yoakum, Ron Johnson, Dave Weakly and John Aho.

Yoakum and Weakly are currently fighting it out for quarterback. Weakly is also being groomed for right half and could easily start there against Hudson next week in the season's opener.

Lee Britton and Wilkins are about even for the center spot in the coach's opinion. Dave Hohenstein has an edge now for a starting tackle berth.

Dan Cisco, top ranking newcomer from Hudson, holds down the fullback spot, but may be moved to end. Coach Leckta says the move will be made if his 208 pounds proves to be more valuable on the line, where he played last year. He's already nabbed an end spot on defense.

Others making themselves known at practice include Tom O'Neill, Graham Morton, Terry Hendricks, Greg Mason, Carl Schmidt, Paul Surratt, George Milosh, Ron Hathaway, Dick Horvath, Jerry Irelan, Dave Withrow, Leslie DeJonghe, Jerry Munger and Tom Walter.

There are 75 working out and Coach Leckta reports many others are still in contention for the varsity, especially on the line where replacements are thin, notably at guard and tackle positions.

The Indians will employ a multiple offense from an unbalanced line. Passing, a favorite in the offense of the new coach, may play only a minor role in the Tecumseh attack unless present eratic throwing shows decided improvement.

WSCS Makes Plans

The WSCS met at the Methodist Church last Wednesday evening with 52 members and one guest, Mrs. Leo Erhart, in attendance.

Plans were made for the coming year and an all church rummage sale was announced for October 3 and 4. Mrs. Owen Partridge will be chairman.

Refreshments for the migrant workers were discussed. Anyone wishing to assist with the recreation program for that evening may contact Mrs. Fred Nash.

Announcement was made of the School of Churchmanship to be held in Adrian beginning September 23 and running for six consecutive weeks. Sessions will begin at 7:30 p.m. Anyone wishing transportation may call the parsonage. Mrs. Harold Rohrback from Blissfield will be in charge.

The Clinton WSCS has invited the local group to attend an evening meeting October 7 when Mrs. Fred Nieman from Ypsilanti will speak and show colored slides of her native Alaska.

Mrs. James Nixon had charge of the devotions with Mrs. Leslie Bennett singing a solo.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Green, Sr., Mrs. Arthur Woodyard, Mrs. Raymond Seitz and Mrs. Leo Erhart.

BRIGHT SPOT — In Saturday's scrimmage, Dave Weakly went for a touchdown on this play. Dave is white-helmeted player looking toward camera, faking handoff to his fullback, Dan Cisco. From here, he skirted right end for a score. Coach Duncan Leckta says his club will be big — but slow.

ANOTHER IN AREA CHURCH SERIES

Baptists Organize Here in 1839

"On the 9th day of February in the year of our Lord 1839, a few Christians of the Baptist denomination assembled in the Presbyterian Session House in Tecumseh, for the purpose of deciding as to the expediency of organizing a Baptist church.

"After prayerful consideration, they decided to form a conference preparatory to calling a council. At this meeting Bros. Felix Holdridge and Isaac Adams were appointed a committee to procure a covenant and articles of faith."

Thus wrote the aforesaid Deacon Isaac Adams 35 years later. The picture he drew was a rather grim one.

The group numbered only about 15, several of whom were dissident members of a church at Clinton who soon returned to their earlier affiliation.

They were, according to the worthy Deacon, "destitute of both pecuniary resources and influence ,as they were the fourth denomination to be organized in the village.

☆

TECUMSEH SETTLEMENT had been in existence less than 15 years at that time and had been an incorporated village for only two years. Very few of the settlers had "cash money" and this group was not among that few.

They did have faith, however, for at a council called April 10, 1839, the Tecumseh Baptist church was formally organized. Seven neighboring churches: Brooklyn, Adrian, Rome, Manchester, Mooreville, Franklin and Saline sent their pastors to compose the council. Twenty-eight members signed the covenant adopted that day.

Meetings at first were held in homes and in the school room of the "Academical School" rented from Perly Bills, but almost at once plans were made for a church home.

By 1841 they had erected a frame building, 26 by 36 feet in size and located on the southeast corner of Pearl and Logan streets. Seats were slab and plank benches and for the first winter it was unheated.

Deacon Adams says the sisters did not attend regularly, but that the brothers were "warmed by Divine Grace." In 1843 the building was moved to the east side of Ottawa street between Chicago and Logan and was enlarged and more adequately furnished.

☆

FOR NEARLY three years the church had no official pastor. The elders conducted services and, when he could make the trip, the Rev. J. I. Fulton, pastor of the Brooklyn church, preached.

In recognition of his help the congregation painfully collected $10 to buy him cloth for a coat which he badly needed.

The first regular pastor, the Rev. L. H. Moore, was hired in 1842 at a yearly salary of $300, of which $100 was supplied by the Baptist State Convention of New York.

The next 20 years were a constant struggle to keep going. Nine pastors served varying terms, several being forced to resign because of lack of funds.

At one time a proposal to disband the church was actually considered.

By 1862, however, the situation began to improve. Reflecting the increased prosperity of the town, due to profits from Civil War wheat and wool, and under the leadership of the Rev. J. L. McCloud the church prospered.

Spurred by the enthusiasm of Dr. I. S. Hamilton, one of the town's dynamic personalities, the congregation began plans for a new and larger church.

The result was the sanctuary of the present building, completed in 1865 at a cost of $8,500, the final $1,000 of which was contributed the day of the dedication.

In 1870 the chapel structure was added, to be enlarged and remodeled in 1884, and in 1872 a parsonage was purchased.

☆

THE INCORPORATION of the church in 1882, under a new Michigan law was almost the only event of historical importance during the more than half century which followed.

Like the town, whose economy and population had become stabilized by the needs of a prosperous agricultural community, the church knew few changes save in the persons of its pastors.

Of these the Rev. Dr. W. B. Hartzog served from 1909 to 1918, the longest pastorate of any up to that time. There have been six ministers since that time; the Revs. Curtis, Buell, Jackson, Vreeland, Robinson and the present incumbent, the Rev. Blair Bashore, who has been pastor since 1943.

☆

DURING THE last five years the church has built a Christian Education building which provides adequate banquet space with a fellowship room as well as church school rooms and two offices. The sanctuary has also been remodeled and refurbished.

A new baptistry with dressing rooms and a choir room were added beneath the sanctuary at the time of the remodeling.

The church has been broadcasting special music and the sermon over station WABJ for the past 12 years each Sunday morning from 11:30 to 12 noon.

Rev. Bashore says, "We are looking forward to the continued blessing of God in the ever widening ministry of the First Baptist Church of Tecumseh."

Along with the steady growth of the church here, the North Rome church as also made steady progress under the ministry of Rev. Bashore and his wife. It is located northwest of Onsted and services are held each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday School immediately following.

Posters Remind Drivers

A reminder that Michigan's new school bus law goes into effect on September 13, was issued today by Bayard A. Clark.

Clark is president of the Michigan Safety Conference and Automobile Club of Michigan assitant safety and traffic director.

Clark said the new law passed by the Michigan Legislature requires drivers to stop in both directions for buses that are receiving or discharging school children.

Heretofore, drivers only needed to stop to the rear of the bus. Now they must stop when approaching head on, as well. The new Michigan law now conforms with school bus regulations in most other states.

The law also states that drivers must stop a minimum of 10 feet from a school bus. The car must remain at a standstill until the bus resumes motion or the driver signals for traffic to proceed or the flashing red lights on the bus stop operating.

The state highway department will implement the law by posting along highways the signs "STOP FOR SCHOOL BUS LOADING OR UNLOADING."

Auto Club has prepared and circulated 10,000 copies of an informational poster that Clark is shown holding. The posters will be displayed at gasoline stations, schools and public buildings to remind Michigan motorists of the new law.

Women Attend Church Session

Mrs. Norman McConnell, Mrs. Ben Antrobus, Mrs. B. O. Bashore, with Mrs. Earl Kimball and Mrs. Water Boggs of the North Rome Church attended the officers meeting of the Baptist Women of Lenawee and Monroe Association.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Kingsbury in Temperance and plans for the fall work were formulated as well as details for the Fall Conference to be held in Morenci October 6.

Water Important for New Lawns

Water is an important need of that new lawn you just seeded.

Soils specialists at Michigan State University say the most important step in caring for a newly-seeded lawn is to make certain that the surface layer of the soil, in which the seed is embedded, always contains enough moisture to keep the little seedlings alive after the seeds germinate.

Water the lawn as often as is necessary to keep the surface moist, using a fine spray to avoid washing the soil. You may have to sprinkle the new seeding two or three times daily.

After the grass is about one inch tall, you can water the lawn by soaking the soil to a depth of four to five inches and then allowing it to dry until the grass shows signs of wilting.

Begin mowing the lawn as soon as the grass is three inches tall. A sharp mower is essential for cutting new seedlings. Set the cutter bar to cut a height of two inches and maintain the grass at this height.

"ALL DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS IN WAR"

When an invading germ or virus attacks your body in war begins. If your body senses that it is losing, it asks help. You may become unusually tired, have persistent pains or other troublesome symptoms.

Any delay can make the battle hard to win. Home remedies, that only treat symptoms, may mask the illness to gain a strong hold. The best way to win your war against sickness is to go to your physician at the first sign of trouble. Let him diagnose the cause and prescribe the proper treatment.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

She's Got Dad's "Number"

Dad Fowler and his Mrs. are about to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary—so I asked them if there's any "secret" to this kind of wedded bliss.

"Oh we've had our arguments," said Dad, "but for fifty years I made it a point to count to fourteen before any argument could turn into a real quarrel. Fourteen — because that's exactly the amount of money I had the day we were married."

"From now on," smiled Mrs. Fowler, "you better count to twelve. The two dollars for the marriage license was mine."

From where I sit, we all need some kind of formula for getting along with each other. The best one I know is "tolerance" — the business of live and let live. It has to do with little things, too, like your preference for tea, and mine for beer. Let's count to ten, twelve or fourteen —and never let our differences turn into quarrels.

Ray Miller Takes Navy Boot Training

GREAT LAKES, Ill.—Raymond T. Miller, son of Mrs. Opal C. MacKenzie of 109 S. Union St., graduated from recruit training Aug. 30 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp," included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

REALTY VIEWS

"I've been left with a home here" said Mrs. Brooks who formerly resided in Tecumseh. "My folks passed away and their home is part of the estate. Can you sell it for me?"

"We'll sure try," I replied.

As I was inspecting the home Mrs. Brooks said, "A few people have asked me about the house. But I didn't give them a price. My husband and I have owned several properties and we learned from experience that the best course is to turn the selling job over to a Realtor."

"It leads to a more pleasant sale," Mrs. Brooks continued. "On the other hand, when an owner makes a statement about the property, the prospect nods his head and says to himself, 'Sure, he has to puff up the place'. But a Realtor's statements are not greeted as skeptically. And, if you try selling it yourself, people always want something extra thrown in."

"Like I say," Mrs. Brooks concluded, "We honestly wouldn't consider handling the sale any other way than through a Realtor."

Naturally, after such confidence and cooperation, we sold the home for Mrs. Brooks.

Benefit by her experience. Put us to work selling YOUR property too!

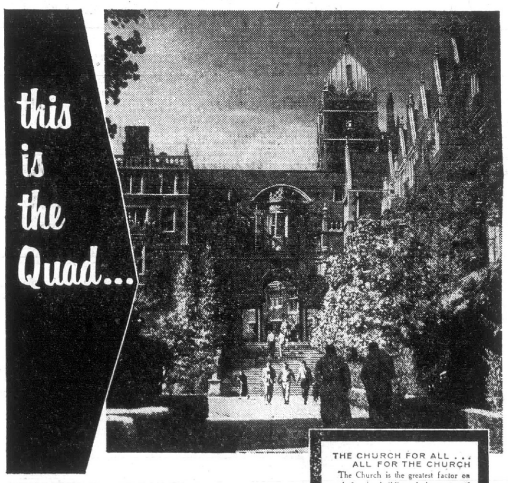
FOR ALL WE HOLD SACRED
. . . ATTEND CHURCH !



The Quadrangle at the University of Pennsylvania . . . here live hundreds of freshmen from towns and cities all over America. For many it is their first great venture into the world of responsibility and temptation. It is a crucial year . . . and they live it in a community all their own, surrounded by the teeming millions of a great city!

An important part of their life is the Christian Association, augmenting the programs of the campus churches. There are wholesome social activities, challenging discussion groups, services of worship, opportunities for community service.

Here, at on almost every college campus, the Church is on the job. Its specially-trained leaders are guiding our sons and daughters in their adjustment to college life and the complicated world of opportunity and danger.

Are you helping the Church in its far-reaching ministry? Are you providing the religious home life and church-centered spiritual training that a boy and girl need BEFORE THEY GO OUT INTO THE WORLD?

Copyright 1958, Keister Adv. Service, Strasburg, Va.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Injured Boy Gets Help Fast

"Its just wonderful to be a human being when there are so many other wonderful human beings in the world."

These are the grateful words of Mrs. Milton Meyer of 704 S. Union St. as she tells of the kindness of a road crew to her son, Mark, who was thrown from his bicycle and hurt Saturday.

Seven-year-old Mark was riding on S. Adrian St. when he struck a hole in the surface of the street and was thrown from the bicycle.

His companions were trying to pull the unconscious youth from the road when Don Boling of Adrian ran to assist them.

He and two Tecumsehites, Claude and Dwight Helms, met Mrs. Meyer and they took the accident victim to the Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Happily when the blood was washed away and consciousness had returned, Mark seemed to be pretty much all right except that it required two stitches to close the wound in his head.

Don Boling, a 17-year-old senior of Adrian High School, is to be commended for his assistance to the little boy since the injury could have been much more serious.

'Any Deer' Permits Will Be Available End of September

LANSING — Hunters will be able to apply soon for special permits to take "any deer" in 37 food shortage and crop damage areas of northern Michigan during the coming November 15-30 firearm deer season.

This means that 55,601 permits will be available to hunters as quickly as the permits and special area information sheets can be printed and distributed to the state's 4,200 license dealers.

Most dealers will have the permits by the last two weeks of September. Deadline for hunters to apply is October 10.

A total of 17,033 permits will be available in 12 upper peninsula areas covering 3,582 square miles. Permit holders in these areas will be able to take any deer — bucks, does or fawns — during the entire November 15-30 season.

Other hunters during this season can shoot only legal bucks.

In the lower peninsula, 24 areas covering 10,096 square miles of trouble area will be open to permit holders. The same conditions apply here for hunters. Those with permits may take any deer, those without can shoot only legal bucks.

Post Card Will Keep You Posted

Guess-work in planning Michigan fall color tours is a thing of the past.

The Michigan Tourist Council announced this week that for the fourth successive year it will offer prospective fall travelers a personalized service to let them know, by individually addressed cards, when the state's autumn color is at its best.

The Council's color information plan is the only one of its kind in the nation, according to executive secretary Robert J. Furlong. "It alerts travelers to the first showing of color in Michigan, and later announces the peak of the tutumn display as it marches across the upper and into the lower peninsula," he said.

"A card or letter to the Tourist Council, Lansing 26, is all that's necessary to keep posted on Michigan's fall color season."

Should Tecumseh Have a Civic Center?

(Editor's note: Six leading citizens met last week to explore the possibility of a civic center for Tecumseh. Among them was Allen Seager, novelist and University of Michigan professor who resides at 309 W. Chicago Blvd. and who prepared this article for The Herald.)

By ALLEN SEAGER

What is a civic center? Does Tecumseh need one? What should be in it?

Everybody knows the towns needs an auditorium for public meetings, plays, lectures, recitals. Everybody knows that the library is too small.

Everybody concedes that a bigger, better youth center would be a good idea.

Should there be a building here to include these things, open free to the public?

Should there be other features—a sports layout where kids and graduates could play basketball, indoor tennis, handball; an industrial show room; meeting rooms for clubs and organizations; even an art gallery?

Discussions have already been started about the need for such a place and how big it should be.

Since it ought to be a center for all the people in town, all the people in town ought to have a say in it while it is still being planned.

What do you think? Someone will ask you!

Council Seeks Revolving Fund

By JIM LINCOLN

Council unanimously approved legislation Monday night for placing the issue of a revolving fund before city property owners who are registered voters.

Village officials believe electoral approval will save considerable money and eliminate frequent, short term borrowing of money at a high interest rate.

Action taken entails the issuance of $100,000 in general obligation bonds, payable at a low rate of interest over a great number of years.

The revolving fund will be used for local improvements and should greatly assist people here in financing such improvements as sidewalks, sewer and water line installations.

Passage of the issue will not raise taxes, in fact, not even affect them, except possibly lower them in the future.

Property owners will be able to borrow from the city for such improvements over a longer period of time than what is now possible and also a lawyer rate of interest than now obtainable elsewhere.

City Attorney James Beardsley says, theoretically, that the revolving fund will provide the city for an indefinite time, the money it requires each year to properly make local improvements.

Enactment of a revolving fund for local improvements for cities first became legal in the state about a year ago. Tecumseh is believed to be the first city in Michigan to take advantage of it.

FFA MEMBERS at the meeting requested permission to erect a building in the area between the sewage disposal plant and the city dump for raising from four to six steers there.

A public hearing was scheduled Oct. 6 since the request violates city ordinance.

Representatives from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and the Travelers Insurance Company presented their plans for group insurance for city employees.

Mrs. G. Arthur Rathbun, by letter, thanked council for its resolution for her husband, the late Judge Rathbun.

THE Long & Short OF IT

MOST OF US PROBABLY agree that communists are a pretty slippery lot.

They build on deceit, lies, unkept promises.

To them the cliche and pat phrases are all important and they mimic their leaders to the letter —"imperialist captalists," "Warmongers," "peace-loving Russia," ad nausea.

Communism is difficult for most Americans to understand because we have never lived too closely to it — thank God.

But we can gain significant insight by reading such books as James Michener's "The Bridge at Andau."

The volume is nearly two years old, but its message is still fresh and vibrant.

"The Bridge at Andau" is a documentary of the Hungarian revolt in October, 1956, based entirely on interviews with refuges into Austria who crossed to freedom over a tiny span near the Village of Andau.

Author Michener, who is known for his "Tales of The South Pacific" (made into the stage musical, "South Pacific", is a writer who goes after the facts, sifts and analyses them, never accepts unless they are carefully substantiated.

His fascinating story recounts the fighting in Budapest, when Hungarians, bitter after five years of false promises, secret police torture, low wages and high prices, rise up against the Russians.

Almost unbelievable are the instances where civilians face Soviet tanks practically with their bare hands, dashing in close under machine guns and hurling home-made gasoline bombs at them.

In this daring manner they burned out several hundred tanks, helped stall the enemy efforts to crush the revolt.

As fascinating is Michener's summary of what happened.

Items:

*Hungarian intellectuals, who communism for the most part had won over previously, led the revolt thinking.

*Students, whom the Reds had coddled and babied as they spoon fed them the grandiose lies, started the demonstrations against Russia.

*Heavy industry workers, counted by communism as dyed-in-wool followers, pitched in during the fighting.

And in every instance listed above, the numbers taking part was not small, Mr. Mitchener points out, it was almost always 100%.

Communism wormed its way into Hungary as the Germans were driven out at the tail end of World War II.

To the oppressed natives, the promises the commies gayly tossed about looked good.

The nation went communistic. As time wore on the Hungarians realized the "Big Lie" they had swallowed. Particularly gnawing was the AVO, a force of Hungarian secret police which had the citizens so terrorized they were hestiate, to speak their thoughts less a friend report them.

Mr. Michener opinioned that every Communistic state must have such a group to keep the populace in a continued state of frenzied fear. Certainly the hollow promises, the eel-like antics of the commies could never for long leave a people content.

After several days of clobbering the Red tanks, killing Russian soldiers and AVO members, the people had scored a decisive victory. The Russians pulled out completely.

For five days, citizens of Budapest were free.

They printed newspapers, heard western radio news reports, saw free-world newsmen come into their land to get the story. Plans for a new government were started.

Then wham, it happened. The sixth day, the Soviets rolled up heavy artillery, began to blast the city. Then came 4,000 tanks and 200,000 troops.

Budapest was crushed, but not before the battling Hungarians had devoured many more tanks —again with gasoline bombs. But the military power of Russia was too much in the end.

Knowing their nation was doomed to live under continued Red oppression, more than 200,000 fled, most crossing at the Andau Bridge area into Austria.

The mass exodus swept out young and old—engineers, scientists, craftsmen, intellectuals. The blow of their loss to Hungary will continue to be felt for years, writer Michener stated.

The revolt had unmasked communism for what it really is —a sinister plot against worker, farmer, scholar.

Let us never forget it.

Methodists Again Active in UNICEF

The Methodist Church will again this year assist in the UNICEF Halloween Trick or Treat program.

The program, seven years old, has grown so rapidly that it now furnishes enough money to free many children from the bondage of disease and malutrition on three continents.

If other churches would be interested in cooperating in the program they are asked to call Mrs. Robert Bonner, phone 838.

Indian Eleven Opens Season Friday Night

With a raft of veterans and two new coaches, Tecumseh High School faces Hudson on Recreation Field Friday night at 8 in the opening game of a nine-game schedule.

The Indian gridders of '58 are strictly a question mark at this time, but there is a real possibility they could fashion a winning season.

In newcomers Duncan Leckta as head mentor, assisted by Mike Rotunno, the THS 11 has expert coaching. Both men have fashioned outstanding accomplishments in the sport.

Coach Leckta's starting offensive unit has six seniors, all battle tested.

Ends will be Bob O'Neill and Terry Hendricks.

Tackles—Dave Hohenstein and Dave Champonis.

Guards—Jim Neitling and Jim Curth.

Center—Lee Britton.

Quarterback—Larry Yoakum.

☆

ON DEFENSE, the Indians will have O'Neill and Cisco at ends, Bob Wilkins and Roger Korte at tackles and Gurth middle guard.

Inside line backers will be Neitling and Champanois; Weakly and Don Sweet, corner or outside backers.

Yoakum and Walters have been assigned to the deep positions.

Wilkins, Korte and Sweet are fourth-year men.

The 208-pound Cisco will be making his Tecumseh debut against his former mates, having been an honorable mention all-stater there last fall.

Once again, half-time intermission entertainment will be provided by Don Johnson's marching band. The 73 musicians and majorettes will present a 15-minute show, "Hello Football."

Musical Delights Audience

(Editor's note: Mrs. Jadwin, who kindly has reviewed last week's musical comedy, is a second grade teacher in the Tecumseh system.)

By MRS. GLORIA JADWIN

The thrill of opening night hung heavy on the air Saturday night at the Strand Theatre when the Clark Lake Players presented "The Boy Friend."

After many last-minute changes and adjustments, the curtain rose, and Tecumseh was treated to a "live" performance that will long be remembered by all who witnessed it.

The audience was completely won-over with the entrance of Eleanor Harker as Madame Dubonnet. The reaction and audience response spurred the cast on to greater efforts.

The heighth of the performance came with the entrance of Harold Rosier as Lord Brockhurst. His characterization was perfectly delightful and satisfied everyone's desire for the slightly risque.

The roles of Polly and Tony as played by Brooks Bandfield and Bob Waldo of the University of Michigan Theatre were refreshing portrayals of young love, and they won everyone by their naivete.

Weaker spots of the performance was "The Carnival Tango", and the part of Percival Browne, which was rather "on and off again" characterization.

On the whole the performance was as enjoyable as many a Broadway show and gave us all a taste of the glamour of the bright lights.

Spectators Like The Boy Friend

Statements by some of the people attending "The Boy Friend":

JACK SHUTT—"I liked it very much and thought the response from the people of Tecumseh was good. I hope it will encourage other groups to do more of the same for Tecumseh".

MRS. DON PURKEY—"Enjoyed it immensely — sorry more people didn't attend because I 'feel they missed so much. I would like to see an amateur group get started in Tecumseh. Would also like to see more of this thing, too. Both Don and I enjoyed it so much".

MRS. VERN MANWARING — "We liked it very much."

MRS. TOM CORKERY — "Enjoyed it immensely because I helped with the ushering. I hope we can get a group of our own going. I'm very much interested".

MRS. ARTHUR SCHWARTZ—"We thought it was wonderful. It was two hours of good entertainment."

COLE LaMASTER — "It was wonderful in every respect. I think Tecumseh should have more shows of this nature, possibly a group of our own. I'm no actor, but I'm a good prop man".

BILL HANNA—"I thought it was very good, real light comedy, very laughable. I enjoyed it".

WALT NICHOLS—"They were an excellent group, very, very fine. I tried to catch as many comments as possible as the audience was leaving and they were all good. I believe that it is the best presented stage show in this theatre in my 19 years in Tecumseh. It was well staged and well produced. Hope they'll return".

MRS EARL BALDWIN — "I thought the people were very talented. There were a couple of instances when they didn't act too professional, but on the whole I thought they were very good. Even my husband enjoyed it."

Child Study Club Again Sponsoring Girl Scout Troop

Mrs. Keith Barron opened her home for the meeting of Child Study Club No. 1 September 8. Mrs. Owen Partridge and Mrs. Norman Bailey were co-hostesses.

During the meeting members voted to sponsor Girl Scout Troop No. 1 again this year with Mrs. Jerry O'Brien as committee woman to work with the troop. Members also voted to send two delegates to the annual October Convention held in East Lansing.

It was decided that the annual bazaar will be held in October.

Program leader, Mrs. Jack Shutt, turned the program over to Attorney James Beardsley who spoke on "Laws Affecting the Family."

Favors for the evening were made by Mrs. Wilbur Andrews, Mrs. Charles Clark and Mrs. Lloyd Westcott.

Grangers See Film 'God Is My Landlord'

The film, "God is My Landlord," was shown to members of the Tecumseh Grange Thursday evening.

Booster Night will be observed at the next meeting which will be postponed from Thursday until Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barrett will be chairman of the supper committee.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Patterson PTA

Oscar Bryan, president of Patterson PTA, announced that no meeting will be held in September due to general changes that are taking place in the school system.

It has been necessary to store equipment in the Patterson gym and rather than remove it and have to replace again it seemed prudent to postpone the first meeting until October.

COMING HERE—When Mrs. Jackie Bixler of Jackson (right), choreographer for "The Boy Friend", came to Tecumseh last week with the show the community so impressed her, she decided to open a dance studio here. Mrs. Bixler and her husband have been operating a studio in Jackson for some time.

Interested in Joining Little Theatre Group?

Can it be that a Little Theatre Group will be forming in Tecumseh? There appear to be some interest to get such a group started.

Such a group requires many talents — not only acting, but directing, lighting, costumes, publicity, stage crews, artists to make scenery. Good electricians are essential too.

To be really effective, stock should be sold for funds to purchase equipment, hire an experienced director, rent a place for public appearances.

Fourteen persons filled in the backs of their tickets to "The Boy Friend," indicating their interest in participating in such a group. Others were heard to say later that they had intended to fill in the form.

☆

TO GET your name on the list of those interested, just call 492.

Theatre work is strictly for the joy of doing it with a group of enthusiastic people. The toil is fun in itself and is its own payment.

Teen-agers, welcome, along with the adults.
